Most for your money and save needless expenses now. It is true economy to build up your system and prevent sickness by taking Hood's Pills.

Hood's Pills are prompt, efficient and easy in effect. 25 cents.

Women and Headaches.
The woman with the headache is a creature to be pitied. Generally she could help it if she would, or rather prevent. A headache is simply nature's revenge for some crime against it. It comes usually from overeating, under-eating, or irregular eating, which causes indigestion, and gases on the stomach cause pressure on the brain, and that causes the very worst of headaches. The next commonest ailment is weak eyes and necessity for glasses.

Its Lesson.
From the hard times people will reap lessons of experience, learning how to act with more care in business and how to apply remedies for the stringency of such times. With more care we will have less accidents, and much less suffering if we know the true remedy. In the field and workshop, in fact in all activities, sprains and bruises happen and bring the hard times of pain and suffering. Experience teaches that it is always best to get the best remedy, which is the cheapest in the end. Experience points to St. Jacobs Oil as without question the best remedy for such mishaps, being the surest and promptest cure. Suffering brings hard times, even in prosperity. The best remedy for it is the surest way out of them.

Profits of Authors.
The fond delusion that successful authors roll in wealth is fostered by such items as "Mrs. Burnett has been offered $15,000 to write a story for the Lippincott's," or that "Mark Twain cleared $100,000 from the sale of General Grant's Memoirs." A few authors, and you can count them upon the fingers of one hand, do make big money out of literature, but let us see what the ordinarily successful one makes. In the first place the answer to the question above is that a sale of 5,000 copies is considered a very successful one, and that a sale of 2,000 copies pays. We are speaking now, say, of a cloth-covered novel which retails at $1.00.

The entire proceeds, then, of such a book will fall considerably under $5,000, for it must be remembered that a $1 book is not always sold for 100 cents. A 12mo novel contains about 250 pages, or 75,000 words. On a rough estimate such a book will cost the publisher about 30 cents a copy. This includes composing, printing and binding. The entire expenses, including a royalty of 10 per cent to the author, the usual rate, and the advertising, will amount to 50 cents. For this book, which costs the publisher 50 cents, he gets from 60 to 65 cents, leaving him a profit of from 10 to 15 cents.

This profit is generally increased somewhat by the retail sales of the publishing house. Publishers are bound—and this is for the protection of the book stores—to sell a $1 book for $1. Enough books are sold by them at this price to bring up the average profit, say, to 15 cents. Thus a publisher who sells 5,000 copies of a novel will make about $750 out of the transaction—not a very large profit for the capital invested and the risk involved. The profits of the author at 10 per cent will amount to $500, that is to say, his labor of writing and revising and his time for which he is not certain of any return, not to mention the mental wear and tear, about seven mills a word. Magnificent pay, and yet he is a successful author.

Of course there are some books, but they are very few, which make phenomenal success, and these are the ones which are read about from one end of the country to another. Most publishers say that it hardly pays in this present era of cheap paper-covered novels to publish the more expensive cloth-covered editions.

"TAUSE MY MAMMA LOVES ME SO."
"Tause my mamma loves me so,"
Said a little maid of three,
When I asked her how it was
She was dressed so daintily.

"Tause my mamma loves me so,"
Sweetest thought a child may know;
Dearest words she ever said—
"Tause my mamma loves me so."

Tause her mamma loves her so,
God-sent angel from the sky;
Bless her little, trustful heart,
Sweet and pure and frankly shy.
—Philip Kaye, in Chicago Record.

THE MOUSE AND THE RABBIT.
A mouse endeavored to convince a rabbit of the advantage of wearing a long tail.

"You," said he, "are not admitted to the best society, like myself, and I do not doubt this is the sole reason. Certainly a long tail does give one an air."

While the two friends were arguing, a kite swooped down upon them, and each betook himself to his hiding place. The rabbit was fairly hidden, but the mouse was easily discovered and drawn from his place of refuge, into which he had not time to draw his boasted badge of society. As the kite bore off his prey, the rabbit remarked quietly: "My friend, the mouse, would have been better off had he not been quite so distinguished."

AFTER THE PEACH IS GONE.
What do you suppose becomes of all the peach stones that are discarded by the hundreds of thousands in the great peach-canning factories, to say nothing of the many that are left from the peaches we are all eating every day while the delicious fruit lasts? Have you ever thought anything about them, except that they were not good to eat? They are not; that is so; but they have a use, however—several, indeed. Bushels and bushels of them are sold to fruit growers, who plant them to grow young peach trees, that are in turn set out for peach orchards. From the oil of the kernel that is found in the inside of the stone a powerful drug, prussic acid is distilled. It is a poison if taken even in a very small quantity, but it is a valuable and useful drug for various laboratory purposes. A third use of the peach-pits is to dry them and use for fuel, for which purpose they are excellent.—Chicago Record.

BOYHOODS THE BOYS.
The question agitating the college boys who have entered those places of learning this term is, "What shall we call ourselves?" The freshmen of '95 will be graduated in 1900, and following a long-honored custom of dropping the first two integers of the year, they should call themselves the class of '00. But that is laughable, and means nothing. It is not to be thought of, they say spirit-edly. Yet the long "1900" has a very odd sound, and besides, will be very hard to contrive a yell for. Even the girls' colleges are fretting over the question, but can see no way out of the dilemma except the use of the full date—1900. At least it will be a compensation for the awkward designation to be graduated in so remarkable a year as 1900, when the century date is to be altered, and the "18" that has been in use for a hundred years must yield to "19." We shall all make some odd slips of the pen before we can readily write off that new date when it comes.—New York Times.

A HORSE'S SAUCINESS.
This incident was related to me by a friend, who was the small boy of the story:
"From my earliest recollection my father was fond of horses, and he usually kept from one to five in his stable. They were well cared for, and in return he expected good service and speed. We had one horse, Fan, who was the pet of the family, and was considered so safe that I, a little fellow in kilts, was allowed to play around her head and heels without restraint.
"One day I was playing in the yard as usual while old Fan was being hitched up. When all was ready; father jumped into the wagon, gath-

STABBED BY ROBBERS.

Woman Killed and Her Husband Badly Injured.
Mrs. Casper Laboy, of Nesquehoning, was stabbed to death and her husband seriously injured by robbers, who forced an entrance into Mr. Laboy's house Monday morning. Laboy heard the robbers in the house and attacked one of them, who stabbed him in several places. Mrs. Laboy tried to reach the street to call for help, when she was met in the hallway and stabbed to death. Three Hungarians were captured shortly before noon on the outskirts of the town. They suffered more or less for many years, and about three years ago, I arose one morning to find myself crippled, and the least exertion brought on most excruciating pains, so that I was forced to seek relief by going to bed and remaining motionless. Our family physician was immediately summoned, and he began the usual course of remedies but instead of helping me I became worse. My joints, especially in my left arm were inflamed and hot, I suffered much from depression of the heart, and constant sweats, which were of a sour, ill-smelling nature. My appetite failed me, my tongue was thickly coated, and altogether I was in a bad way. In addition to this, worry of mind because I could not attend to the spring work on two cases which I owned, made my condition deplorable.

"While in this unhappy state, my friend, Mr. Amos Jaquays, of Columbus Centre, hearing of my illness, came over and recommended me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He also stated that William Woodman, whom I had known to be a terrible rheumatic sufferer all his life, was through this remedy now in the best of health.
"To make a long story short, I sent over to Mr. Stiles York, who keeps a store and sells groceries by wagon through the county, for a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and began to take them according to directions. The results of the new treatment were astonishing, as after taking nine of the pills I was able to ever since have done my full share of labor.
"Pink Pills are now our physician. We always keep them in the house, and doctors here have ceased to be a part of the family expenses.
"These pills are becoming pretty well known in this part of the county, as all who have here used them swear by them, and do all in their power to make their virtues known.
"The above is a true statement, and if necessary I will make oath to the same."
—Wm. Dale.

A FISHERMAN'S STORY.

Exposure Came Near Ending His Life.

From the Press, Utica, N. Y.
Mr. William Dale is a highly respected farmer living in that part of the township of Brookfield known as the "Waterman District," and is well known as a thrifty and honorable man of independent means. Three years ago Mr. Dale was disabled from rheumatism in a most aggravated form, which medical skill seemed powerless to relieve, but suddenly he became to all appearance cured, was able to attend to his work, and ever since has been in looks at least the incarnation of sound bodily health.

The following is Mr. Dale's own statement of his case and what wrought the change.
"I am fifty-one years old, and by birth an Englishman. In my early life I followed the avocation of fisherman, in which by exposure I contracted rheumatism, from which I suffered more or less for many years. About three years ago, I arose one morning to find myself crippled, and the least exertion brought on most excruciating pains, so that I was forced to seek relief by going to bed and remaining motionless. Our family physician was immediately summoned, and he began the usual course of remedies but instead of helping me I became worse. My joints, especially in my left arm were inflamed and hot, I suffered much from depression of the heart, and constant sweats, which were of a sour, ill-smelling nature. My appetite failed me, my tongue was thickly coated, and altogether I was in a bad way. He also stated that William Woodman, whom I had known to be a terrible rheumatic sufferer all his life, was through this remedy now in the best of health.
