A COURTIN CALL

HIM!
He dressed himself from ten to ten
To beat the latest fashion.
He gave his boots an extra glow,
His dicky glistened like the snow,
He slicked his hair exactly so,
An all ter indicate "his passion."
He tried his hull three times afore He kep the one on that he wore.

HER!
All afternoon she laid abed
To make her featur's brighter, She tried on every gown she hed,
She rasped her nails until they bled,
A dozen times she fuzzed her head,
An put on stuff to make her whiter,
An fussed till she'd a-cried, she said,
But that 'ld make her eyes so red.

THEM!
They sot together in the dark
'Thout a light, excep' their spark.
An neither could have told or guessed What way the other un was dressed!
—F. E. V. Cooke in Buffalo Courier.

Limitations of Fame.

In Professor Knight's reminiscences of Tennyson it is related that on one occasion when the poet laureate was stopping at an inn in the island of Skye the landlord was asked if he knew who had been staying in his house, and on being informed that it was the poet Tennyson he replied:

"Lor'—to think o' that! And, sure, I thought he was shentleman."

At Stirling some one asked the landlord of the house where the poet was stopping:

"Do you ken who you had wi' you t'other night?"

"Naa, but he was a plesant shentleman."

"It was Tennyson, the poet."

"And wha may be he?"

"Oh, he 's a writer o' verses sich as ye see i' the papers."

"Noo, to think o' that! Jest a pooblic writer, and I gied him ma best bedroom!"

But the charms of Mrs. Tennyson, her gracious manners, did not pass unnoticed, for the landlord said, "Oh, she was an angel."

The Cockney Gallery God.

Charles Mathews had reached the allotted age of man before he played his "farewell engagement" in London. One night there was an unconscionably long "wait" in the performance of "My Awful Dad." After the statutory ten minutes had expired and the curtain showed no signs of rising one of the "gods" vociferated, "Do hurry along, or else Charley will be too old to act." The wit of the gallery is proverbial, and it was never more keenly exercised than on the first night of a London production some years since. The leading actor—a well known man—took an unconscionable time dying and lalled out the "lengths" with tedious elaboration.
Whereupon a voice from the upper regions exclaimed, "We hope we're not keeping you up, sir."

The Key of Sheridan's Success.

General Horace Porter, in his "Campaigning With Grant," in The Century, says, after describing the battle of Five Forks:

Sheridan had that day fought one of the most interesting tactical battles of the war, admirable in conception, brilliant in execution, strikingly dramatic in its incidents and productive of extremely important results.

I said to him, "It seems to me that you have exposed yourself today in a manner hardly justifiable on the part of a commander of such an important movement." His reply gave what seems to be the true key to his uniform success on the field, "I have never in my life taken a command into battle and had the slightest desire to come out alive unless I won."

Roasting Coffee.

In Norway, where superb coffee is made, a bit of butter is added to the beans while they are roasting in the covered shovel used there for that purpose. In France, as well, a piece of butter the size of a walnut is put with three pounds of the coffee beans, and also a dessertspoonful of powdered sugar. This brings out both flavor and scent, and, moreover, gives the slight caramel taste which will be remembered as a pleasing part of French coffee.—
