JOHN KEATS.

A Poet's Gentle Life That Was Terminated All Too

In the days of Keats, Hampstead and Highgate were still enpable of having an individuality of their own and of teeming with interesting associations. Part of their celebrity arises from those associations thus formed. Leigh Hunt, visiting those scenes before his death, would point to the wooden sent where he and Keats or he and Shelley sat when such a poem was recited or to the path through the fields where Coleridge took leave of him and a paries Lamb, who would statter some witticism at parting

John Keats was born in Moorsfield, London, 1795, and at the age of 15 was left an orphan, when he entered upon a five years' apprenticeship in a surgeon apothecary shop at Edmonton. From his youth he showed a passion for music and poetry and spent all his leisure moments in poring over books. After read ing "The Factic Queene" he would talk of nothing but Spenser He learned whole passages by heart, which he would repeat and dwell upon with ecstasics of delight. His first pactical composition, written at the age of 17, was entitled "In Imitation of Spenser." From that time it seemed that Keats lived only to read poetry and to write it. He luxuriated in the thoughts of port and read them to Lis friends

Before Kents' apprenticeship was over it was evident that he would not persevere in becoming a surgeon. At 20 he entered a hospital as a ctudent, but soon gave it up and found more congenial society with Leigh Hunt. Shelley. Condwin, Haydon and others. Kents signalized his accession to this literary group by publishing in 1817 a small volume of poems Hunt describes bim at this time as being under medium beight, with shoulders very broad for his size His face, strongly cut, yet delicately mobile, denoted determination and sensitiveness. His entire expression was of eager power, and he plainly showed his emotions Wordsworth alone he seemed to look upon as a sublimity among contemporary poets. In 1817 he left London to lead a quiet, thoughtful and busy life on the isle of Wight, returning a year later with four books of his "Endymion" completed In 1820 he was seized with the fatal malady, the knowledge of which had been his fearful secret for some years After a few months, during which he seemed partly to fight with death as one to whom life was precious and partly to long to die us one who had nothing to live for, he was taken to Italy and there breathed his last at Rome, Febru ary, 1821, at the age of 25. He had wishest for "ten years of po etic life. but not half that term had been allowed him Crowded into his short life was much of interest with his ambitions, his high ideals and his talents, and had he lived the ordinary age of man many think that he would have been one of the greatest poets -- Exchange.

ANCIENT MEDICAL METHODS The Manner of Doctors' Consultations In the Fourteenth Century.

Coming : Mondeville's exposition of the method of holding a discussion, we the method of holding a discussion, we find his description almost a story of what might take place today. "First," he says, "we should inquire into the nature of the disease, examining care-fully and feeling, because the diagnosis is made by touching with the hand and description with the neutral discussion. observing with the eye. All the consult-ants engage in turn in the examination. Then, if the case demands it, they make a new examination all together, pointing out to one another the symptoms of disease and the special or remarkable features either in the patient or the discase. Then one of them, the highest in rank, says to the patient, Sir, we per-ceive very clearly what is the matter with you, and you ought to have full confidence in us and be glad that there are so many of us here and such doctors enough for a king—and to believe that the youngest of us is competent to pre-scribe and carry on your treatment and bring it to a good result. Then he interrogates the patient about the circumstances of his attack, 'Sir, do not be displeased or take it ill, but when did your illness begin?' following this with many other questions, the answers to which are recorded as indications furnished by the patient. "When all the questions called for by the case have been asked, the con sultants retire to another room, where they will be alone, for in all consultations the masters dispute with one another in order the better to discuss the truth, and sometimes they come to a pass in the heat of discussion which would cause strangers witnessing their proceeding to suppose there were discord and strife among them. This is some-times the case. "—"Fourteenth Century Doctors," by M. E. Nicaise, in Popular Science Monthly.

Mozart's Method.

Mozart's method of composition was such as could only have been pursued by a child of genius. He would rise early, cat a hearty breakfast and then stroll for several hours in a forest near his home, where, inspired by nature's beauties, heavenly melodies came troop-ing through his brain. Repairing to his cottage, he would summon his wife, a very witty woman, and bid her tell him stories. He would then mount his high stool and proceed to commit these inspirations to paper, his wife telling him jokes and funny stories while he wrote. These he enjoyed immensely, frequently interrupting her with hearty bursts of laughter and sometimes even falling from the stool and rolling on the floor But amid all this hilarity and uproar the flow of music which was to move the world went steadily on. His productions were wrought without the least thought or study, but came almost unbidden "direct from heaven." Like Shakespeare, he was purely the creature of inspiration, a genius of the highest order.—C. C. Hicatt in Housekeeper.

The Smallest Electric Motor. What is said to be the smallest electrie motor in existence was made to be worn as a scartgen by D. Gordin, a jeweler and watchmaker of McKinney, Tex. Asthma From Asparagus

Among the curiosities of medical literature are the stories, many of them well authenticated, of the peculiar susceptibility of certain unfortunate individuals to certain odors and emanations. Among the substances which have been known to have produced attacks of spasmodic asthma are roses, musk, tea, ipecacuanha, the odor of a cat, fried fish, the dust of oats, malt, rice, feathers, wool and that caused in the demolition of old houses, Dr. Eugene De-schamps has added asparagus to this long list. He has published a full clinical report of a victualer over 40 years of age who suffers from severe spasmod-ic attacks of coughing whenever he atlempts to prepare raw asparagus for the cook.—New York Heraid.

Drew the Line.

"Couldn't take him at any price," said the agent who was buying horses for the use of the mounted police. "It is all right for a policeman to interfere whenever he sees fit, but it won't do for his horse."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Well Used Cradle.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Morecai Hardesty, the first white child orn in Indianapolis, was rocked through fancy in a cradle in the possession of irs. Brandt, wife of the Rev. J. Complete it weighs 1 pennyweight 5 grains The front of the motor is of highly polished gold, and the commutator segments are also of gold. Viewed from the front the motor presents only a gold appearance. The field magnets are made of two thicknesses of No. 22 sheet iron scraped down and polished. These are iseld together with gold screws and wound with No. 38 silk covered wire. The armsture is of the four cole type and is wound with No. 36 wire. The little brushes are of hammered copper and are, of course, very thin. There is a small gold switch on a black rubber base, made with a pin, to be worn on the lapel of the vest. A small chloride of silver battery, carried in the vest pocket, furnishes current for the operation of the little machine. The motor rous at a very high speed, and its humming can be distinctly heard by any one standing near the wearer.-New York Times

Pat's Reasoning. Says a writer in the Manchester Guardian :

"A lady of my acquaintance who is a proprietress in County Galway is in the habit of receiving her own rents. One day, when a tenant farmer had pleaded long and unsuccessfully for an abatement, he exclaimed as he handed over the money:

"'Well, my lady, all I can say is that if I had my time over again it's not a tenant farmer I'd be. I'd follow one of the learn'd professions.

"The proprietress gently replied that even in the learned professions there were losses as well as gains, and perhaps he would have found professional life as procarious as farming. "Ah, my lady, but how can that be?" replied the son of St. Patrick. 'If you're a lawyer-win or lose, you're paid. If you're a doctor-kill or cure, you're paid. If you're a priest-heaven or hell, you're paid.'''

Sad Misunderstanding.

"It was all I could do to keep from laying violent hands on him," said the keeper of the high class cafe as the pale young man departed. "The idea of his calling this place a beanery!" "He meant to pay you a compli-ment," said the listener. "Are you not : ware that he is a Hostonian?"—Cin-cinnati Enoniver.
