The Russian calendar is full of saints' days and of holidays of every kind, and Ivan would sooner see his hay or his oats rot upon the ground than do a stroke of work upon any day which offers the smallest canonical excuse for remaining idle. Then there is "the drink." This is the darling vice of the country and the real cause of the pov-erty of the peasant classes and if half misery that exists through ut the

The fields remain half cultivated because Ivan cannot spare the time to go out to work, and his really exemplary wife cannot do it all, though she does her best, because of the small children at home. As for Ivan himself, be is in the kabak, or drinking shop, and cannot be expected to tear himself away for my very prolonged period, for all his friends are there, and why should be be the exception?

If any money comes in by the sale of hay, or oats, or milk, or anything else, the monopolist who keeps the vil-lage drinking shop knows well enough what becomes of it; so perhaps does Ivan, but it is quite certain that poor, patient, hardworking Masha, his wife, and the small children see nothing of it, They have their lump of black bread for dinner, and perhaps a particle of the same is left over for supper, and that is good enough for them. Ivan lives on vodka chiefly and leaves most of the rye bread for his family, but occasionally he indulges in a wooden bowlful of schee, which is a kind of cabbage soup, or toys with a trifle of salted berring. He is no great eater. - Chambers' Jour-

A London Lad's Prayer.

W. Pett Ridge, the London writer, makes a London bey in one of his sto-ries offer the following rather original prayer: "Lord, wilt thou 'ave the kindness to make me grow strong and tall and with plenty to say for meself, and wilt thon do this as soon as thou can find time, so's to save me expense and waste of money that might be used in other ways-say for a cricket bat. Believe me, Lord, thy obedient servant, A. Martin."

He rose. He was half way into his blue flannel bed gown, when an important idea occurred to him, and he knelt down again quickly.
"Should 'ave mentioned." he whispered, "Elfred Martin of 53 Cawstle street, jest over Surrey-side of South'ark

Where Ready Money Is Scarce.

In the British settlement in the great Chinese city of Shanghai ready money is practically unknown. After you have had funch at a restaurant you calmly get up and walk out without a thought of payment in cash. Some time later in the day a coolie arrives at your residence with a tiny slip of paper-a "chit," as they call it-simply a memorandum of the amount. You got a shave at your barber's. The same system is carried out. You purchase a newspaper or a buttonhole bouquet, a "chit" is the result. The very shoeblack does not ask for coppers, but brings his bill at the end of the month. -London Answers.

The Longest Love Letter.

Perhaps the longest love letter in the in the time of Queen Elizabeth to his ladylove on the return from the armada campaign. It occupied 400 sheets of crabbed writing, the number of words being something like 40,000.

No Allowance.

"They say, Blokely, old man, that your wife has an independent fortune?" "That's right. It's so confoundedly independent that I can't get any of it." -Detroit Free Press.

Her View of the Matter

"Talking about happiness," observed Aunt Maria severely, "do you know what I think about the matter, John Bamuel?"

John Samuel clidn't know and mildly admitted as much.

"I just think it all comes down to this-that most nearly everybody's for locking up their house and a-searching the world for that contentment they've thrown away in their own lumber toom."-Detroit Free Press.

Time Is Also Cruel.

Mrs. Biffkin was dissolved in tears. "You have changed," she sobbed; "you have changed most cruelly. You love me no more. You no longer sit with your arm encircling my waist, as was your custom before we were mar-ried."

"Good heavens, Antoinette!" ex-slaimed Mr. Biffkin. "You should have married as india rubber mau." Alas! It was but too true. Mrs. Biffkin had also changed.-London Tit-

Her Complexion

Made up complexions are on the in-crease in New York. The fashionable or would be fashionable New Yorker who does not today make up a little is a rare bird. A dab of rouge for evening has never been considered criminal by her, but she now uses, it for daytime as well. As always happens when a habit becomes more universal, much of the present make up is very badly done. The few did it, as a rule, artistically, but the many lay it on with a heavy hand. Without wishing to go into the ethics of make up it is safe to say this -the fact that so much of it is done badly is one reason why we object to

One must always have a sneaking appreciation of the story of the father who when told that his daughter used rouge called her to him and asked if it were

"It is," replied the girl.

"For beaven's sake," said the father,
"go straight up stairs and wash it off."
The girl did so and returned to her father, who gave one glance at her colorless checks.

"For heaven's sake," he cried, "go straight up stairs and put it on again."

The Old Lady's Discovery. The Philadelphia Record tells this story of the late President William H. Allen of Girard college: On one ocea sion a business matter called Mr. Allen to a small town in the central part of the state. While sitting in the parlor of the country hotel in the evening after transacting his business he was taken in hand by the wife of the proprietor, who was extremely inquisitive and wanted to know all about his private affairs. Mr. Allen took it all in good part and for a time was rather amused. Finally she asked, "Have you got much

"Oh, yes," said he, and he smiled as his mind reverted to his hundreds of

"How many children?" she persisted. "Well," said Mr. Allen, with great earnestness, "I have 500 and all boys!" The good old lady was speechless for a moment. Then she arose and hurrying to the door called to her husband;

"Oh, John! Come in here! We've got Brigham Young stoppin with us!" Rum Subsidies.

The English officials in the far east have some queer methods of dealing with the natives of various provinces who have come under the sway of their government. For the submission of some of the tribes composite subsidies are paid each year by the British agents. A good specimen of these is the subsidy paid to the Bhutias of Assam. The chiefs assembled under the wide spreading shade trees in front of the agent's bungalow, and the subsidy, consisting of 5,000 rupees in silver, 10 pieces of broadcloth and 48 bottles of rum, were spread out on the ground. A formal ceremony, lasting only a few minutes, precedes the actual delivery of the subsidy.—New York World.

Mark Twain In Battle.

It is related that Mark Twain served two weeks as a soldier in the civil war. He was attached to Jeff Thompson's nand in the Confe Missouri. His own account of his military experiences, told in one of his private letters, is as follows: "We never won any victories to speak of. We never could get the enemy to stay still when we wanted to fight, and when the enemy felt like fighting we were generally on the move."

Refused Prime Ministers.

The wife of the late Earl of Bradford had a sister, of whom it was said she was the only woman who refused offers of marriage from two prime ministers. She was a Miss Forester, and in her youth refused Lord Palmerston. She married the Earl of Chesterfield, and as his widow refused Lord Beaconsfield.

In round numbers there are 2,500 journals in Paris. One hundred and seventy of these are political organs, over 100 each are fashion papers and illustrated journals, some 120 medical papers, over 200 financial papers and about 60 dealing with the turf and other branches of sport.

Ancient Playing Cards.

The ancient Tarot packs were the ear-liest playing cards known to our forefathers. They consisted of 72, 77 or 78 cards. These cards are still used in remote parts of Italy, France and Switzer-land and are made in Florence, the de-signs being handed down from generation to generation.

Music Shops on Ocean Liners

From a single venture five years ago small shops for the sale of musical instruments have become a regular thing on the large liners that sail from England to India, Australia and the col-

From the beginning the music shop was quite a success. Perhaps most of its trade runs in the direction of cheap banjos, which are bought by almost every man on board before the voyage as a means of passing the time. Valuable violins are often more easily disposed of at sea than on shore, while even planes meet with at least four or five customers each voyage, many people disposing of their own instruments before starting and being readily per-sunded into buying others to avoid the middleman on landing.
