Silk Mill Notes.

The repairs on the silk mill are almost completed. The roof is now covering again the entire demolished space, and sash windows are set in place. Rain, hail or snow will hereafter be kept out of the place. Steam fitters will be set to work immediately putting up lines to dry up the too often deluged part, and in a week or so even the remembrance of the terrific storm will have faded away, as no trace of it will be visible on the monumental building. It was quick work done, if reminded that the tornado ransacked this part of the country the 14th of January, and if taken into consideration that rain and snow and very heavy frost have delayed the work for more than a week, and prevented the masons and bricklayers from making any headway.

Work at the mill has been running on as usual, and every one of the 150 looms which were not under the wrecked part have been humming all the time.

The new roof is to be entirely tarred as the temperature gets a little milder.

Miss May Munsheimer, the forelady of the second floor, is thronging now with her hard work of fixing up smashed warps. Her department is working in full force.

Machinery will this week be set up in its former place, and the handsome room on the second floor, 330 feet long by 45 feet wide, will again appear a thing of beauty when all the big reels of the warping frame will shine with all the lively and sparkling shades of the summer of 1899.

230 hands are now steadily employed at the mill.

Robert Turner, a loom fixer from Philadelphia, came last Wednesday to take charge of a section of the looms at mill.

Lorenzo B. Keys, another loom fixer, also from Philadelphia, arrived on Thursday.

Chas. Cooper, the loom fixer, was taken sick on Saturday last and is still not feeling very well.

Foreman Peter Durand will start the fifty looms which were ready to be started when the awful storm did its damage. Hurry up and go ahead seems to be the motto at the silk mill.

BLACK JOHN, EX-LOOM FIXER.

Headache for Forty Years.

For forty years I suffered from sick headache. About a year ago I began using Colery King. The result was gratifying and surprising, my headaches leaving at once. The headaches used to return every seventh day, but thanks to Colery King, I have had but one headache in the last eleven months. I know that what cured me will help others.—Mrs. John D. SHERIFF E. C. BURNS.

Livery, Sale and Feed Stables. The splendid livery, feed and sale stables conducted by Mr. E. C. Burns are not only well and favorably known in Reynoldsville, but have a wide reputation for the fine style in which they are conducted and the peerless turnouts which are equal to anything to be seen in this section of the state. Mr. Burns keeps a large number of fine driving horses, among which are some matched teams of superior style and beauty, and his handsome coaches and carriages are models of design and splendor in appearance. His light rigs are also first class and while he maintains his stables as the leaders in their line and furnishes the public with the finest outfits, his charges are as low as those of any other stable. Special arrangements are made for weddings, funerals, and all kinds of social gatherings, and to commercial men. He also boards horses for any length of time and gives them the very best treatment at the most reasonable rates. Mr. Burns is acknowledged to be a fine judge of horseflesh and his fair dealings and integrity have won for him the confidence and trust of all.

ROBINSON & MUNDORFF.

Wholesale and Retail Grocers.

In this age of keenest competition, when small profits and quick sales are the order, our most enterprising and wide awake business men devote much of their attention to the problem of how to sell on the smallest possible margin and do a living business. This great problem has been solved in the most satisfactory manner by such houses as Messrs. Robinson & Mundorff by selling all goods for cash, which enables them to deduct the percentage loss on accounts from the selling price of goods and thus to save customers many dollars each month. In this way, while selling goods much cheaper than competitors, the money is quickly turned, the goods are kept fresh and the patronage is increased. The operations are both retail and wholesale and in which the stock consists of canned goods, sugars, coffees, soups, spices, vinegar, syrup, flour, bran, chop, hay and feed of all kinds. The premises are centrally located and Messrs. Robinson & Mundorff are our most enterprising and popular business men and their trade is rapidly increasing.

HALL & BARTON.

Where Reynoldsville People get Their Hardware.

The hardware business in Jefferson county has an efficient representative in the firm of Messrs. Hall & Barton, who occupy a handsome and well arranged store on Main street. The premises are spacious and thoroughly equipped with every convenience for the successful prosecution of the business, while the carefully and tastefully dressed windows are an attractive feature. The immense stock carried embraces everything in heavy and shelf hardware, machinists' and mechanics' tools, plumbers' supplies, cutlery, firearms, ammunition, tinware, granite ware, lamps, garden tools, etc. The famous Welsbach goods, such as lamps and mantels, cook stoves, gas heaters, etc., they have in stock. These goods should be seen to be appreciated. This store has become the popular store in this region for the purchase of everything in these lines. Several courteous assistants aid in attending to the wants of patrons, while their favorable prices and liberal dealing has become too well known to require mention. Messrs. Hall & Barton's comprehensive assortment, combined with their personal popularity, have been the elements of their gratifying success.

W. G. HARTWICK.

A Labor Saving Washing Machine—The Imperial Hotel.

The manufacture of this washing machine means a lot of labor saved and it was not long ago that Mr. Hartwick conceived a new idea in the washing machine industry and which he got patented, and now puts on the market the best washing machine ever invented and which is guaranteed to wash clean or in less time than any machine before the public today. Since the beginning of the manufacture of this machine he has received flattering recognition from all over the country. Every home should have one of these washers to lessen the work of the wife or daughter. The greatest care is used in the manufacture of these machines, while every detail is under the most careful supervision. The factory is constantly kept busy on orders all the time, and Mr. Hartwick is kept busy supplying agents all over the country and in appointing agents. He is one of our most public spirited and progressive business men, whose every effort has been for our industrial and social advancement.

EAST END MEAT MARKET.

G. W. Shoffer, Prop.

There is no department of trade that equals in importance that of the butcher who supplies the public with good, fresh and pure meat, hence the necessity of dealing with parties who are known to keep the best and to treat the public fairly and honestly. Mr. Shoffer conducts in the East End an establishment where everything is fresh, neat and inviting. The store room is well appointed and is stocked with a line of meats not to be excelled by any market in the town. The business has had a steady growth from its inception and the success met with is due in a great measure to personal popularity, a thorough knowledge of the business, and the sagacity displayed in purchasing stock. The immense stock consists of fresh butter and eggs, salt meats, lard, Bologna, lamb, mutton, pork, ham, beef, and game in season. Mr. Shoffer has had considerable experience in this business and knows exactly what the public requires, and through his courteous methods he has met with success and a fast increasing trade, while he is well and favorably known in business circles.

High School Bulletin.

EDITORIAL STAFF: Editor-in-Chief, James G. Peata, '99. Asst. Editor, Lola Robinson, '00. Local Editor, Florence Stone, '00.

In speaking of ex-editor Herpel, who resigned last Friday.—"Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed, that he hath grown so great?"

The army-meat question, which is at present occupying the minds of many of our citizens, is creating an equal interest in the High School. We feel it is arousing considerable ill feeling between few of the nation's leaders and the packers. Whether or not the meat was cured is a mere conjecture on our part; but if such be the case, we are positive that a decrease in the export of beef will be inevitable, and in all probability has already begun.

Now about territorial expansion! It will soon be discussed in a mild way by few of the members of the Shakespearean Society.

We are informed that Philip Weinstein, Sub-Ed. dry goods merchant, intends going out of business. The report is confirmed by the fact that he was seen in the store door one day last week taking in stock-ings.

A pupil from one of the lower rooms, while endeavoring to avoid truant officer Warnick, crawled into a sugar hogshead which seemed to be waiting to rescue him. His first exclamation on entering was,—“Oh, for a thousand tongues.”

The regular program of the Shakespearean Literary society will not be rendered next Friday. It was postponed for one week so that those who are to discuss the Philippine annexation question will have sufficient time to be well prepared. Prof. Lenkerd has promised to entertain the society Friday afternoon by his lantern views on the White City. The lantern is a good one, and is accompanied by many beautiful slides. We feel certain that the afternoon will prove instructive as well as entertaining.

What is the matter with DuBois High school? Their Bulletin has not appeared in the Express for some time. The students would be pleased to have occasional visits by those patrons who are complaining about the slow progress at school. They find such statements are made by those who never visit the place of education.

The names of those who were chosen to fill the several offices of the Shakespearean Literary society are as follows: Pres., Elvie Coleman; Vice-Pres., Pearl Barto; Secretary, Frankie King; Program Com., Harry Herpel, Bertha Marshall; Critics, Maggie Davis, Will Smith, Winfield Sterley.

Miss Lulu Black, one of our teachers, entertained a number of her friends at Hotel Imperial last Friday evening. All present reported having had a very pleasant time.

How is this? A new set of editors! Wonder if they can't get a staff that suits the students. I'll bet those who edited the column last week resigned because they didn't receive enough assistance from the remaining pupils. Looks quite suspicious.—Such is the talk of the Bulletin's readers. The present staff will resign in a few weeks, for if they don't the request for them to put the pen in the rack will be made.

We wish Jr. I would bring her new dinner box to school. From the description it must be very beautiful as well as serviceable,—as it holds enough for two. The builder must be a very skillful machinist. '00.

We are pleased to learn that Aida McEntire is improving very rapidly, and have sincere hopes that she will be able to resume her studies soon.

The students of this school voted ten dollars to be expended on the Lafayette monument which will be erected in Paris, France, in 1900. Since the greater part of the money needed for this memorial is being furnished by the pupils of the American schools, we think the pupils of France should return the favor by paying the expenses for a journey of some of our representatives out of the many who would like to see the monument.
