Why Rubbers Are Considered 'Good Form."

There was a time, not so many ara back, when it was not quite fashionable to appear too robust. little languor was considered rather becoming in a young woman. But that day has passed. The pale, drooping, indoor girl has given way to the riding, walking, golf-playing girl. Health has received the seal of fash-

And everything that conduces to health is now good form. For instance, in the matter of wearing rubbers, few years ago a good many women objected to wearing rubbers, on the ground that they detracted from the trim appearance of the foot. But everybody knows that nothing else ruins the health as quickly as wet feet, and the only possible way to have dry feet-especially in winter-is to wear rubbers. So rubbers have come into style as indispensable to back good health

The added fact that rubbers are now to much more shapely and graceful in their lines than they were a dozen years ago, and that they are now made in such infinite variety, has served, of course, still further to increase their popularity,-Harper's Bazar.

Holder for Electric Lamps.

Magnetism has been applied in an ingenious way to the automatic holding of electric lamps in any desired position. The holder of the lamp, which is thoroughly magnetized, will adhere to any piece of iron or steel at any angle, so that by its use from workers can secure light at any part of their work without the inconvenience attendant on the use of a torch. As the light can be made to shine exactly where it is wanted, the magnetic holder is of the greatest service when the workman is employing the lathe, planer, drill and other tools. Its use in holler shops is doing away with torches, as it can be carried inside the bolter. For many classes of work, especially the making of Incomotives. It is highly recommended, not the least of its advantages heing that it frequently enables an assistant to be dispensed with.

Evidence of Genius.

There is a proverb which says that there are several distinct ways of removing the cuticle from the body of a feline.

And just as proverbially there are several ways of doing almost everything.

For instance:

At lancheon time the other day two clerks in a certain wholesale house of Detroit compared notes as to the condition of their reserve fund and found that they had twenty cents between them.

"I want meat and potatoes and a vegetable," said one.

"So do I," said the other. "It takes twenty cents to buy the same," continued the first,

"I know it," said the second, "but I have an idea. Come with me."

And the pair sought a certain cafe on the seventh floor of a big department store.

They whispered together as they shot up in the elevator.

They seated themselves at the table. One of them ordered meat and potatoes and cauliflower. He knew the waitress. She saw to it that he received large portions.

"No, I don't want anything," said the second. "I'm just waiting for my friend." The first ate half of what was

Miss GERTIE DUNKIN,

"I was at last persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me. I feel like a new person, and would not part with your medicine. I have recommended it to several of my friends."

Perfection of Modern Pumping Engines The standard attained by the performance of modern pumping engines is pretty high, as was illustrated by an incident which occurred not long ago in New York, where some large pumping engines that had recently been set up and were working at rather high speed and almost absolutely without noise, were inspected by an expert in such matters who hailed from an interior city. He remarked: "Well, those engines work very nicely now, but wait until you get to pumping water at that speed, and then you will hear something from them probably." His astonishment may perhaps be imagined when it was demonstrated to him that they were at that moment pumping water, and had been continuously doing so for forty-eight hours.
