And, as to What You Might Do In Return, Have You Ever Given That a Passing Thought!-An Editor's Interesting Review of the Subject.

The raper has done 50 things for you and is only services to do 50 more. It told your friends when your parents were atried.

It associated to the world when you were burn.

It recorded the great events of your childhood, when you were lost as a wandering baby, when you had the measles and scarlet fever, when you fell into the washtub and nearly drowned, when you fell from the cherry tree and broke your collar bone, when you first started to school and when you earned your first prize.

Later on it told how you had com-pleted the studies of the district school and how elequently you recited your graduating oration.

It told of your entering high school or academy. It told of your contests in baseball and tennis. It told of your departure for college or your first venture

It told of your various visits back to the old home neighborhood, and it always wished you well in your greatest undertakings. It hinted modestly about the first time you went a courting and gave timely warning to "her folks" that the neighbors knew that matters were growing interesting over their way.

It announced the time of your expected wedding, and it published the notice of the marriage license and gave you a nice puff concerning the wedding cere-

It told of your extended honeymoon tour and of your settling down to housekeeping.

When you were sick, the home paper week by wesk informed your more distant neighbors of your lapses and im-

It told about your lost cow and led to her recovery. It told how your horse had been stolen and led to the arrest of

When you were getting dull and tired through the monotony of your labor, the paper urged that the people get up a celebration, and you were named as one of a suitable committee on arrangements. And when it was all over, it gave you just praise for the success of the undertaking.

In numerous ways the paper has helped to put your name before the peo-And you would never have had your lucrative office or your honorable recognition from the community but for the kind aid of the local printer.

If you are a member of a Sunday school or society of any sort, that same paper publishes your announcements and the various proceedings of your meetings.

It tells the people much which you would like to have known, but which modesty or necessity prevents you from telling.

If you and all your folks have been prosperous and fortunate in your affairs, the paper has boosted you all the way. If you have had misfortune, the paper asked for sympathy in your behalf.

Thus the paper has rejoiced when you rejoiced and wept when you wept. If you are a good and enterprising citizen, the paper will always be your friend and will back you in your enterprises and will help to find your business to sell. It tells of rogues to be avoided. It tells you of current prices and preents you from being cheated and swindled in 100 ways.

Finally, when you die, the paper will publish your obituary and will cover over your faults and will recite the story of your good deeds.

All these things the local editor will cause his paper to do, but no one else in the world will do them or can do them for you even for love or money. The outside paper is a stranger to your little world and is not at all interested in its improvement. Yet your local paper does all this free of cost to you, if you are willing to receive it that way. However, for your sake, we hope you are too generous to accept so many unrequited favors and that you are willing to reciprocate the same. Help the editor. Be his friend, and he will prove his friendship to you.

Subscribe for his paper and pay for it regularly in advance and get your neighbors to do the same.

Send him the news or occasionally a watermelon or a peck of peaches. Invite him to your picnics and fam-ily dinners, so that he can eat a square meal occasionally.

Don't call the ticket you give him to the church concert a deadhead. He can't buy tickets from everybody to everything, but he will say kind words of your performances and thus lead oth-ers to buy your tickets.

If you have anything to buy or sell, let the paper assist you to find custom-ers. Advertising that really pays the printer benefits both advertisers and

If you have any job printing to do, on't take it to an outside office, but give your newspaper the first chance, Give the editor a pointer occasionally or write him sensible short articles and don't get mad if he fails to see everything your way. When he does say a good thing, tell him so.

In short, remember the golden rule the solden rule and the solden rule and the solden solden rule

LOCATING A COUPLET.

Familiar Quotation Aserthed to Butler Is Pinced.

Few popular quotations have more engaged the pens of critics than the following:

For he that fights and runs away Will live to fight another day.

These lines are almost universally supposed to form a part of "Hudibras," so confident have even scholars been on the subject that in 1784 a wager was made at Bootle of 20 to 1 that they were to be found in that inimitable poem. Decisley was referred to as the arbiter, when he ridiculed the idea of consulting him on the subject, saying, Every fool knows they are in Hudibras.

George Selwyn, who was present, said to Dodsloy, "Pray, sir, will you be good enough, then, to inform an old fool, who is at the same time your wise worship's very humble servant, in what canto they are to be found?"

Dodsley took down the volume, but be could not find the passage. The next day came, with no better success, and the sage bibliophile was obliged to confess "that a man might be ignorant of the author of this well known couplet without being absolutely a fool." But-ler has indeed two or three passages somewhat similar. The one that comes nearest is the following, in "Hudibras," book 3, canto 3, verse 243:

For those that fly may flight again, Which he can never do that's shain.

The fact, however, is that the couplet, thus erroneously ascribed to the author of "Huditras," occurs in a small volume of miscellaneous poems by Sir John Mennes, written in the reign of Charles

Boxing a Bride's Ear.

In Lithuania, a province of Russia, it is customary that the bride's cars should be baxed before the marriage ceremony No matter how tender hearted the mother may be she always makes it a point of administering a hearty smack to her faughter in the presence of witnesses, and a note is made of the fact. The mother's intention is a kind one, though the custom itself is bad. The reason for it is to protect the bride should her marriage prove an unhappy one. In case she will sue for a divorce, and her plea will be that she was forced into the marriage against her will, and on that core the verdict of the judge will be in her favor.
