Baltimore and Ohio.

From time to time articles appear in various papers about the so-called "hill control" of Baltimore & Ohio, together with exhaustive details of various struggles which are supposed to be in progress between Mr. Hill and other people in the Baltimore & Ohio board. The plain facts of the matter are, first that Mr. Hill does not control Baltimore & Ohio, nor has he at any time expressed any desire or taken any steps in that direction; and second, that there has at no time been any difference of opinion between Mr. Hill and the Baltimore & Ohio people with regard to a selection of general manager, the selection of Mr. Tucker being satisfactory to everybody, wood being satisfactory to everybody, Hill was invited to interest himself in Baltimore & Ohio, on the theory that he could be of great service to the property as an adviser, and to this end he has been in Baltimore & Ohio, purchased a substantial interest in the preferred stock of the company. This interest is nowhere near a controlling interest, but is still very large. It may be said without fear of contradiction, that there is entire harmony in Baltimore & Ohio circles from top to bottom.

Saved His Time.

"I've come to see your husband in the interest of the Knights of Labor, Mrs. Reagan," said a bland, elderly man, as the mistress of the Reagan household answered his ring. "He ain't home," said Mrs. Reagan, with arms akimbo; "but I can promise you one thing, sorr, and that is, you'll get niver a night of labor out av Tim Reagan, and it's no use tryin'!" Sure and he'd knock off work in the daytime, if it wasn't for me keepin' at him till I'm that wore out there's no stren'th left in me!"

A Painful Defect.

Uncle Silas—"I tell you, we've got the grandest and most glorious government on the face of the earth. You can rail against it purty easy, but I defy you to produce a single defect in the hull system." Uncle Hiram—"Look here, Si, we've got twenty office-hunters for every office, an' the population growin' at a fearful rate!"—New York Sun.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also used the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 215 N. 10th St., Lancaster, Ohio, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now perfectly well."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, Mansfield, La., writes:

"Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhoea and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I don't hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age."

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

To Preserve the Books. Artificial heat of all kinds is damaging to book bindings. It not only cracks the leather but the paste. A large bowl of water placed in a room containing books will moisten the air sufficiently to prevent the drying of the leather.

The Utility Box.

The utility box is the child of necessity and invention, and is the evolution from the pasteboard box filled with trifles of lace and ribbon stowed away in an obscure corner. The utility boxes come in different shapes and sizes—round, square, oblong—and are covered with pretty cretonnes, tapestries, leather or brocatelle, according to taste or purse. Some of them are trimmed with ornamental woods and brass and nickel fittings.

The prices vary from about two or three dollars to ten or fifteen, and even higher, according to the value of the cover and trimmings. Some of these are made to fit into the window to take the place of window seats, and form a delightful proxy, helped with the inevitable and ever-present sofa cushions. One can keep no end of things in these utility boxes—shoes or hats, or books, or what the New England housekeeper graphically describes as "carpet rags," in which generic term seems to be included everything, from tin pans to elder-down quilts.

The Old-Fashioned Rugs.

To make the old-fashioned braided rugs of fifty years ago, prepare three large balls made up of strips of listing, broadcloth, flannel or any other heavy woolen stuff sewed together with stout linen thread like carpet rags. These strips should be about a half inch in width. The three various strands are then tightly braided together, making one long strip. When yards and yards of this plait are in readiness, the work of sewing together is begun. The end of the plait is either doubled back on itself for two or three inches, making the foundation for an oval mat, or it may be sewed round and round with long fine stitches from the under side. Such a mat is excellent work for rainy days, even the boys and girls being invited to take a hand in its evolution. A pretty color combination is to have two of the balls a dark gray or black, and the third of blue or red flannel. Needless to say, the wearing qualities of these braided rugs are of the best, quite repaying one for the time spent in the making.

Hygiene of the Bed.

The bed is the place where we spend about one-third of our lives. A woman who has reached sixty has spent twenty in bed. Many bad habits and bad positions are formed during sleep. Some persons assume an attitude which cramps the chest so that respiration is not full and complete. The shoulders should not be drawn forward or the arms folded tightly over the chest. A narrow bed is preferable for growing girls, so they will not have room to sprawl over a large space, nor to assume a dozen grotesque shapes. The pillow should be small and hard. A large, soft pillow should not be tolerated by any girl who desires to have her head well set on her shoulders.

The bed clothing should be light but warm, of such a nature as to allow the air to pass through it freely. If the air in a bed, which soon becomes saturated with the perspiration from our bodies, does not pass off, it makes us uneasy and restless, and sound sleep is impossible.

Some women say they can sleep only on one side. If so, then there must be something wrong with them. One side is probably not evenly developed with the other. A healthy woman or girl can sleep, and should sleep on one side and then on the other, even changing unconsciously in the night. Some women twist and contort their faces during sleep, and this form wrinkles which continue during their waking hours. The reasons for this are various. Indigestible food in the stomach is one cause. Going to bed in a depressed state of mind causes the corners of the mouth to be drawn down and gives a sad expression.—Journal of Hygiene.

Recipes.

Hickory Nut Macarons.—One pound of pulverized sugar, one-half cup flour, one pint of powdered nuts, have them as fine as possible; whites of six eggs; mix dry ingredients, lastly the egg; grease tins and flour them; let cool before removing them.

Crowned Turnips.—Pare the turnips and cut them into dice, cover with boiling water and boil thirty minutes. Drain in a colander. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a fryingpan; when hot add the turnips and one tablespoonful of granulated sugar; stir and turn until the turnips are nicely browned. Dust with salt and pepper and serve.

Fruit Biscuits.—As these are for snapper, set the sponge in the morning with one pint of warm milk, one-half yeast cake, dissolved, and one pint of flour. When light add one cup prepared currants, one cup sugar, a little salt and flour for dough. When light mold into biscuits and when light again glaze with sweet cream or melted butter and sugar; bake and serve warm.

Plum Porridge.—Old-fashioned plum porridge may be made either of wheat flour or Indian meal. When it is made of the meal it will take a longer time to prepare, as it requires at least two hours to cook it thoroughly. When the porridge is done add the stewed plums. Prunes or raisins can also be used. Stir the fruit in slowly to prevent it breaking, and serve with sugar and cream.

Famous Dog Actors.

Of all the illustrious dogs which ever trod the boards, the most famous is Dragon, the property of Capt. Montdidier in the French army. This gentleman was murdered in the Forest of Bundy by his friend, Lieut. Macaire, of the same regiment. After the crime Dragon showed such a strange aversion to Macaire that suspicion was aroused against him. In the end he confessed his crime, and his accomplice, Landry, in trying to escape, was seized by the faithful animal and bitten to death. This story has held the English stage, on and off, since the year of Waterloo, and it is only three decades since two "stars" named Lamb and Emmett, played in it with their trained dog Carlo at the Marylebone Theater, London. This animal was also the principal performer in a canine drama named "Poor Dog Tray." Eighty years ago there was a theater at Peckham, where a youth named John Baldwin Buckstone made his debut as the injured captain. There is a venerable theatrical legend which deals with a piece called "The Caravan Driver and His Dog." One evening the leading tragedian was taken ill, and the prompter rushed off to the manager to inform him that the play must be changed. "How you alarmed me," said that worthy man, ordering a glass of strong brandy and water to steady his nerves; "the tragedian unwell! I was afraid it was the dog."—New York Times.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do? It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

Would you like a copy of our book on the Hair and Scalp? It is free.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.

HOME AGAIN.

At last it sounds. The phrase we longed to hear. Is brave and glad in the triumphant cheer. But tenderest when a weary one may rest. At last with those who know and love him best. The fleeting years bid memory pause. Life's crude and cruel lines. In softened grace. The picture, lit by hope instead of pain, shines, as our boys repeat it, "Home again." And we, who could but watch the empty chair. And pray for one whose place was waiting there. Found in the oldtime haunts so sad a change. That places most familiar grew most strange. We, who were fighters from the battle scene. With step grown lighter and with pulses keen. Like wanderers hear the welcoming refrain. For we, with you, at last are "Home again."—Washington Star.

HUMOROUS.

"Is your flat crowded?" "Crowdedly. We can't yawn without opening a window."

"Are you still keeping up with national affairs, Mrs. Shortfald?" "No, I quit long ago; my war scrapbook is full."

Nowpoo—I have noticed that babies always have very open countenances. Oldpoo—Yes; especially about midnight.

A shoemaker has a ward in his window reading, "Any respectable man, woman or child can have it in this store."

Check—Are you going to buy a new directory? The Boss—Well, I guess not! Why, the one we have isn't half worn out yet.

He—Unless you marry me I shall go to the Klondike. She—There! Papa said you were a large fortune-hunter, and now you've proved it.

"Sorry I have no social change," said a gentleman to a beggar. "All right, yet honor," was the reply "I'll give ye credit. Where do ye live?"

Hicks—Just now, Hensley, had been to the doctor. Hensley tells him he is looking himself again. Hicks—Is he really as bad as that? Poor fellow!

"Even in China woman is rapidly supplanting man." "How do you make that out?" "Haven't you noticed that the man behind the throne is a woman?"

Rector (going his rounds)—One pig that, Mr. Gibbler unconquomely fine. Contumacious Villages—Ah, yes, sir; if we was only all of us as fit to die as him, sir!

"The talkative seems to be quite a singer," said the singing master. "It beats me, my voice is so rough."

"No, too," replied the rolling pin; "I can't get beyond dough."

Mrs. Hiram—Doer, I wish you'd bring home a dozen Harveyized steel plates. Mr. Hiram—What do you mean? Mrs. Hiram—I'm just curious to see what Bridget would do with them.

Jeweler (extending heavy charge)—That watch was in an awful condition. Why, sir, two hands have been constantly on it ever since you left it. Customer (dryly)—That's apparent on the face of it.

"Of course," said the lady with the steel-bound glasses. "I expected to be called 'strong-minded' after making a speech three hours long in favor of our sex, but to have it misprinted into 'strong-winded' was too much."

Fenderson—Do you know, I half believe Bass meant to insult me yesterday. Fogg—What did he say to you? Fenderson—He advised me not to visit the Vegetarian club, and it has just come to me that he meant to insinuate that I am a beat.

Charitable person to ragged and shivering tramp on a cold day: "Well, my man, I object to giving money, but if you come home with me I will give you an overcoat that will last you through the winter." "Overcoat! I suppose you want to ruin my business."

Pithy Remarks.

"Oh, don't that lay a small delightfully" exclaimed the summer boarder somewhat ungenuinely, as the New Hampshire farmer drove her near a field of mown grass.

"Humph!" retorted the farmer, "it smells of hard work."

The answer illustrates the grim humor of the New England farmer of the olden time, whose here literary sentimentousness restricted him to brief but strong expression. Another illustration of this grim, pithy humor is given in the life-story of the Massachusetts town of Pelham.

John Harkness, a farmer of that town, while plowing a gravelly knoll, on autumn day, had halted the oxen to rest just as a gentleman, driving a pair of horses, passed up the high hill road near by. The gentleman, stopping his turnout, bade the farmer good morning and added:

"May I ask you one question?" "What is it?" answered the farmer. "What will such land as you are plowing bear?"

"It will bear manure, sir," answered the farmer; and laying a load of the plow handles, he started up his cattle.—Youth's Companion.

A Reign of Terror.

A sort of reign of terror prevails in the neighborhood of Cuddewood hill, in Groton, Conn., because of the gathering in the dense wood at the foot of the hill, in consequence of the wintry weather, of three lynxes. People living in the neighborhood have become so frightened at the sight and sound of these animals that they dare not venture far into the woods. Several persons have seen the lynxes, which are very large and ugly. One man with a gun in his hand was so frightened by coming upon them unexpectedly that he ran like a madman for half a mile to a neighbor's house without stopping.—New York Sun.

IVORY SOAP PASTE.

In fifteen minutes' time, with only a cake of Ivory Soap and water, you can make in your own kitchen, a better cleansing paste than you can buy.

Ivory Soap Paste will take spots from clothing; and will clean carpets, rugs, kid gloves, slippers, patent, enamel, russet leather and canvas shoes, leather belts, painted wood-work and furniture. The special value of Ivory Soap in this form arises from the fact that it can be used with a damp sponge or cloth to cleanse many articles that cannot be washed because they will not stand the free application of water.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING.—To one pint of boiling water add one and one-half ounces of Ivory Soap cut into shavings, boil five minutes after the soap is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the fire, and cool in convenient dishes (not tin). It will keep well in an airtight glass jar.

By the beard of the prophet! Screw tighter, men, for he seems to be enjoying the whole affair!" "Why, you doddering old fossil!" cheerfully replied the victim, "that vial had corn cure in it; and as for your old fashioned iron boot here, why, let me tell you that I lived in America, when the styles of shoes changed from broad toes to pointed.
