Here's the first law of health—Keep your feet dry. We all know it. We all know that pneumonia and consumption always start with a cold, and that the shortest cut to a cold is a pair of wet feet. But it's so impor-tant a matter that we can't be reminded too often, especially when the re-minder carries the weight of authority.

Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, one of the most distinguished physicians in New York, was recently giving a lecture on "Colds, and How to Prevent Them." It was a rainy night, and he began:

"How many persons here were rub-bers to-night? Hands up,
"Not half of you. Now, that is what I thought. Every one of you should have rubbers on a night like this. To go without them is to invite colds, bronchial trouble, catarrh and pneumonia. It is astonishing how people neglect their feet. Rubbers are fifty cents. You can save a lot of money on the investment-perhaps a ten days' doctor bill, to say nothing of

The doctor might have made it still stronger and said that a fifty-cent pair of rubbers would not only save doctor bills and medicine bills, but often life itself. Don't try to save on rubbers: it's the most expensive economy in the world, especially just now when everybody is getting the grip.

The Vervain Plant.

The plant known as vervain, which is not distinguished for its beauty, and which grows now-a-days utterly disregarded, was so sacred to the Druids that they only gathered it for their divinations when the great dog-star arose, in order that neither sun nor moon should see the deed.

"Let It Pass."

A photograph of the czarina nursing her baby recently appeared in an Engnewspaper, and when it reached the Russian censor the latter was a much puzzled official. He consulted with the minister of the interior, who was equally perplexed and decided to thing I can do," said the Russian em-"is to show this to the czarina and let her decide." In a few minutes. according to the story, the czar returned and said, with a smile, to the minister of the interior: "Her imperial majesty finds nothing in the picture contrary to law. Let it pass."

The above sketch represents the office of the Bank of British North America, the pioneer bank in the Klondike. It is an interesting fact that until suitable premises could be se-

THE EMPIRE OF CHINA.

WHERE INTERNATIONAL IN-TERESTS MAY CLASH.

The Native Is Absurdly Simple-A Journey Through the Country Is as the Passage of a Critic Through a

To travel through China, even as China is today, is as the passing of a critic through a fairy tale. There are uses for the pruning knife, but the subtle delicacy of the local spirit impregnates the mind in such a way as to render excision impossible. There is infinite wealth of color in the gorgeous background, and infinite disappointment. The people in the phantasms which the idea of China has conjured to the mind have been endowed with such vitality that comparison establishes an impossible travesty. The Chinese are hopeless, but their signal state originates a genuine fascination. They meander across scenes that are replete with personal interest, and they show no comprehension. They do not care, they do not think. The Chinaman is content when he exists. He is indifferent to Americans and Europeans because he finds no use for them, save where they are disturbing factors in his life, and then he hates them. His cupidity is only the cunning of a mind that never exerts itself unless to suit a purpose of its own. It is customary to consider the character of a Chinaman complex, whereas it is absurdly simple. He mistrusts where he does not understand, and he dissimulates because the sentiment of the one is the initiative of the other.

The Chinaman in China has little resemblance to the cross-breeds that are found in America, Australia, New Zealand, or anywhere. The Chinese servant abroad eliminates the picturesqueness from his character for the deleterious substitution of the conglomerated vices of civilization. He is an admirable laundryman in America, a painstaking market gardener in Australasia and an expert thief everywhere. In China, if his objections are removed, he makes an industrious but dirty retainer. Treated decently, his character registers a vague probity which exerts itself to the benefit of his master against the crowd.

The untutored native in China, more particularly where foreigners are scarce, takes himself very seriously. He assumes matrimony with laborious intensity, and even his babies are prodigies of gravity; so much depends upon their smile that it is attended almost with serious consequences. A Chinese baby, as such, never frivolsthat is permitted only when she has achieved that pinnacle of immorality which is the distinguishing feature of the dancing girl. The dancing girl tivols, and her frivolity is but the thin disguise of those women who, while not of easy virtue, are not difficult to approach. At the inn, when a traveler arrives, she is pushed forward, but her beauty is unhappily not of that high order which pays a compliment by rea-son of its presence. From Pekin, where the smells come from to Si-An-Fu, whence they spread themselves over Europe, from the new order back to the old, the pity is that the morality of the country is so susceptible. There is a self-sufficiency about these particles of Chinese life that is singularly human. The soldier, with his length of gas pipe, is the embodiment of that dignity which considers itself the protector of an empire. These martial ciphers are merely emblematic, and. for practical purposes, they have been too long in idleness. If they were properly drilled and equipped, there is mense field for organization. They can be made capable, and time will show whether, once appreciative of their own formidableness, they will summon up courage to wrest their land from the hands of the usurpers.

SUBMARINE TREASURE. Gold and Diamonds Lying at the Bet tom of the Sea.

From the London Mail: On the Cornish coast, about five miles from the Lizard, it is quite common to pick up Spanish dollars which have been washed ashore from the wreck of a galleon that went down in 1784 with a large amount of bullion on board. It is surprising that, with all the modern appliances for diving, systematic attempts are not more frequently made to recover treasure from the deep. As early as 1598 a great deal of treasure was recovered, including the historical golden cup which once belonged to Frederick, king of Sicily, from the wreck of one of the ships of the "Invincible Armada." In 1680 an American named William Phipps came over from Virginia to this country and craved the assistance of Charles II. toward recovering some wrecked treasure on the coast of Hispaniola. Charles provided him with a ship and the necessary funds, but the first attempt proved unsuccessful. In a sec-ond effort he was financed by the duke of Albemarle, and this time he succeeded in recovering specie to the value of £200,000, and after paying all expenses he was able to give the duke the sum of £80,000 as his share in the venture. The specie on board H. M. S. Lutine, wrecked in 1799 off the coast of Holland, amounted to £1,200,000, and the whole of this still remains at the bottom of the sea, with the exception of £99.859, recovered in the year 1859. Attempts to recover the remainder are still being made. Diving operations resulted in the recovery of £80,000 in gold from the wreck of the ill-fated Royal Charter, which took place close to Moelfra, off the Anglesea coast, but a vast number of diamonds are still lying about the wreck. £40,000 in specie was recovered from the wreck of the Hamilla Mitchell, in the Chinese sea, after lying in twenty-three fathoms of water for upward of twenty years, and £90,000 in gold was saved from the wreck of the Alphonso XII., which was sunk in twenty-six and onehalf fathoms of water off the Canary islands in 1885. Some of the French ships sunk at Trafalgar contained vast treasure. Five tons of silver plate, excluding the famous silver gates of St. John's Cathedral, Maita, and a ton and a half of gold plate, mostly studded with jewels, the plunder of the Maltese churches, were on board one of these ships. Not an ounce of this treasure has been recovered.

Vast Wealth in Jewels.

The glorious pearl necklace which the emperor of Austria presented to the late empress on the christening of the miserable Crown Prince Rudolph has been left to the young Archduchess Elizabeth, together with many other jewels, by her grandmother's will. The empress' own jewels, independent of those belonging to the crown, were not long since valued at $7,000,000.

HYPNOTISM AS A DRINK CURE. It Is Now Employed to Abate the Sin of Intemperance.

Many and varied are the so-called cures for that curse to humanity-habitual drunkenness. The latest treatment, and possibly one of the most effective and successful methods employed, is hypnotism. Naturally the habitual drunkard is considered harder to cure because he is in a state of perpetual intoxication, while the dipsomanic is only periodically drunk, but men versed in the knowledge of sug-gestive therapeutics say with the former drunkenness is a habit and with the latter a form of insanity. A habit can be cured by suggestion, while the patient is under a hypnotic influence, as is every day being manifested, while insanity is rarely cured by a like treat-ment. Therefore the average cures effected by hypnotic suggestion number 80 per cent, the remaining 20 usually being cases of long standing dipsomania and people who really do not care to be cured. The patient must work with the hypnotist, who is usually a registered physician. He must want to be cured and do his best to relax entirely the mind and body and to go to sleep as he is told when the magic hypnotizer of silver is held before his eyes. When he is asleep he is told that he will not care for liquor when he leaves the place, the physician speaking in a soothing monotone. The desire to be cured, the confidence in the healer, the perfect rest for the nerves. together with the physical exercise practiced and the nutritious food provided, stimulate the heart and stomach until the patient forms the habit of going without liquor. Then he goes away cured, the treatment having lasted from ten to twenty days. The stronger the patient's mind the sooner be his determination. This method of curing the liquor habit by hypnotism and suggestion is now being practiced by eminent physicians all over the country, and is being taught in one of the leading medical colleges of Chicago. It is strictly "professional," for not one of the instructors will teach the art outside the medical profes-Lightning Reveals a Tomb

German courts have just decided that the place where a newspaper editor shall be tried for libel must be the place where the publication office of the newspaper is situated, and not any place where the newspaper may chance to be sold. The point was decided by the refusal of a Berlin court to assume jurisdiction in the case of an alleged libel printed in a Breslau newspaper.
