Next Tuesday is election day, and every loyal citizen of the boroughs and townships should make it a point to go to the polls and vote for the best men, regardless of politics. If your party has nominated good, trustworthy men, then vote the straight ticket, but don't vote the ticket simply because its your party ticket. When it comes to municipal or township offices, politics should not stand in the way of a voter casting his ballot for the candidate whom he knows is the best fitted for the office to be filled. In the State or National elections the voters have to depend almost entirely on what others say of the candidates seeking offices, and are governed by the political complexion of the candidate, but at the February election for home government it is not so, every candidate is known personally by the voters. By electing the best men from the tickets placed in nomination the political parties are forced to put up the best men the party affords, because they know that the people are not as likely to stick to party for municipal or township offices as they are to vote for the best men in the field.

The next generation of Pennsylvanians will not be nearly so much inclined to drink as the present one. Any one who hears school boys talk about the effect of alcohol and tobacco upon the human system, and discuss the lessons in temperance learned from their text books or physiology and hygiene, can see that these studies are fortifying their mind against intemperance and immoderation. When boys come to be convinced that temperance in eating and drinking is the real panacea for the ills of this life, that it keeps the head clear, the digestion good, the blood pure and the nerves strong, they must be desperate fools if they will plunge into the follies of excess.—Punxsutawney Spirit. It is to be hoped that the sage of the Spirit reasons correctly, but there is room for doubt. One of the most successful ways of teaching is by object lessons, and yet the drink habit goes on and drunkards' graves are being filled daily by victims who have seen others wrecked on the rocks of intemperance. So long as liquor is sold there will be boys raised up to fill the places of the miserable wretches who daily die from the ranks of the intemperate. Saloons cannot be run without boys no more than a saw mill can be run without logs. The better way would be to remove the temptation.

It was stated a few years ago that the people of Reynoldsville did not care for lectures, but that assertion cannot be truthfully made to-day. All that was necessary to prove that our people could appreciate a good lecture was to give them an opportunity to hear one. Five years ago the Reynoldsville Lecture Association gave the people three or four good lectures and the following year the same Association booked four good lectures and the people patronized them to the extent that the Association was able to pay all expenses. This is the second course the public school has given, under the able management of Prof. G. W. Lenker, and the people have patronized them sufficiently to pay all expenses. Our people enjoy the lectures so thoroughly that they will hereafter expect a course every year. We doubt if the lecturers find more appreciative audiences anywhere else than they do in Reynoldsville, and let it be said here and now that our people can appreciate a good solid lecture as well as a humorous one. This year there was more humor than anything else. The lectures, however, were all good with the exception of Eli Perkins. The tickets were extremely cheap this year, $1.00 for the five lectures. We believe that just as many tickets could be sold at $1.50 and that would give the public school the privilege of getting higher priced men on the course next year.

What is a Christian?

"Christ did not come to cramp anyone's manhood: He came to broaden it," writes the Rev. John Watson, D. D. ("Ivan McClaren"), on "A Young Man's Religious Life," in the Ladies' Home Journal. "He did not come to destroy our manhood: He came to fulfill it. A thoroughgoing Christian is a man with a stronger reason, kinder heart, firmer will, and richer imagination than his fellows,—one who has attained to his height in Christ. A bigot, or a prig, or a weakling is a half-developed Christian, one not yet arrived at full age.

"What ought a Christian to read? Every book which feeds the intellect. Where ought he to go? Every place where the moral atmosphere is pure and bracing. What ought he to do? Everything that will make character. Religion is not negative, a giving up this and that, but positive, a getting and a possessing. If a man will be content with nothing but the best thought, best work, best friends, best environment, he need not trouble about avoiding the worst. The good drives out the bad. There are two ways of lighting a dark room: one is to attack the darkness with candles; the other is to open the shutters and let in the light. When light comes, darkness goes. There are two ways of forming character: one is to conquer our sins, the other is to cultivate the opposite virtues. The latter plan is best because it is surest—the virtue replaces the sin.

"Christianity is not a drill: it is life, full, free, radiant and rejoicing. What man should do is not to vex himself about his imperfections, but to fix his mind on the bright image of Perfection; not to weary his soul with rules, but to live with Christ as one liveth with a friend. There is one way to complete manhood, and that is, fellowship with Jesus Christ."
