Silk Mill Notes.

The number of running looms keeps on increasing every day at the mill and, as colors come in for a large percentage, the winding, warping and weaving rooms will soon have the aspect of a rainbow, or better, of a crazy quilt. These colors are spring forerunners.

The DuBols steam fitters are again at the mill hurrying their work.

Betting is very active among weavers as to the date the steam fitting of the heating apparatus will be completed.

Some hold for Decoration Day, some more daring hope for Easter, although this last date is given at fifteen to one. As to the steam fitters' men, they are silent and wear a mysterious smile, only once in a while nodding or winking knowingly. They seem pretty sure that they have a good job and intend to make it last until Independence Day, when it will be so hot that not a soul would dare to put steam in the pipes to test whether they are still leaking or not. To my brother weavers, about July 4th we will have the brand new steam heating apparatus ready for work. Have patience, remembering that patience is the mother of all virtues.

In a few days the silk mill will be ready to take another squad of 25 to 30 new learners. Applications may be made now.

Shipments of manufactured goods from the mill take place almost daily, and will increase in quantity every week.

The new whistle at the silk mill can be heard all through the city and surrounding now. Its size and tone are more in agreement with the proportions of the graceful building on the other side of the creek.

Messrs. Orris Henry and Jacob Wilp, two Carlisle, Pa., weavers, have arrived at the mill and are each running two looms.

Weavers are hurrying turning out pieces of woven goods, but they cannot keep even with the activity of the warpers, who always manage to keep vastly ahead of them as far as production is concerned. The forelady of this department must have her flock well in hand and be a hustler.

A good twister is supposed to be able to twist from 20,000 to 16,000 threads in a day of ten hours' work, but a great many of them only believe they can do it. I remember myself once having twisted 30,000 in a day, but when I awoke the next morning I found that I had only dreamed it. So it is with a great many twisters.

Parents' and Patrons' Day.

Our schools are what we make them. To raise the educational standard there must be the hearty support of every one interested in the advancement of our Public Schools. In no way can success be more quickly or more surely gained than by bringing parents into contact and sympathy with the teachers and the schools.

With this end in view, Dec. 15, 1898, is set apart as "Public School Day" for the schools of this county. Parents and patrons are urged to lend encouragement to the schools by their frequent presence during the term, but a special invitation is extended to them on this day.

It is desired and requested that each teacher arrange for the proper observance of the day. The following suggestions are offered:

First.—That you send a cordial invitation (written or printed) to each patron of your school and also to each member of your School Board.

Second.—That you carry on the regular work of the school. Visitors will be more interested in the regular recitations than in any special program.

Third.—That you arrange any exhibition work done during the term, for the inspection of parents.

Fourth.—That you do not annoy visitors by urging them to address the school. Give an opportunity for remarks by visitors, but let them be voluntary.

Fifth.—That as soon as convenient you send a postal card to the Superintendent of the number of parents and patrons present on this day, also the number of directors.

R. B. TRITRICK,
County Superintendent.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Miss Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at H. A. Stoke's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.
