A good citizen doesn't lay awake o' nights worrying about the penalty of the law for stealing or committing some other deprecation.

To mix a diet of literature and science, of imagination and fact, in the right proportions for a child is no mean art; though there are not wanting practitioners who are more than willing to undertake it.—Russell.

The new standard postal card will be a trifle smaller than the one now in use, so that it can be enclosed in business envelopes of ordinary size.

By some of the verdicts rendered in the courts of this county some people would accept the following definition for the word "jury": "A body of men organized for the purpose of deciding which side has the smarter lawyer."

Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer has named Friday, October 22, as Autumn Arbor Day, and recommends that the day be observed by the planting of trees and by other exercises designed to give public school pupils helpful information concerning the trees and forests of this Commonwealth.

"There is abundant testimony in the country papers almost any day to prove that squirrel shooting is done wherever there are squirrels to shoot, and without any attempt at concealment, as a rule," says the Pittsburg Daily News.

At the monthly meeting of the Jefferson County Medical Society, held in DuBois last Friday, the prominent topic discussed was anthrax. Dr. James Hoffman, the veterinarian of Brookville, who held the post mortem examination on the Gricks cow that died in this place of anthrax, was present and exhibited slides under the microscope showing sections of the liver and spleen of the cow above mentioned.

A gentleman introducing himself as Theodore Bartholdi, or something that sounded like that, dropped into the News office on Monday and delivered us an address on "Hard times, and what makes times hard." He said the times had not changed any since the days of our forefathers, the people have changed. In vivid style he portrayed a string of ladies walking past our door. He said we could not tell the rich lady from the poor lady, as they all dressed alike, the poor living beyond her means because she wanted to dress as well as her neighbor, etc.

The Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce has taken up the matter of cheaper excursions from this section to Pittsburg, and we think it is a step in the right direction. The Allegheny Valley Railway, the only road our people can reach Pittsburg on, has never been noted for real cheap excursions, and in late years the cheap excursions to Pittsburg grow less.

Pie Stuck to His Pants.

The pupils of the "district schools" are not slow about playing tricks on one another, and the initiative at the Jenks school was sprung on a lad last Tuesday, the second day of school, while the "dress up" clothing was still being worn. A piece of pie was left on a seat, a boy with a new pair of breeches on sat down upon the pie; he got up very quickly with the pie sticking to the bosom of his breeches; the boy looked very mad and said something about the "devil that did it," and the pupils all joined in a hearty laugh and then began their studies for the afternoon.

Give Them a Wide Berth.

Because a loud-mouthed street fakir can describe your symptoms so minutely it does not follow that a monster tapeworm is side tracking all the food that enters your stomach. If you have that "tired" feeling and experience an unusual drowsiness just about the time your wife wants you to get up and kindle the kitchen fire each morning consult a reputable physician and don't deplete your pocket book by filling your "tank" with sloppy nostrums prepared by men whose sole aim in life is to get along without work.—Clearfield Republican.
