SPANISH PEASANTRY.

Characterized by Poverty and Appal-ling Ignorance.

In the Spanish lower classes you will find poverty and appalling ignorancea neglect of the intelligence which is positively animal—yet nevertheless not unallied with an obvious capacity of education and improvement, an actual and admirable pluck and cheerfulness, a temper grateful, hospitable, and affectionate, and a marvelous sobriety of

There is one especial word particularly applicable to this gente baja. It is the Spanish word sufrida, which we must render in a single English word by patient; but it means more than patient; it means patient and unvindictive under grievous injury and wrong.

Such are the Spanish peasantry-the cream of the Spanish people. Their only province in relation to their government is to pay. They are a passive vehicle for ministerial extortion. The contribuciones are already heavier than they can bear, and grow more merciless as each successive administration plunges the country deeper and deeper into debt. In return for this continuous disbursement they receive nothing. Their lands are without a road, their children without a school; their navy is furnished with ships contracted for at double the price of ours, whose only quality is to go to the bottom without the shadow of a cause; their army is unpaid, unofficered, and undrilled, and absolutely incompetent to engage with any European power, The last Spanish census shows that of total population of 18,000,000 over 6,-000,000 can neither read nor write, while over half have no determined occupation. This statement is in itself so damning that it appears hardly necessary to inquire further. It simply serves to show that for the present Spain is a country of Europe, but not of Europeans; that the Moor, and the very worst and most savage part of him, is still predominant in the despots, who, by the sheer exercise of terror nided by a complaisant and feeble monarchy, an army, an armed police, a suborned clergy, and a suborned press, abuse the hollest attributes of trust and government and power.-West minster Review.

Cane with a History.

Major M. M. Clotheier, of Whatcom, Wash., has a blekory cane, cut at Plymouth Rock, Mass., in 1621, by Nathaniel Pierce, who came over in the Mayflower. The cane has been passed down to the eldest son or daughter for many generations, and came to Major Clotheier from his grandmother, Sarah Mason, who made the 1,700pound cheese which was given to President Jefferson.

L. S. Goble, R. Quarrels and H. S. McClelland, on August 17, while prospecting in the foothills eight or nine miles south of Globe and three and a half miles to the left of the toll road, discovered an old shaft, and near by on the hill above the ruins of breastworks, which had evidently been erected for defense against Indians. The evidences of great age observable in the decayed shaft, almost filled with debris, and the crumbling breastworks, excited the party's curiosity, and they stopped to investigate. The old shaft was found to have been sunk on a well-defined ledge, from which they took promising specimens of ore which tested well in copper and gold.

Owing to the unsafe condition of the old shaft, after having removed two or three feet of the debris, they abandoned it, and having made their locations, they started a new incline shaft below the old works. From the surface down they had a twelve to fourteen inch streak of sulphuret ore running from 15 to 56 per cent, in copper and well in gold, one assay giving $42 per ton. The incline is now down fifteen feet and the ore has widened to let hole through the skull, or bearing other evidence of foul play, is a desirable, if not an essential exhibit of every such discovery, and as this was lacking, Mr. Goble industriously set about to supply the deficiency, although in justice to our informant, he says it was the hope of uncovering treasure more than to make so grewsome a find, which prompted him to explore a mound of stones lodged in a crevice in the rocks near the breastworks. After removing about three feet of rock and leaves Goble struck his pick into what proved to be the eyesocket of a human skull, which caused him to momentarily shrink with horror, but summoning up courage he proceed ed with the work, and soon uncovered a complete skeleton of a man. Near the right hand lay a dagger eaten with rust, a large chunk of quartz seamed with coarse gold, and a handsome specimen of onyx. What was the fate of the human being whose bones had been thus rudely disturbed? Had he been murdered by the implacable foe of the white man, the blood-thirsty Apache, or had he peacefully laid down life's burden and been tenderly committed to the grave by friendly hands? There is none to answer, and the mystery must remain unsolved.-Globe, A. T., Silver Belt.

He was a sanctimonious-looking man,

It seemed strange to the other customers of the place that so religious a man as he appeared to be should be drinking black coffee at midnight, says the Philadelphia Record. Black coffee is calculated to keep a man awake all night. Perhaps, thought the others, he has a long sermon to prepare for delivery in the morning. There was another surprise for the patrons of the place when the sober individual placed a cigar box on the counter beside him.

They wouldn't have been surprised if it had been a prayer book or a Bible, but a box of cigars seemed much too worldly. However, the best of Christians smoke sometimes. Unfortunately, however, he carried the box with the bottom uppermost, and the next instant an astounding thing happened. The lid of the box swung open, and about a half-peck of red, white, and blue chips, together with several bunch es of aces, kings, queens, ten-spots and the like were distributed all over the floor. THE SABBATH SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR DECEMBER 5.

Lesson Text: "Christ's Humility and Ex-altation," Phil. II., 1-11—Golden Text: Phil. II., 5—Commentary on the Les-son by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

son by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Stearns.

1. "If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies," Consolation here is literally "one called to your side," and comfort is "sone speaking beside you." So we might read, "If there is anything in Christ being ever with you and ever talking to you, and in having the constant companionship and guidance and teaching of the Holy Spirit, if there is anything in the tenderness and compassion of the Father manifested in the Son by the Spirit, then let it be seen in you to the glory of God that Christ may be magnified."

2. "Fulfill ye my loy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind." Oneness of the members of the body in the service of the head is something greatly desired by our blessed Lord, as is very manifest in His prayer in John xvil., and if will also be the great desire of all who are fully one with Him. Not only does He comfort us with the assurance, "As the Father have loved Me, so have I loved you," but He also adds, "This is My commandment, that ve love one another as I have loved you" (John xv., 9, 12).

3. "Let nothing be done through strife xv., 9, 12).

3. "Let nothing be done through strife 3, "Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves." Another reading is, "In nothing follow self seeking." Jeremiah said to his scribe, Baruch: "Seekost though great things for thyself? Seek them not" (Jer. xvl., 5). Although the whole land was Abram's and not Lot's, vet rather than have strife Abram told Lot to take his choice and go whither he would. When the Philistines strove for the wells which Isaac had reopened, Isaac did not resist, but kept on yielding until there was room for all and the strife ceased (Gen, xiil., 8, 9; xxvi., 22).

4. "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." Not enviously, as some would of others." Not enviously, as some would pervert it, but desiring the welfare of others as much as or more than your own. Love seeketh not her own (I Cor. xili., 5). Let Episcopalians seek and rejoice in the wel-fare of Methodists, and so Methodists of Baptists, Baptists of Presbyterians, and so lare of Methodists, and so Methodists of Baptists, Baptists of Presbyterians, and scone, all uniting heartily to seek the honor of the Head in the completion of His body, the church, which has no name but Christ (I Cor. xil., 12, 13).

5. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus," If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His (Rom. vili., 9). Now, every penitent sinner who truly receives Christ receives also the Spirit of Christ, but some are more controlled by and manifest more of that Spirit than others. It is the privilege of svery believer to be filled with the Spirit (Eph. v., 18), and led by the Spirit and to walk in the Spirit, and when one is only willing to have no will but the will of God, no choice but God's choice, no way but God's way, no service but what He appoints, God will quickly fill that one with His Spirit and continue to fill bim day by day and moment by moment.

6. "Who, being in the form of God. thought it not robbery to be equal with God." Another reading is, "Deemed not his equality with God a thing to grasp at." He was not always saying: "I am God; I created all things; I own the universe; I do as I please in heaven and on earth, and therefore you must bow to Me, and if you don't I will make you, for I have all power." Those who are always grasping at their position as if they might lose it, or at least some of the honor belonging to it, are very small people, or people of very small minds, whatever their position may be.

7. "But made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Himste form of a servant and was made in the likeless of man." He whatever their position may be.

7. "But made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Him the form of a servant and was made in the likeless of man." He took not on Him the nature of angels, which would have been a very great humilitation, but as the children are pattakers of flesh and blood, He also Himself likewise took part of the same (Heb. ii., 14, 18). He emptied Himself of the glory which He had with the Father before the world was, and consented to endure the limitations of a mortal body for over thirty-three years—not only so, but he consented to endure such limitation under the most limited of earthly conditions, such as the manger at Ecthlehem, the humble home and the carpenter's shop at Nazareth.

Bethlehem, the humble home and the car-penter's shop at Nazareth.

8. "And being found in fashion as a man He humbled Himself and be came obedient anto death, even the death of the cross." The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and give His life a ransom for many (Math. xx., 28). He consented to be despised and siandered and misunderstood, persecuted, blind-folded, buffeted, spit upon, scourged, led as a lamb to the slaughter, crucified.

9. "Wherefore also God hath highly ex-alted Him and given Him a name which is above every name." He is now at God's wife in Rockiand township October 30 and at the same time attempted sulcide, died at the Oil City hospital at noon Monday. During Farren's incarceration and until gangrene appeared in his left foot, he apparently had a good chance to -recover. Last week Farren was removed to the hospital, where the limb was amputated. He railied well, but on Sunday grew weaker.

French and Belgian glass workers of Arnold, near New Kensington, met the other night and decided to go in the spring and join the Debs' Social Democracy, establishing a four-tank co-operative glass factory in the state of Washington. Money Made by a Blacksmith.

Tacoma once had a mint that coined all the money in circulation where the City of Destiny now stands, and it did not require the flat of Uncle Sam, the silver of Idaho or the gold of California to make the pieces from Tacoma's mint pass current among the Indians and the few hardy ploneers that were blazing the path of civilization through the forest on the shores of Commencement bay.

Back in the early seventies, so says the Tacoma Leader, the Tacoma Mail Company, not being able to handly secure gold and silver for use in trading with and paying off the Indian laborers and early settlers, hit upon the novel plan of issuing their own currency, and to this end set their blacksmith at work to fashion for them out of scraps of iron and brass pieces of money, or, rather, tokens, which could be used as a circulating medium. The pieces consisted of 40 and 45 cent fron tokens and brass $1 pieces. The 40-cent pieces were about the size of the present half dollar. The one-dollar pieces were oval in shape, about an inch and a quarter long, an inch wide and a sixteenth of an inch in thickness. These pieces were stamped with the figures showing their value, and readily passed current all over the country tributary to the mill. Nearly all this old "mill" coin has passed away, but a few days ago William Hanson, of the Tacoma Mill Company, presented a set of these queer coins to the Ferry Museum. In his letter he said:

"The honesty of the people and the absence of any blacksmith shop save that of the company made the use of this money possible."

Oregon has long boasted of the "Beaver" coin minted at Oregon City in the early fiftles as the only money minted in the Northwest in the days of the ploneer.

Osman Digma a Scot.

Osman Digma, who for years has been giving the British trouble on the Upper Nile, is, according to the Pall Mall Gazette, really a Scotchman named George Nisbet. He was born in Rouen of a Glasgow father, who in 1848 emigrated to Egypt, where he died. His widow married a Turk named Osman, who adopted her son and made him heir to his slave business. George Nisbet took the name of Osman All, and after being educated at the military academy, where he was the intimate friend of the late Arabi Pasha, became a slave trader. The harm done to his business by the English and French interference in Egypt, and the fall of Arabi Pasha, turned him against his former countrymen. He must be over 60 years of age now.

How Spurgeon Learned to Smoke,

It has never been stated yet how and when Mr. Spurgeon learned to smoke. It was while he was an usher in a boys' school at Cambridge, and became the pastor at the little Baptist chapel at Waterbeach. He used to stay with one of the deacons from Saturday to Monday. Admiring the zest with which his host enjoyed his ciny pipe, a "churchwarden" was promised him the following week, which offer he engerly accepted. Said the old man: "He emoked his pipe, as he did everything else, thoroughly, then he said: 'I think I have had enough.' 'Yes,' I replied, 'I think you have,' and he thereupon left the inside for the outside of the cottage."

Rest and Rettef.

A piece of machinery run by steam and overworked will become eranky, creaky, and out of gear, owing to some expansion of metal from heat and friction. Stop its work, rub and brighten and let it rest. In a short while it will be restored and will run smoothly. The human system is a machine. Too much work and worry are thrown upon it; too much of the heat of daily cares; too much of the steam of daily business. The nerves become cranky; they are restless, sleepless and twiltchy, and a neuralgic condition sets in. Pain throws the machine out of gear and it needs rest and treatment to strengthen and restore, St. Jacobs Oil is the one remedy of all peculiarly adapted to a prompt and sure curs, 80 many have so freely testified from experience and use to its efficacy in the curo of neuralgia that it passes without saying that it surely cures. It will be a gracious surprise to many after the free use of it to find how easily pain, cares and worry may be lifted, and how smoothly the human machine goes on. of metal from heat and friction. BEWARE OF MORPHINE.

Mrs. Pinkham Asks Women to Seek Permanent Cures and Not Mere Temporary Relief From Pain.

Special forms of suffering lead many a roman to acquire the morphine habit. One of these forms of suffering is a dull, persistent pain in the side, accompanied by neat and throbbing. There is disinclination to work, because work only increases the pain. This is only one symptom of a chain of troubles; she has others she cannot bear to confide to her physician, for fear of an examination, the terror of all sensitive, modest women. The physician, meantime, knows her condition, but cannot combat her shrinking terror. He yields to her supplication for something to relieve the pain. He gives her a few morphine tablets, with very grave caution as to their use. Foolish woman! She thinks morphine will help her right along; she becomes its slave !

A wise and a generous physician had such a case; he told his patient he could do nothing for her, as she was too nervous to undergo an examination. In despair, she went to visit a friend. She said to her, "Don't give yourself up; just go to the nearest druggist's and buy a bottle of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vogetable Compound. It will build you up. You will begin to feel better with the first bottle."

did so, and after the fifth bottle her health was re-established. Here is her own letter about it: "I was very miserable; was so weak that I could hardly get around the bouse, could not do any work without feeling tired out. My monthly periods had stopped and I was so tired and nervous all of the time. I was troubled very much with falling of the womb and bearing-down pains. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; I have taken five bottles, and think it is the best medicine I ever used. Now I can work, and feel my head, but I have had no bud headaches or palpi-tation of the heart, womb trouble or bearing-down pains, since I commenced to take Mrs. Pinkham's medicine. I cladby recommendation like myself. I used to be troubled greatly with medicine. I gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to every suffering woman. The use of one bottle will prove what it can do."-MRS. LUCY PEASLEY Derby Center, Vt.
