It was generally expected that the coal company would pay their employees Saturday, but the pay failed to materialize and, hence, there was disappointment. Saturday will be pay day.

A gas light on the Grant street front of the school building is badly needed when lectures or entertainments are given in the school building at night. Why not have a gas light put in?

There was a corn husking at Jake Schwem's near Reynoldsville the other day and 1,100 bushels were husked.—DuBois Express. Five hundred bushels would be making it large enough.

Three young men were arrested Saturday, and gave bail for their appearance at the December term of court, for disturbing a public meeting within the borough limits one night last week.

Last Friday being fall Arbor Day, the teacher and scholars of the Sandy Valley school devoted the afternoon to planting trees in front of the school house and otherwise beautifying the grounds.

The dance that was to have been held in the P. O. S. of A. hall at Rathmel last Monday night for the benefit of the Rathmel Determination Cornet Band, was postponed until next Monday night, Nov. 1st.

Two cars that were being run on the tannery siding to be weighed on the tannery company's scales jumped the track last Wednesday evening and the wreck car had to be used Thursday morning to get them on the track again.

Six marksmen of this place, Alex. Riston, David Postlethwait, David Cochran, G. W. Swartz, "Dubs" Sharp and W. G. Swartz, were at a shooting match at Dempsey's, near Emericville, Saturday. They brought seven turkeys home with them.

Prof. Edwin E. Keys, impersonator and humorous and dramatic reciter, was in Reynoldsville Saturday trying to make a date for an entertainment in Reynoldsville under the auspices of some of the church societies of the town. Prof. Keys, whose home is in Kansas, was a Beechwoods boy at one time.

Leg Broken Playing Foot Ball.
Lawyer F. J. Weakley, of this place, had his right leg broken in the game of foot ball played at DuBois yesterday between the Reynoldsville and DuBois teams.

Old School Property Sold.
Last week the school directors sold the old school property in this place to James V. Young, a contractor of Reynoldsville. The consideration was $1,100. There are four sixty-foot lots in the piece of ground.

Too Cute to Kill.
It is said that Notary Public Albert Reynolds, the tallest man in Reynoldsville, was out hunting once upon a time and he had a good shot at a black squirrel as it was running along with a nut in its mouth, but Ab. thought it looked too cute to kill and he did not shoot at it.

What the Assessor's Work Shows.
Assessor William Copping has finished his work and the following shows the result: Total valuation of all taxable and untaxables, including occupation, in the borough, $682,485; number of citizens fit for military duty, 410; number of horses in borough 152, cows 91, dogs 100, children between 6 and 16 years old 621. There are just nine more dogs than cows in this borough.

Good Lecture.
Prof. W. L. Underwood's free lecture in Assembly hall last Thursday evening on the "Story of the Stars," was not listened to by as large a crowd as should have been present. The people, apparently, thought the lecture would not amount to much because it was free, but there is just where they missed it. The lecture was good and Prof. Underwood is a pleasant speaker. He is in Reynoldsville on other business and kindly consented to deliver the lecture free.

Mad Dog Shot.
A large black dog raised some excitement in West Reynoldsville a few minutes last Friday afternoon by having its mouth open and froth running from the mouth. The indications were that the canine was suffering from hydrophobia, and that was the why of the excitement. Charles Herpel, the machinist, got his gun and shot at the dog, but missed his mark and the dog ran over into this borough, followed by Mr. Herpel, who dispatched the dog at the end of the bridge.

Fountain of Fun.
He has a fountain of fun as overflowing as the streams of mercy and a human sympathy as broad as space. But Col. Ham is more than a humorist. He is a thinker and an orator. He recognizes that often the most effective way in which to clothe wisdom and truth is with the garb of good humor, spiced and spirited with timely and appropriate anecdotes. Deeper than all bandinages lie immortal truths, instinct with life, and throbbing for fit expression.—Augusta (Ga.) Herald.

Buried at Smicksburg.
Mary Clark, aged three years and six months, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Clark, of West Reynoldsville, died Saturday night from membranous croup. Funeral services were held at the home of the parents Sunday at 2.30 P. M., conducted by Rev. J. M. Dean, and on Monday the sorrowing household followed the little white casket to Smicksburg, Indiana county, Pa., where the interment took place. About twenty months ago Mr. and Mrs. Clark made a trip to Smicksburg to bury their oldest child. Mr. Clark is a carpenter for the A. V. R'y Co. and has charge of the wreck car.

A Blooming Joke.
The Woman's Relief Corps advertised that they would give an entertainment and social in the G. A. R. hall Monday evening and serve lunch, and that the waiters would wear bloomers, and the young lady wearing the handsomest bloomers would be given a prize. It was the best patronized social the W. R. C. ever held. A number of bald-headed chaps were conspicuous in the crowd. The bloomers the ladies wore were beautiful bouquets of fresh and fragrant flowers. It was a pretty good joke, but it was a good drawing card. The entertainment given consisted of songs, recitations, &c. Hot coffee, cake and sandwiches were served.

Get Your Hats Checked Ladies.
There will be no excuse for ladies who attend the lecture in Assembly hall Friday night to keep their hats on during the lecture, or to even take them into the lecture room, as arrangements have been made to check, free of charge, ladies' hats and wraps and gentlemen's overcoats. The check room will be found on the second floor of the school building. This will be an experiment and if it is appreciated by the people, and proves satisfactory, it will be continued every night of the lecture course. The check room will make extra work and trouble, but those who have charge of the lecture course want to make everything as pleasant and convenient for those who attend the lectures as possible.

All Help a Little.
It was announced in THE STAR last week that a meeting of the stockholders of the Reynoldsville Land and Improvement Company, and all others interested in the future prosperity of Reynoldsville, would be held in Centennial hall Monday evening. The meeting was held but the audience was not a third what it should have. The object of the company is to furnish free sites for industries which may be established here, and is not, in any sense, for speculative purposes, and the effort deserves the support of everyone interested in the prosperity of Reynoldsville. The enterprise was fully explained and discussed, and an addition to the soliciting committee was ordered. The meeting adjourned until next Monday night.

The shares of the capital stock of the company are only five dollars each, which makes them within reach of all. Every property holder and laborer in Reynoldsville should encourage the enterprise by becoming a stockholder for one or more shares. The future of the town depends on what the citizens do now.

The committee have found it necessary to change the time of meeting from Monday to Wednesday night, Nov. 3rd.

Rich for One Day.
An old man at Sabula received word from a lawyer out in Denver that a brother had died leaving him $125,000. The lawyer wanted some cash for looking after the old man's fortune, and the cash was sent. The old man decided to go after the fortune, so he scraped up $250.00, bought a ticket last Wednesday for Denver, tied a belt around his body, stuck the remaining $200.00 and a revolver in the belt, got full of "tangle foot," got on the train and started for his fortune, and by the time he reached Pittsburg he was the richest man in the country. He had not forgotten to carry a sup of the "ardent" with him. From Red Bank to Pittsburg he repeatedly informed the passengers in the car he occupied where he was going and that he had a son who would meet him in Pittsburg. The son did meet him there, and Thursday at noon, twenty-four hours after he left home filled with the anticipation of squandering the remainder of his days in the lap of luxury, he got on an A. V. train at Pittsburg on his way back to Sabula.

Struck the Train Amidship.
A young man named George, who resides six miles below Indiana, was on his way to Reynoldsville Tuesday with two young horses and a hack. He went by the way of Adrian, and as he was going up the little hill above Harmony, a train came along and frightened his horses. They turned around and ran back towards the crossing, striking the side of the train amidship, and were crowded up against the side of the cut. The young man saved himself by jumping out. The hack was literally reduced to kindling wood, not a spoke remaining in a wheel, and the horses were both cut and bruised in various places. One of the horses had its frontal bone crushed in. Their wounds were fixed up by Veterinarian Bethune, and the young man started home with them this morning.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

The young man was coming to Reynoldsville to move Dr. R. E. Harbison's dental outfit to Shelocta.

Lofty Patriotism.
Through all the speaker had to say there ran the thread of a beautiful and lofty patriotism and devotion to country and to those institutions at whose altar freemen bow everywhere. An optimist with the most unswerving faith in the world, its Maker and the brotherhood of which he himself is so rare a type. Col. Ham has done nothing but good here, and the healthy and inspiring influence of his character and his creed is limited alone by the number who composed his delighted audiences. Hartford (Ky.) Herald. At Assembly Hall, Friday evening, Oct. 29th.

To Bible Lovers.
Rev. Dean has just started a novel and pleasant course of Bible study, the class meeting at the Baptist church every Tuesday night at 7.30. All, old and young, are urged to at least visit the class. Any one is gladly welcomed to membership. The studies will be so simple as to enable the most backward to take the weekly lesson.

SAD ACCIDENT IN THE MINE.
Peter Nugent Killed by Fall of Coal—Will be Buried To-Morrow.

Peter Nugent, a coal miner, was killed by a fall of coal in Big Soldier mine Monday night. He worked in a room with Richard Ramsey and they had fired a shot and then ate their lunch while waiting for the smoke to clear away. Nugent returned to the room first and before Ramsey got there he heard the coal fall and when he reached the room he found Nugent lying on the floor with a large piece of coal on his legs below the knees. Ramsey could not remove the coal alone and had to run to another room for help to get it off Nugent's legs. There were no bones broken and his legs were not badly hurt, but he had been injured internally. The coal struck him on the stomach first and then fell on his legs. He was brought home on a stretcher about two o'clock and he died at 5.30 A. M., six hours after the accident. He was conscious up to the last. Peter Nugent was 27 years, 3 months and 7 days old. He was unmarried and made his home with his father, Michael Nugent. He was a very industrious young man. Funeral services will be held at the Catholic church at 9.00 A. M., to-morrow, Thursday, and the interment will take place in the Catholic cemetery.

Married Another Man's Wife.
Rathmel has had another sensation. We have been informed that a man of that place was married about a year ago to a woman whom he supposed was unmarried, but a few days ago he learned he was mistaken. Husband No. 2, the first husband being dead, sent word to No. 3, which was delivered by another man, that if he valued his life, not to live with the woman, as she was his lawful wife. Husband No. 3, who was innocent, did not linger long in that locality. The woman has gone to new fields. Husband No. 2 is a Virginian.

C. B. Guth and his son, A. C. Guth, will open a jewelry store in Clearfield in a couple of weeks. The firm name will be C. B. Guth & Son, and A. C. Guth will have charge of the business. Ambrose is one of our live young men, and we haven't the least doubt but that he will succeed among the good people of Clearfield.—Brookville Republican. Ambrose Guth spent a few months in Gooder's jewelry store in this place and is pretty well known in the town.

The Pittsburg Post's special train, to haul the Sunday Post to this place, was not run Sunday. David McCargo, general superintendent of the A. V. R'y, gave for his reason for not running the special, "that it was the desire of company that all their employees on the Low Grade division be allowed to spend their Sunday at home."

An exchange gets off the following: Fishes are weighed in their own scales, an elephant packs its own trunk, but rats never tell their own tales, a horse cannot plow his own mane, a ship is not hurt by a tack, and a window never suffers from pain. Dogs seldom wear their own pants, which fact lays them open to scorn; no nephew or niece fancies ants, and a cow never blows her own horn. A cat cannot praise her own claws, no porcupine nibs its own quill though orphan bears still have their own paws, a bird will not pay its own bill.
