

The Star.

Subscription $1.00 per year, in advance.
C. A. STEPHENSON, Editor and Pub.
 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, 1907.

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, in advance. Communications intended for publication must be accompanied by the writer's name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Interesting news items solicited. Advertising rates made known on application at the office in Reynoldsville, Pa.

Leighly communications and change of advertisements should reach this office by Monday noon. Address all communications to C. A. Stephenson, Reynoldsville, Pa. Entered at the postoffice at Reynoldsville, Pa., as second class mail matter.

Congressman W. C. Arnold, of DuBois, is spoken of as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. Time will tell whether William's aspiration will be realized or not.

There are some people in the world who are liberal with their cash and gather wealth. There are also others who squeeze a dollar so hard that the goddess of Liberty gets blue in the face, who die poor. It is all right to be saving, but it don't pay to be too stingy.

A church debating society in Philadelphia has been discussing the question: "If a man has but one hour a day to devote to recreational reading, he should employ that time in reading a newspaper." We do not see that better advice could be given the mechanic, the clerk or other busy worker, and, better than that, it appears to be the rule of uncounted millions.

The Cabinet of the new administration is free from discrimination on account of birth, and social antecedents, &c. The Secretary of State was born in a log cabin. The Secretary of the Navy and the Postmaster-General are the only college graduates. The Secretary of the Treasury was once a watchman in a lumber yard. The Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Interior are self-made millionaires. The Attorney-General is a co-religionist of the Lord Chief-Justice of Great Britain, and the Secretary of Agriculture is of foreign birth.

Think of it? About seven hundred bills have already been read in the legislature. Great Scott! What statute books we would have if all the bills presented were passed? A number of these bills are born, apparently, for no other purpose than that the man who presents them feels that he is duty bound to try to get a new law passed that he may try to impress his constituents with the thought that his election was not a failure and that he had better be re-elected for another term. There is too much worthless legislation and a failure to enforce the laws we already have.

The Grand Army is dying at the rate of 100 a day. Every fifteen minutes of the twenty-four hours the final taps sound for some one who wore the blue. Each year puts under more old soldiers than there are enlisted men and officers in the entire United States army. Time is carrying them off faster in the '90s than bullets did in the '60s. The war lasted four years to a month. In those four years 84,000 men fell in battle on the Union side. But now between 35,000 and 36,000 die in the course of nature each succeeding twelve months. And for every three Union veterans who go to fame's eternal camping ground, two Confederates are numbered with the dead.

People who have experienced the peculiar sensation of shock from an earthquake say that it differs from any other catastrophe, such as a railroad accident, a fall from an elevation or a blow from a heavy object, in the fact that while the victim retains consciousness, he is unable to locate the source of the stroke—it seems to come from everywhere. He feels the earth sinking and rising, he sees buildings rocking, hears the crashing of falling timbers, stones and other objects; but the mysterious source of the disturbance is peculiarly terrifying because it is invisible and cannot be located by sound or touch nor by any of the senses. The demoralizing effect of this feeling of helplessness and uncertainty is indescribable. People run hither and thither seeking safety; but, alas! there is no assurance of escape, for at such a time there is no solid ground to stand upon.

The Washington Post says: "Certain people who had apprehensions last Maj. McKinley might lack decision of character, have been relieved of all anxiety on that score. He is affable, he is gracious, and even cordial, to everyone who calls, but he is like a stone wall when the candidate runs against him, and has as large a stock of silence at his disposal as Gen. Grant. People are beginning to notice a resemblance in President McKinley to the silent soldier. He can listen patiently and with manifest attention to whatever is said to him, and let the speaker go without offering any reply whatever. He does not gush like Garfield, or endeavor to explain his difficulties like Hayes. He is never rude and gruff like Cleveland, and he does not give his visitors the chills as President Harrison did. He manages to show a cordial interest in everyone, but is as firm as the eternal rocks when people try to crowd him."

Big Stone Contract.

Anthony Garzor, a bridge contractor of Allegheny City, who has secured the contract to build the new Carnegie railroad bridge across the Allegheny river, near Pittsburg, was in Falls Creek last week and made arrangements with Hon. A. C. Hopkins, of Lock Haven, who is an extensive land owner in the vicinity of Falls Creek, to secure a large amount of stone from Mr. Hopkins' land for the stone work of the bridge. The Falls Creek correspondent to the DuBois Express, in speaking of the stone contract, says:

The quarries will be very extensive. The amount of stone required will reach many thousands of tons and will require a large amount of labor. The contractor hopes to be able to put out about 25,000 tons of material this season, but 50,000 may be required on the season following. The number of men employed will run from 50 to 150 according as the work progresses. The plant is located on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad and a siding will be put in at once and building material will shortly be unloaded on the grounds for the purpose of constructing houses and boarding places for the large number of men to whom employment will be given. The preliminary work will occupy about one month's time and active operations at the quarries will be commenced as soon as possible. The work of building the siding and necessary buildings will be commenced at once.

Tour to California via Pennsylvania Railroad.

In Southern California is found the realization of a dream of the ancients. Here are the "Golden Apples of the Hesperides," ripening beneath a sky more beautiful than that of Rome, and in a climate more perfect than that of Athens. Never in the wildest flight of his imagination did either Homer or Hesiod ever conceive of a garden richer in verdant beauty, more productive of luscious fruit, or set amid more picturesque and lovely surroundings. Here the rose entwines the orange, and snow-capped peaks of the Sierras reflect the golden glow of the evening twilight.

The last of the Pennsylvania Railroad tours to California will leave New York and Philadelphia March 27, stopping at Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Colorado Springs and the "Garden of the Gods," and Salt Lake City. Tourists will travel by special train of Pullman palace cars going, and returning on regular trains via any route within nine months. Regular one-way or round-trip tickets will be issued for this tour in connection with a special ticket covering Pullman accommodations, meals, and other tour features going, and railroad transportation on regular trains returning; and one-way tickets, including transportation and all tour features going, will be sold at the following rates:

Round trip	One way
New York,	$208 00	$141 75
Philadelphia,	203 00	140 25
Washington, D. C.,	197 00	138 50
