The President's Trip to the Atlanta Peace Jubilet Shows that We are a Strongly United People Stirring Speeches.

The President's visit to the south ended Sunday night after several days of remarkable displays of enthusiasm Far above the importance of the receptions is the fact that the original object of President McKinley's visit has been entirely lost sight of.

The unprecedented outbursts of loy-alty to the union have completely over-shadowed the rejoicing over the peace with Spain though participation in the latter was the avowed object of the president's southern trip. In all the speeches and in all the demonstrations which have marked the president's visit to Atlanta, Tusthe president's visit to Atlanta. Tus-kegee, Montgomery and Savannah, there has been the tacit admission that the war with Spain was the great fac-tor in achieving the result, but it is to the result and not to the factor that the chief trend of speech-making and of enthusiasm has lent itself.

She said:

She said:
"Scores of the soldiers are dying in ing for death, seeking it, taking polsen, doing anything that will end the despair."

"They see nothing before them but days of pain and nights of wretchedness, without proper food, alone, with no one to give them sympathy. No wonder the deadhouse is never empty.

"And outside the hospital, and even in it, there is indifference, petty consideration of rank and position, squabbles about precedence, lack of consideration in prescribing and preparing food. I got just so that I could not go through the wards.

"There is so much inexperience. To think of an attendant going through a ward with a pall of beef broth, ladling it out to the 50 or 60 patients indiscriminately by the cupful! In the whole pail there was not enough neurishment for one, even if it were made of the best material. But what it really was made of, I shut my eyes and refuse to imagine."

To expel a criminal from the United States is an unusual proceeding, but that was done in the case of John Ribert, who left a few days ago for Havre on the steamer La Champagne. He was convicted in Lancaster, Pa., of a murderous assault, and the finding of the court, under Judge Brubaker, was that he should start immediately for Spain, his native country. Sentence was suspended to allow him to go. It is claimed that he had been goaded to commit the assault by patriotic Amricans during the Spanish war.

Great Blockade of Grain.

The grain blockade at Buffalo continues and is unprecedented. Fully 80 large steamers are in the river waiting to be unloaded, or frozen in. They carry about 9,000,000 bushels of grain, while in the different elevators 7,000,000 bushels are at present stored.

This total of 16,000,000 bushels of grain afloat and temporarily in store is a record breaker of the first dimensions. Ice is forming too rapidly to permit any of the boats attempting another trip up the lakes, consequently this great fleet of grain carriers will be forced to winter in this port. FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

SEVENTH DAY.

SEVENTH DAY;
Discussion of two questions, each of interest and importance at this time, was begun by the Senate. Territorial expansion and the construction of the Nicaragua canal occupied the attention of the body. Mr. Morgan opened the debate on the Nicaragua canal bill with a three-bour appeal for action at this session. In the course of his remarks, he agreed to accept an amendment specifically excepting the canal from neutrality with regard to any country with which the United States might be at war.

As soon as the routine morning business had been disposed of, Mr. Vest called up his resolution, offered last week, declaring it to be unconstitutional for this Government to acquire foreign territory, except for coaling stations or some like purpose, unless its intention is to confer Statehood upon the territory and citizenship upon its inhabitants. Mr. Vest declared that it is a basic principle of this Government are derived from the consent of the governed, and maintained that the Federal Government has no authority, either in morals or in the Constitution, to go beyond that principle. He held that the principle had been sustained by the Supreme Court in various decisions, and that no public man of promithat the principle had been sustained by the Supreme Court in various decis-ions, and that no public man of promi-nence and no recognized tribunal had ever been reckless enough to controvert

EIGHTH DAY.

Mr. Morrill addressed the Senate on his bill authorizing the purchase of a site cast of the capitol grounds in Washington for a building for the United States supreme court. The Senate promptly passed the bill.

The session of the Senate was largely consumed in discussion of the Nicaragua canal bill, Mr. Turple (Dem. Ind.) attacking it on the ground that it is in the interest of the maritime company, which he characterized as a fraud and bankrupt. He moved a post-ponement of the matter until after the holiday recess. Mr. Morgan defended the bill.

NINTH DAY.

The Nicaragua canal bill held its place as the principal subject before the senate. Speeches were made by Messrs. Harris, Money, Stewart and Morgan. Mr. Money urged postponement of the question in order to permit an opportunity for negotiations with Great Britain for a medification of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and Mr. Morgan antagonized the proposition.

TENTH DAY.

The urgent deficiency appropriation bill, making provision for the army and navy for the next six months, displaced the Nicaragua canal bill in the Senate, preventing even the taking of a vote on the question of postponement until after the holidays, as had been intended. The deficiency bill was passed after a spirited discussion, turning principally on the point of keeping the volunteer soldiers in the service. At the instance of Mr. Harris, the Senate adopted a resolution as to the status of the report of the Nicaragua commission. calling upon the President for informa-tion as to the status of the report of the Nicaragua commission. Mr. Mor-gan presented a memorial from the National board of trade favorable to the construction of the Nicaragua canal, asking that the document be printed in the "Congressional Record." Mr. Allen objected. He predicted that the canal would cost $500,000,000.

Speaking of Sara Bernhardt, they teil this of her in London, where she was last spring. The great one dropped into a bookseller's shop one morning. "I sold her quite a pile of books." said the proprietor, "and showed her every attention, and she seemed pleased. As she was going out she took hold of my pencil and asked me something in French which I did not understand. Seeing that I failed to catch her meaning she looked about on the counters, then, quick as a flash, she took up a volume of one of the very best sets of Scott, bound in tree calf, opened it at the very center, wrote something quickly, calmly tore out the leaf, handed it to me, smiled, and went out." The astounded bookseller loked at the leaf and discovered that Sara had written a pass for two to her performance that evening! Magnificent, but it was not a cheap entertainment for the bookseller.
