

The Star.

Subscription $1.50 per year, or $1.00 if paid strictly in advance.

C. A. STEPHENSON, Editor and Pub.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1898.

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

Subscription price $1.00 per year, in advance. Communications intended for publication must be accompanied by the writer's name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Interesting news items solicited. Advertising rates made known on application at the office in Froehlich-Henry Block. Lengthy communications and change of advertisements should reach this office by Monday noon.

Address all communications to C. A. Stephenson, Reynoldsville, Pa.
Entered at the postoffice at Reynoldsville, Pa., as second class mail matter.

The citizens of Lindsay are rejoicing because that town is soon to have water works. The town is making a mistake, which will be realized when too late, by allowing outside capitalists to build the water works.

The truly happy man is the one who is contented; the contented man has yet to be born.—Big Run Tribune. From the above we infer that the Tribune thinks there are no truly happy men in the world. We agree that without contentment no man can truly be happy, but we believe there are a few people in this world that are truly happy. We know one such man in Reynoldsville.

In regard to politics, don't be afraid to endorse a good man when in your own estimation you think you have found one. It never hurts the country, and it never hurts any party to have a good man in office, whether he is a Republican, Democrat, Prohibitionist or Populist.—Pennsylvania News. Fact. But the trouble is there are too many people who cannot get outside of party lines, no matter who the candidates may be. Stick to the party is the cry.

Uncle Sam took possession of Porto Rico on the 18th instant, and Major Brooke put in operation on the island a military government containing several important civil features. These relate to the judicial, postal and customs administration, the plans for which were prepared in the State, Treasury and Postoffice departments. A military governor will not be appointed for the island. Major Brooke will have command until the matter is settled by President McKinley.

There are many different ways of getting on in the world. It does not always mean making a great deal of money, or being a great man whom people look up to in wonder. Leaving off a bad habit for a good one is getting along in the world; to be careful and saving instead of thoughtless and wasteful is getting on in the world; and to be active and industrious, instead of idle and lazy, is getting on in the world; in short when we see anyone properly attentive to his duties, we may be sure that he is getting on in the world.—Lock Haven Express.

First Assistant Postmaster General, Perry Heath, says: "There is absolutely nothing in the civil service laws that forbids a postmaster, or any other government official from participating in conventions, making political speeches, or exercising any of the rights that belong to him as a private individual. For my own part, I have never been able to see why the mere fact that a man holds an office should make it impossible for him to exercise his privileges as an American citizen or to identify himself with the party to which he owes allegiance."

There are sermons and sermons, but the ones that are most liable to make impressions upon the listeners are those that contain the practical and commonplace lessons of life and tell of the duties required of man. The necessity of learning how to live right is greater than that of learning how to die, for the first will take care of the last. If more was told of the stern duties of life and avoidance of the dangers which threaten our individual and national existence and less about the dry doctrines of antiquated theology, the threadbare controversies over Jonah and the Whale, the Higher Criticism and the Mistakes of Moses, the mass of mankind would be more generally benefited.—DuBois Express. Correct, sir.

Reynoldsville's new silk mill was formally opened with considerable eclat on Monday and all residents of the town who desired to make an inspection of the notable industry were permitted to do so. A great number of the departments were already in working order and looms were turning out the finished product. The mill is a monument to local enterprise and push, and no town ever felt prouder of an institution than does Reynoldsville of her silk manufactory. To one man in particular is the town indebted. Mr. W. H. Stamey, who adopted that town as his home a few years ago, was chiefly instrumental in securing the location of the industry at Reynoldsville. He worked zealously to awaken local interest in the project and how well he has succeeded is attested by the completion of the handsome brick plant and the auspicious opening on Monday. The mill will be a good thing for our sister town and she deserves congratulations.—DuBois Express. Thank you.

Claude Smith for Assembly.
[Advertisement.]

Claude Smith should be supported by every miner, laborer and farmer in Jefferson county. For many years the legislature of Pennsylvania has been composed almost entirely of lawyers, doctors and editors. By accident, or the mistakes of the politicians a farmer may once in a long time become a member; but the laborer so seldom that he may be said to be not at all.

Most of these professional men do not care at all for the laborer—except to get his vote, and the few who honestly want to help him don't know what he want.

For the last fourteen years Jefferson county has been represented, or misrepresented, in the legislature by professional men. This state of things is our own fault, for there are miners and laborers enough in the county to elect any man to any place.

From the time Claude Smith was fifteen years old he has earned his bread by the sweat of his brow. He knows what we want, and what we ought to have. He was not nominated by any ring, and is free to act in our interest without asking his political bosses what they want him to do. He is opposed by a lawyer who knows very little about us and cares less.

If the miners and laborers don't elect Claude Smith, no one of them should ever have the face to stand up and say that we do not get our rights from the lawmakers. A LABORING MAN.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has Lame Back and Weak Kidneys, Malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to Liver and Kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures Constipation, Headache, Fainting Spells, Sleeplessness and Melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. a bottle at H. A. Stoke's Drug Store.

A Young Girl's Experience.

My daughter's nerves were terribly out of order. She was thin and weak; the least noise startled her, and she was wakeful at night. Before she had taken one package of Celery King the change in her was so great that she could hardly be taken for the same girl. She is rapidly growing well and strong, her complexion is perfect, and she sleeps well every night.—Mrs. Lucy McNutt, Brush Valley, Pa. Celery King for the Nerves, Stomach, Liver and Kidneys is sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by H. Alex. Stoke.

Mrs. Ballington Booth's Experiences.

Mrs. Ballington Booth, of "The American Volunteers," is writing out her experiences in American prisons, and in the slums of New York, for The Ladies' Home Journal. Mrs. Booth has perhaps come closer to the lives and confidences of the men and women in prisons, and to know the poor better, than any woman living. She will not only tell what she has seen, but she will point out what her experience has shown her to be the most effective way in dealing with the people of the prisons and the slums.
