Neither can you cure catarrh by local applications. It is a constitutional disease, and is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla because it is a constitutional remedy. It expels from the blood the impurity which causes the disease, and rebuilds and repairs the inflamed membranes.

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hood's Sarsaparilla is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. CHESNEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Ingenuity of the Tahitians.
The Tahitians are said to be the people most serviceable to the traveler. They seem, in fact, to command at all times the principal conveniences of life. Half an hour of daylight is sufficient for building a house of the stems and leaves of the fehi banana, and fire is produced by rubbing sticks. If the running water is deeply sunk among stones, by working in banana leaves they bring it to the surface. The chase of eels, which in those dripping mountains become almost amphibious, offers another instance of their ingenuity. They tear off with their teeth the fibrous bark of a "puran" (Hibiscus tiliaceus) and a moment after apply it to noosing small fish. If one is sent for fruit he will usually make a basket on the way by plaiting the segments of a cocoanut leaf. A mat will be manufactured with almost equal ease. Clothing is always at hand, and a banana leaf serves for an umbrella. Tumblers and bottles are supplied by single joints of the bamboo, and casks or buckets by the long stems, and whether you ask for a hatchet, knife, spoon, toothbrush, or washbasin, the guides will never be found at a loss.—San Francisco Chronicle

How Mrs. Pinkham HELPED MRS. GOODEN.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 12733]

"I am very grateful to you for your kindness and the interest you have taken in me, and truly believe your medicines and advice are worth more to a woman than all the doctors in the world. For years I had female troubles and did nothing for them. Of course I became no better and finally broke down entirely. My troubles began with inflammation and hemorrhages from the kidneys, then inflammation, congestion and falling of the womb and inflammation of ovaries.
"I underwent local treatment every day for some time; then after nearly two months the doctor gave me permission to go back to work. I went back, but in less than a week was compelled to give up and go to bed. On breaking down the second time, I decided to let doctors and their medicine alone and try your remedies. Before the first bottle was gone I felt the effects of it. Three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of her Sanative Wash did me more good than all the doctors' treatments and medicine.
"The first remark that greets me now is 'How much better you look!' and you may be sure I never hesitate to tell the cause of my health."—Mrs. M. J. Gooden, Acclay, Ia.

FARM TOPICS

Time to Cut Millet.
There is a popular belief that millet seed is very good for horses, and the desire to get it well developed causes this grain to be generally cut too early to make the best fodder. Even for horses we should cut it before the seed was fully grown. It will gain some in size after the stalk is severed from its roots. For cows it should always be cut early, and as the millet hay has to be cured when days are rapidly shortening, it should be put in cock and kept there until ready to be drawn to the barn or stack.

Topping Corn.
Old farmers can remember when it was common practice to cut off the tops of corn two or three times before harvesting it to let the sun in so as to ripen the ears better. It was then generally thought that the sun shining on the stalk was a great help to ripening. Now it is known that it is the sunshine on the leaves that enables them to draw carbon from the air to furnish sweetness to the stalk and starch to the grain. The Law of Compensation.
From the Argonaut: Richard Cumberland, the playwright, was extremely jealous of his young rival, Richard Sheridan. It is related that he took his children to see one of the first performances of "The School for Scandal," and when they screamed with delight their irritable father pinched them, saying: "What are you laughing at? You should not laugh, my angels; there is nothing to laugh at," adding in an undertone: "Keep still, you little devils." When this was reported to Sheridan, he said: "It was ungrateful in Cumberland to be displeased with his children for laughing at my comedy, for when I went to see his tragedy I laughed from beginning to end."

Hatching of Eggs.
When fowls are in full vigor in spring their eggs hatch earlier than the twenty-one days that are commonly reckoned for hens' eggs. We have known the eggs to be hatched a day earlier than the three weeks usually allowed. Later in the season, though, when the weather is warmer, it takes longer to hatch the eggs, some even requiring twenty-three or twenty-four days, and some chicks dying in the shell. Late in the season the hens lay fewer eggs, and with thicker shells than when the egg production is most abundant. It is easy to find if a living chick is in the shell, and the best way to get it out without destroying the chick is to moisten the shell with water, which has been gradually warmed, taking care not to use water that has been boiled, as that has divested the water of air, and putting such water on the egg may cause the death of the chick within. On no account should an egg be broken to get the chick out. If it cannot make its way out by picking after the shell has been softened, it has too little vitality to be worth raising.

Good Features For Cattle Stalls.
The cut shows a number of features that go to make an excellent cow stall—sloping partitions to keep the hay in the crib and sloping partitions between each cow, a chain hitch that is attached to both sides of the stall, giving the cow freedom of movement, but not too much freedom, and, lastly, a raised piece of plank that the cow steps over in order to eat, but must step back across when desirous of lying down. Trial of this plan shows that it does much toward keeping the cows clean, as it brings them back to

The arrangement of the chain fastening in the way suggested is the nearest approach possible to the stiff stanchion in controlling the movement of the cattle, while doing away with the most serious faults of the stanchion, yet it is but an instant's work to hook it about an animal's neck, with a snap at the under part to attach to the crosswise chain when the animal is brought into the stall. AN EXCELLENT COW STALL.
the manure gutter when lying down. Go the rounds the last thing at night and remove any droppings that may have fallen upon the platform. This will insure a dry bed during the night. The arrangement of the chain fastening in the way suggested is the nearest approach possible to the stiff stanchion in controlling the movement of the cattle, while doing away with the most serious faults of the stanchion, yet it is but an instant's work to hook it about an animal's neck, with a snap at the under part to attach to the crosswise chain when the animal is brought into the stall. The neck chain then serves a good purpose when leading the stock out to water or when moving the animals about for other purposes.—New York Tribune.
