The desk drawer, opened, exhaled an odor of faded flowers

"Let us plunge into the atmosphere of sweet memories," said Leonard.

Wife absent, Leonard, addressing Bayard, his most intimate friend. indicated withered blessoms. Faded and grown musty in the lapse of years, they repeated at the Luttom of the desk

"This lily," said Leonard, sighing, "was the flower given me by Blanche, my first love, when I took from her lips a timid kiss. She was as white as its impeccable petals, fragrant as its pure corolla, graceful as its drooping stem, and who knows what might have happened had she not died in the bloom of youth?"
"And the rose?" asked Bayard.

"Ah, that was later!" said Leonard, with a burst of laughter. "Rosette gave me that when she first brushed my lips with her own. The petals were once rosy as her warm being, and the flower's beauty was radiant and amorous as her young womanbood. If she had not been fickle, she might now be my wife."

"And the orchid?" queried Bayard. "Hippolyta presented me with that," said Leonard, thoughtfully, "when she saw me trembling in adoration at her feet Time was when it had the mystic charm of her own perverse personality, and if a Russian nobleman had not eleged with her I should still be her devoted slave.

Eayard discovered a bunch of faded

'And these?' he interrogated. "They were the flowers," murmured

Leonard sadly, "which Etienette sent me when I had treated her brutally, be-Heving that she had deceived me. She was demure and tender as the blooms, and, after the storm of my passions, she came like a peaceful sprite to pour beauty and love into my life. Had she forgiven me, it might have been"-

At this point Lecnard interrupted himself, seizing angrily a dead carna-"Why is this flower here?" be cried.

"It has no place among the precious memories. Away with it at once!" In a moment the unresisting carnation was reduced to dust under his pitiless foot. "Why do you destroy it?" questioned

"Because it is the carnation Emilia gave me when she said she would be my wife," said Leonard, cynically, "and I married her."-Philadelphia Bulletin.

Hard to Beat a Boy.

A cigar dealer in the west end said to a reporter for the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: "It takes a mighty sharp man to get ahead of a boy, for a fact. One of them came in here not long ego, and he was old enough to buy cigare tes and wanted a package. I sold them and got the money. In a minute a neighbor came in and wanted to know what the boy bought. I told him.

"Well, said be, 'that beats th devil! Do you know what that boy did He was in my store about five minutes ago and used me to buy a pamphlet that is issued by the Anticigarette le gue, whatever that is. He told me that the boys in the public schools were trying to sell them everywhere to do away with the bad habit of cigarette singling among the schoolboys. I thought it was a good thing, and I bought one from him. He sold some others in the same neighborhood. Now spends my mency for cigarettes, and that little ras at comes in here and et a dollar that you'll find him ar ... t here somewhere near smoking for all that's out. I'm going to look

"The next day I asked him if he had caught the kid, and he said:

having a good time of it, and, mor than that, all of them were in the sam business. They thought it was a goo job. and I suppose it was—on me—b if they come around my store aga they li get booted out.'
". ut," said the cigar dealer, "the

are too sharp to get caught. They only one man at a time, and none of the sang ever goes back again. They keep a late, and I expect an examination will show that they have been to every store in that whole neighborhood. they get the pamphlets I do not know, but I imagine some of the good people of the league had them printed for gratuitous circulation, and the boys con-cluded to sell them. #### Felt Acquainted.

A Boston lady of the most reserved and exclusive type was waiting for her change at the glove counter in one of the large stores when she was ap-proached by a very large, gaudily dressed and loud looking woman, who held out a rudgy hand in a bright green kid glove and said:

"Why, how do you do, Mrs. Blank?"
Mrs. Blank ignored the proffered hand and, drawing berself up stiffly, said frigidly:

"I do not think that I know you mdam."

"No. I s'pose not," replied the wom-an, in nowise embarrassed by the cold-ness of her reception, "but I've knowed you by sight for a long time, and now I've got a bired girl who worked at your I've got a hired girl who worked at your house once a year or two ago, and she's told me so much about you that I feel seal well acquainted with you. Pleasant day, ain't it? Well, if she ain't polite to sail off without so much as a word! Shows her raisin, anyhow!"—Harper's Bazar.

The Germans are the most thoroughly educated people in the world. What they know they know well.

A fellow traveler had taken his degree of B. A. in the University of Pennsylvania and gone to that of Berlin, where he spent three years. Subse-quently traveling in Switzerland, he met a young German whose range and accuracy of knowledge were simply behe had ever met. In many walks and talks the German had absolutely pumped the American dry, while his own store of knowledge had only been touched. "Ach," said the German student one day, "I shall never get my degree, it is so difficult, it is so mer , so hard, so long! I must have patience. I used to see you at the University of Berlin, and, forgive me the question, how did you get into the university?"

"Why, I was admitted on my B. A. from the University of Pennsylvania," replied the American. "Mein Gott!" gasped the German scholar. "I knew it must be some way like that.

No better comment on the relative standards of knowledge and the thoroughness of the method by which it is pursued could be asked.-Philadelphia

A Preutiar Feeling.

The sensation of homesickness has been variously described, but never more graphically than by a little girl who, miles away from home and mamma, sat heavy eyed and silent at a hotel table. "Aren't you hungry, dear?" asked her aunt, with whom she was travel-

"Does your head ache?"

"What is the matter?" The child's lip quivered, and she said in a tone to grieve the heart:

"I'm sensick for home."—National Farmer:

Harbor Mistress Fuller.

Miss Fuller, a newspaper woman, has lately been appointed harbor mistress of Tacoroa, Wash. It is said that thus far she has done remarkably good work, keeping all records pertaining to the extensive shipping business of the city in perfect shape. Last month she made out the harbor master's report for the year, the first report of the kind ever made out by an American woman.

The Real Difficulty. "The trouble with you," said Mr.

Ruffedge's wife, after a warm debate, "is that you are a confirmed dyspeptic."
"No, my dear," was the answer.
"That's not correct. The trouble with me is that I am a contradicted dyspeptic. "- Washington Star.
