A certain amount of superstition prevails among railroad men. If a man is killed or seriously injured on the road, the railroaders expect two more accidents to follow close on the first one, or if there is a wreck on the road two more are expected to occur soon afterwards. For over twenty years we have watched this on the A. V. R'y and the railroaders are rarely disappointed, as it most always happens when there is one accident or wreck two more soon follow. Inside of the past eight weeks one man lost his foot and two men were killed on the Low Grade Division of the A. V. R'y.

Dr. Mead a Good Speaker.

Dr. C. H. Mead, of New York, who delivered a Prohibition speech in Centennial hall last Thursday evening, is a powerful speaker. He dealt with all the different phases of the liquor question. Lost a Toe.

Marshall Harding, a brakeman on the R. & F. C. R'y, had the big toe of his left foot pinched off between two drawheads at Rochester mine last Thursday. Marshall was in the act of making a coupling with the patent drawheads and one of the drawheads was not in place and he attempted to kick it in place with his left foot and his foot was caught. He had on a new pair of shoes shortly before the accident, but had taken them off and put on an old pair, which was a fortunate thing for him. The leather in the old shoes was rotten and gave way when he jerked his foot, otherwise he would have fallen on the rails and the wheels would have run over his body.

Railroader Killed at Falls Creek.

Thomas M. Weckerly, a flagman on the A. V. R'y, was killed at Falls Creek Sunday at 11.40 A. M. He was riding some cars on to the siding and in attempting to climb up the end of a box car fell between the cars. No one but a tramp seen him fall. The tramp says Weckerly was about half way up the end of the car when he fell. After one pair of trucks had run over him he crawled out from under the train in time to prevent more wheels from running over his body. Two of the brakemen saw him crawl out from under the cars and ran to him. He said, "My God, save me," and expired. Weckerly was flagman on the same crew that Charles Varner was on, who was killed at Falls Creek on the 2nd inst., and he was injured the same as Varner, only on left side instead of right side. His body was taken to East Brady Sunday, where he leaves a wife and three small children.

The deceased was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and carried $1,200 insurance in it. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. at East Brady and was a member of the M. E. church at that place. Scott Weckerly, brother of the deceased, had his right foot out off under the wheels of an engine in the yard at Driftwood the latter part of February.

At some places butter and cheese factories have not been successful and at other places they have been. The success of such a plant, we understand, depends on the way it is managed.

Death of Mrs. M. A. Sankey.

We are sorry to be compelled to chronicle the death of Mrs. M. A. Sankey, which occurred at 3 o'clock on last Saturday afternoon, April 2nd. She had been seriously ill for about ten days, lying at the point of death for several days. All that medical skill and loving care could do for her was done, but it was of no avail; her course was run, her earthly work done, and she passed peacefully away.

Mrs. Sankey's maiden name was Mary Ann Long. She was born at Shirleysburg, Nov. 5, 1824, and was aged 73 years, 5 months and 4 days. She was married to James G. Doyle in 1844, who died in 1859, in the same house in which she passed away. She was the mother of five children, Mary, wife of C. H. Gordon, of Washington, D. C.; John A., of Erie, Pa.; Flora, wife of Rev. C. H. Hamilton, Leona, O.; Ella and Harry M., of Mount Union, all of whom, together with eight grand children and four great grand children, survive her and mourn the loss of a beloved mother.

She was again married to William S. Sankey, of Clearfield, in 1867, who still survives her. She with her husband and family made her home in Reynoldsville, Pa., for about nineteen years prior to returning to Mt. Union. Here she has spent the remaining years, which were devoted to the care of her youngest son. About thirty-five years ago she became a member of the Baptist church of Shirleysburg. In later years she removed her membership to the Baptist fellowship in Reynoldsville, in the communion of which she passed away. It may be truthfully and properly said of her that she loved her church and endeavored to faithfully discharge her duty in the maintenance of divine worship. But above all it may be said that she loved Jesus and had a kindly feeling in her heart toward all who loved the Lord. She was of a retiring nature and had a kind heart and was much devoted to her home and family. She was not only a mother to her own children, but the only mother that two of her grand children ever knew.—The Mount Union Times.
