Mrs. M. C. Coleman and Mrs. C. Mitchell started this morning to drive to Clarion and Reidsburg to visit relatives. This is Mrs. Mitchell's first visit into that section of Clarion county in twenty years.

A journeyman barber named John Flynn, of Rochester, N. Y., who had worked at Falls Creek a short time, attempted to jump on a freight train at that place Monday afternoon and fell under the wheels and was so badly injured that he died shortly afterwards.

Rev. George Ballentine, of Reidsburg, Clarion county, filled the Baptist pulpit in this place Sunday. Rev. Thomas W. Booth was to have preached here Sunday, but he was requested to preach in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in McKeesport Sunday, hence the change. Rev. T. W. Booth will preach for the Baptists in this place next Sunday.

On Wednesdays, September 29th and October 13th, the Allegheny Valley Railway will sell excursion tickets to Pittsburg and return from the stations named at the following rates, which include admission to the Exposition: Falls Creek $4.65, Panoast $4.55, Sherwood $4.50, Reynoldsville $4.45, Hopkins $4.35, Camp Run $4.35, and Fuller $4.20.

James Martin, passenger conductor, and Frank Mitchell, baggagemaster, both employees of the A. V. R'y and denizens of the little hamlet called Driftwood, were seen among the pedestrians on the streets of Reynoldsville last Friday. As these gentlemen were both citizens of this place in years that have long since been marked off the calendar of time, they were not entire strangers and did not get lost amidst the crowd.

The Woman's Relief Corps will hold a market in the Nolan block Saturday afternoon and evening. Their specialty will be a pie sale. There will also be home-made bread, cake, &c. Members are requested, as well as any others who wish to aid, to bring a liberal supply from their week's baking, so there will be no lack of material to supply the demand. The proceeds are for the purpose of making a room comfortable for an old soldier and his wife in Memorial Home.

Rev. James H. Jelbart and family are visiting in this place. Rev. Jelbart, who is a Methodist preacher, was moved by the recent annual conference from Stanton, Pa., to Johnsonburg. He was at his new appointment Sunday. He will marry a couple at Mt. Pleasant today, will go to Mosgrove to remain a few days and on Monday will go to Pittsburg to marry a couple. He will take his family as far as Mosgrove with him. Next week they will go to Johnsonburg and he will take up his work at that place.

A tent has been pitched on the vacant lot next to the Catholic parsonage, in which a series of religious meetings will be held every evening for several weeks. The people who will have charge of the services are known as "The Saints," or "The Church of the Living God." The ministers will be I. S. McCoy, John Williams and others. Services will be held Sunday at 10.00 A. M., 2.30 and 8.00 P. M. Repentance, justification, sanctification and Divine Healing will be set forth in the light of the Bible, so we were informed by Rev. McCoy.

Ladies of the W. R. C. were to have held a "market" Saturday afternoon in the room recently vacated by Bolger in the Nolan block, but as the room had been cleaned and made ready for Bing & Co. to move their store into it Monday, the ladies could not get the room, but as they had the "stuff" on hand they did not propose to give up for the sake of a room to do business in and they opened the market on the street in front of the room which they were to have used and they did as much, perhaps more, business as they would have done in the building.

Seventeen Applications.

At the meeting of the Century Council No. 789, Royal Arcanum, last Thursday evening there were seventeen applications made for membership.

Party Last Night.

Miss Maud Histon gave a delightful party to a number of young people last night at the home of Alex Riston, on Grant street, in honor of her cousin, Miss Luella Riston, of Braddock, Pa.

Arm Broken.

Lennie Henninger, a lad about eleven years old, had his left arm broken yesterday afternoon while on his way home from school. He was tussling with another boy coming down the steep hill from school building and was thrown and received the fractured arm.

Masonic Banquet.

Hon. Wm. M. Meredith, D. D. G. M., of Kittanning, made his annual visit to inspect John M. Reed Lodge of Masons in this place Tuesday evening of last week. After lodge about forty members went to Frank's Tavern where an excellent banquet had been prepared for them.

Reception This Evening.

Dr. C. C. Rumberger and family will be given a reception in the lecture room of the M. E. church this evening. The reception is under the management of the Epworth League, but all the members of the church and congregation are requested to be present to give the new preacher a hearty welcome.

Two Toes Amputated.

Sherman Wilson, of Panoast, met with an accident last Friday which necessitated the amputation of two toes of the right foot. He was driving down a hill on a hay-bailer and accidentally stepped off the narrow railing he was standing on and his foot was caught under a wheel. Dr. J. C. King amputated the toes.

State Veterinarian Coming.

The Board of Health received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Leonard Pearson, State Veterinarian, stating that he would arrive in Reynoldsville today, Wednesday, to investigate the report of anthrax at this place. His coming is the result of prompt action on the part of the Board of Health of Reynoldsville.

Serenaded Last Night.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Dunsmore arrived in West Reynoldsville last evening and were surrounded by a enthusiastic band. Some of the railroad boys had red light with them and when Mr. and Mrs. Dunsmore made their appearance a match was set to it and the serenaders had a good view of the bride in the glare of the red light.

Improved Order Heptasophs.

F. H. Gallagher, formerly of Allegheny City, for the present sojourning with his father-in-law, Noah Strouse in Paradise Settlement, is making an effort, and meeting with success, to organize an Improved Order Heptasophs in Reynoldsville. It is a beneficial and fraternal organization for social purposes and to create a benefit fund.

Chickens Eating Maggots.

The creek at Falls Creek was almost dried up before the recent rains and what little water remained was so filthy that it was alive with maggots. A gentleman from this place, who was waiting for a train at Falls Creek, was attracted by the unusualness of chickens wading into the water. He made an investigation and found the chickens were eating maggots.

N. U. Bond Not Guilty.

The grand jury for the February term of court recommended that charges be brought against N. U. Bond, a young lawyer of Brockwayville, for carrying deadly weapons into jail to the Dodsons during their trial last December for the murder of Lewis Helman, Bond being their attorney. The case was tried last week. The jury's verdict was "not guilty, but pay the costs."

Will Report This Week.

A part of the committee that went from this section into the Pittsburg region the first of last week, returned Friday, but have not made a report yet. A scale committee of the miners and operators of the Pittsburg district, and representatives from this district, met in Pittsburg yesterday. After this meeting the investigating committee will be able to make a report to the men in this district.

Tax Collector Resigned.

L. G. Lidle, of Rathmel, who was elected tax collector of Winslow township, has resigned and Ed. Moore, of Rathmel, and W. H. Reber, of Sykesville, are out with petitions getting signatures to have the court appoint them to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Lidle's resignation. Just which one will get the appointment will not be known until about the first of October, when Judge Reed will settle the matter.

Fire Thursday Morning.

A dwelling house near the east end of Worth street, occupied by Thomas L. McPherson and owned by Miss Katie Smith, who works at Hotel Imperial, caught fire about 7.30 and was badly gutted before the firemen succeeded in putting out the fire. It is not known whether the fire originated from a spark on the roof or a defective flue. Mr. McPherson was at work in the mine and most all his household goods on the second floor were burned. Miss Smith had $400 insurance on the house. Both fire companies were prompt in getting to the fire.

Struck a Klondyke.

Ex-Sheriff W. B. Sutter, of Lindsey, Pa., brother of J. J. Sutter, of this place, struck a small Klondyke at home last week, or rather Uncle Sam sent it to him in the shape of a pension and postmastership. It was first announced that he had been granted a pension of $10.00 per month and received $500.00 back pension. In a day or two afterwards he was appointed postmaster at Lindsey. Surely Mr. Sutter's "ship came in" last week. The gold fields of Alaska will not do so well for many a chap who has packed his "grip" and hied away to that region within the past few months. Uncle Sam is a pretty good fellow after all.

SEPARATED HALF CENTURY AGO.

A Pittsburger Finds an Uncle in Reynoldsville Whom He Never Saw Before.

Henry J. Cartin, who has lived in Reynoldsville a score of years, was born in City Droehda, Ireland, about eighty-six years ago. When a young man he drifted from the "Isle of the Shamrock" to America, locating at Greenwood, Pa. Afterwards living at Birmingham, Bellefonte, Brookville and Reynoldsville. In 1850 Nicholas Carten came from Boston, Mass., to Greenwood, Pa., to visit his brother, Henry J. Nicholas returned to Boston and soon afterwards moved to Pittsburg and afterwards to Ironton, Ohio, and Henry moved to Birmingham, Pa. Thus the brothers lost track of each other and never met again. Seven years ago Nicholas crossed over the border line into eternity.

H. J. Cartin, who lives in Pittsburg and has a position in the circulation department of the Pittsburg Times, was sent out several weeks ago to work up the circulation of that paper in this section. Through a barber at New Bethlehem he learned that there was a man in Reynoldsville named H. J. Cartin, and from what he gathered there and at Brookville he was positive it was the lost uncle whom he had never seen, but whom he was named after and had often heard his father talk about. The newspaper representative got into Reynoldsville on Saturday evening, 11th inst., and on the following day called at the home of H. J. Cartin, on Jackson street, to establish a relationship, which he was not long in doing. His old uncle, who is now tottering on the verge of the grave, was delighted to see his nephew and learn something of the brother from whom he had not heard for forty-seven years.

In Ireland the family name was spelled Carten, but in some way our townsman changed the spelling of his name from Carten to Cartin, but Nicholas and his family stuck to the good old Irish way of spelling the name.

Tribute to Dr. Rumberger.

Dr. C. C. Rumberger, the new pastor of the M. E. church, was here Sunday to fill his pulpit. He will move to Reynoldsville this week. Speaking of the departure of Dr. Rumberger and family from East Brady, the Review of that place pays this tribute to them:

Rev. C. C. Rumberger delivered his farewell sermon in the M. E. church on Sunday evening and on Tuesday left for Oil City accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Mary, to attend the annual conference of this district. Rev. Rumberger has been the pastor of the church at this place for five years, the longest any minister has held the charge and the longest term allowed any minister of this denomination to remain the pastor of one church. He has been a power for good in this community and there are hundreds of people who feel the most profound regret that he must leave. One of the strongest characteristics of the retiring minister is his energy. He is absolutely indefatigable and his capacity for work is unlimited, which accounts in the greatest measure for his success. The church has been built up in structure as well as membership, and he has left behind a reputation and record that is excelled by none. A physician who had given up a large practice to enter the ministry, he rendered skillful assistance to many poor and needy families in the community, and wherever there was sickness, outside of his congregation as well as in it, there Dr. Rumberger was found, and he always brought comfort and hope and by his happy presence drove away many a cloud that hung low over a home. By old and young he will be greatly missed, and by none so much as those who enjoy the beauties of nature, as his active mind found a vent in out-door sports and recreation of various kinds. His wife stands to the front also side by side with him in the grand work that has been accomplished and we doubt not that he will give the little lady who has shared his lot most of the credit for the success of his work here which she deserves. Rev. and Mrs. Rumberger and daughter, Miss Mary, will leave behind a larger number of friends, both in and out of the congregation he so ably presided over, than is generally the lot of the average minister, and the kindest wishes will follow them to their new charge, wherever it may be.

Elk County Man Had a Vision.

One of the most preposterous falsehoods that has been sent broadcast through this section for some time, is the story of the man who was turned into stone for blasphemy. The lie has located the man at a dozen different places in Jefferson and Clarion counties. Last week a gentleman in this place received a letter concerning the petrified man, which we publish just as it was written:

INSTANTER ELK CO PA. Sir is the petrified man moved yet or not I have read it in the paper I also had a vision of the seen I could not tell whether it would come to pass or be a deusion if it is so I would like to hear from you or some one from Reynoldsville if he cant be moved I will try and move him I would like from 755 to 75,000 people on the spot and if our fathers in heaven will do the work it will be done I will show the people sees their eyes have never seen it will be the work of god and not of man Yours truly Mr

Going to Training School.

Miss Lillian A. Sykes, oldest daughter of G. W. Sykes of the Reynoldsville Woolen Co., started to Philadelphia this morning to take a course in the Baptist Training School in the "Quaker City." In this school the pupils are trained for christian work, either home or foreign. Miss Sykes does not know what line of work she will take up until she is admitted to the school. It requires two years for the full course. Miss Sykes expects to remain one year at least.

PRONOUNCE IT ANTHRAX.

PEOPLE HAVE CAUSE FOR ALARM - ONE CASE HERE.

The Board of Health Propose to See That the Greatest Precaution is Taken.

We do not wish to pose as an alarmist nor do we want to get the people unduly exercised over the matter, but we believe the people living along the Sandy Lick creek, and all the streams into which its waters flow, have reason to be somewhat alarmed, and we believe it is our duty to sound the tocsin of warning. In July four men died at Falls Creek and twenty-five cattle died at the same place and as far down the stream as Panoast. A few of these cattle were buried deep, some just merely covered with dirt and others were left lying near the creek bank to decompose. The cause was pronounced by some of the physicians to be anthrax, supposed to have been carried into Falls Creek on foreign hides shipped to the tannery at that place. The matter was referred to state authorities, but for some reason there seemed to be carelessness on the part of some person, and the matter was not as thoroughly investigated as it should have been and the precaution taken that was required.

Last Thursday evening a cow owned by Thomas Gricks, of this place, showed signs of sickness and, fortunately, she was not milked and a few hours afterwards she died. The animal was buried Friday. Hon. S. B. Elliott, who has been considerably exercised over the disease that carried off the four men and so many cattle at and near Falls Creek, being pretty well satisfied that it was anthrax, and knowing what a terrible disease it is, learned Friday afternoon of the sudden death of Gricks' cow and he and L. M. Simmons, president of the local Board of Health, called on Mrs. Gricks and inquired as to the symptoms of the disease on the cow. The symptoms were favorable for anthrax and after consulting with several members of the Board of Health, Dr. J. B. Neale, health officer for Board of Health, telephoned to Brookville for Dr. Hoffman, veterinarian, to come to Reynoldsville to hold a post mortem examination. So Dr. Hoffman didn't "happen to be in Reynoldsville" Saturday, as stated by the Courier. The body of the cow was exhumed and while holding the autopsy Dr. Hoffman said he felt positive that anthrax was the cause of the cow's death, but he would not assert positively until a microscopic examination was made. He took some of the spleen, liver and stomach with him to Brookville and on Sunday he and Dr. A. F. Balmer, of Brookville, local agent State Board of Health, examined the specimens microscopically and pronounced the disease anthrax.

Two cows owned by Pagul Renni died suddenly a few weeks ago and it is now thought their death was caused by anthrax. Gricks' cow and the Italian's two cows had all been pastured on the bottom land below town and had access to the Sandy Lick creek. Wednesday morning of last week County Commissioner Murray, who lives near the bank of the creek at Long View or South Brookville, lost a valuable cow that had symptoms of anthrax in a mild form. The Gricks cow was cremated after the veterinarian had cut her open and secured what he wanted. All the animals that die with this dread disease should be burned. Had this been done at Falls Creek it might have saved trouble that no one knows where it will now end.

Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says: Anthrax is a severe and usually fatal contagious disease. It affects all animals exposed to its contagion. The herbivora are especially susceptible. Man, the dog, and other omnivora and carnivora may be attacked by it in a constitutional form as fatal as in the herbivora, but fortunately in some cases, develop from it only local trouble, followed by recovery. In the animal body the bacilli have a tendency to be filtered from the blood by the tissues of the organs through which the fluid passes, and to accumulate in the spleen, liver and elsewhere. When eliminated from the animal in the excretions, or when exposed to outside influences by the death of the animal and the disintegration of the tissues, the body of the rod is destroyed and the spores only remain. These spores, which are the germs of the virus, retain their vitality for a long period; they resist ordinary putrefaction; they are unchanged by moisture and they are not affected by moderate heat. If buried in the body of an animal dead from anthrax, they may be washed deep in the ground, and in later years (in one proven case seventeen years) be brought to the surface and infect other animals. The virus is carried with wool from infected sheep and remains in it through the process of manufacture into cloth. The spores remain in the hides of animals which have died of anthrax and retain their vitality throughout months of soaking in the tanners' pits, the working of the harness-maker or the cobbler and after the tanning of the completed leather. The dried spores in the dust from these products may be carried by the atmosphere.

Capt. Reynolds Gets an Appointment.

The following special from Harrisburg appeared in the Pittsburg Commercial yesterday: Capt. T. C. Reynolds, of Reynoldsville, has been appointed a clerk in the pure food bureau of the department of agriculture, on the recommendation of Senator "Jim" Mitchell, of Jefferson. Reynolds has been ordered to report for duty October 1 to assist James Terry, who takes the place of Frank N. Moore in the Pittsburg district. Moore has been dropped from the list of deputies, and other changes will be made in the bureau next month.
