Proud of His Labels.

A dainty looking young man boarded a Fourteenth street car at Massachusetts avenue the other night. He was carrying a leather suit case. Pasted all over the suit case were labels indicating much foreign travel—steamer posters slapped on at Dieppe, Havre, Ostend, Bremen, Cherbourg, Liverpool, Yarmouth, Naples, and railroad labels that bore the names of all lines all the way from Constantinople to St. Petersburg. The young man of dainty appearance put the suit case down between his legs, and all the people in the seats opposite began a fascinated sort of inspection of the labels. A stout man with several of the component parts of a jag who sat next to the young man seemed to regard the labels with particular interest. He stooped over and deciphered them carefully and elaborately, and then he looked up at the owner of the suit case with a leer.

"Been around right smart, hain't you, podner?" he inquired.

The young man regarded him with a smile.

"Never been farther away from Washington than New York in my life," he replied, without any hesitation whatsoever. "I got that whole bunch of labels for half a dollar at a little money exchanging joint, down near the Battery, in New York. Hot scheme, isn't it?"

The frankness of the statement so dazed several of the passengers who overheard it that they got off at the wrong theater.—Washington Post.

The Stag Beetle.

As you walk by the hedge-side a strange noise suddenly arrests your attention. It is the buzz of an insect, but loud enough to startle you. It might be mistaken for the reeling of a night jar, but it is perhaps more like the jarring hum of a fastly driven motor car.

The reason of the noise is that the beetle has with great pains climbed up a certain height from the ground, and in order to ascertain whether he has got far enough, he erects himself on his stand, lifts his wing cases, shakes out his wings and begins to agitate them violently, turning this way and that to make sure that he has a clear space.

If he then attempts to fly—it is one of his common blunders he instantly strikes against some branch or cluster of leaves and is thrown down. The tumble does not hurt him in the least, but so greatly astounds him that he remains motionless a good while; then, recovering his senses, he begins to ascend again. At length, after a good many accidents and adventures by the way, he gets on to the topmost twig, and, after some buzzing to get up steam, launches himself heavily on the air and goes away in grand style.—Longman's.

Looking Out For Alma Mater.

No doubt the casual observer has often noticed how unceasingly requests flow into the treasuries of certain universities, but he may not know that the alumni of those institutions, particularly the lawyers, have it always on their minds to secure, or at least to suggest, bequests.

One of these men, a prominent corporation lawyer of this city, was speaking of the custom the other day. He explained that a lawyer and his client usually sit down to talk over the general subject of a will. If the client has more than enough money to meet the actual needs of his family, he commonly says something of charitable or educational institutions, generally in a vague way, which makes it quite natural for his lawyer to suggest as a definite object his own alma mater. The lawyer referred to had himself secured several bequests, one of them for the sum of $500,000. "But," said he, smiling, "a young lawyer in my office has just cut me out of $100,000, which he put in a will for his own alma mater. It was a very good stroke on his part, the more so because our respective universities have been bitter athletic rivals for years."—New York Mail and Express.

Rather Cold Blooded.

Of the tactics of infantry there is no end, but there are some simple rules for the individual foot soldier to remember when lost in the chaos of battle. If you cannot bayonet your enemy, shoot him. If he goes away, aim at the base of his spine. But do not let your attention be distracted from business by the consideration that other people are making a mark of you. It is your duty to kill the highest possible number of those opposed to you, not to save your own skin.—"How Soldiers Fight," by F. Norreys-Connell.

Good Cheer.

"Now tell me, doctor, candidly, is there anything really the matter with my wife?"

"Yes. Her vocal cords are sadly affected. I'm afraid she may lose her voice."

"Say, drop in on your way back from the office and chat awhile, will you? Things have been going badly with me lately and it's so comforting to hear you talk."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Japan is a corruption of the Chinese word Shi-pen-kue, which means "root of day," or "sunrise kingdom," because Japan is directly east of China.

The British soldier's dress was not always red. It was white in the reign of Henry VIII and dark green in the time of Elizabeth.

Great Soldier Memorial.

The successful culmination of the long cherished plans of the Sons of Veterans to found a great memorial university will be good news to patriotic people everywhere. In so far as the general public is concerned perhaps the most interesting feature will be the war museum, where in a fire proof building will be gathered relics of war times, now hid away in garrets or insecurely stored in G. A. R. Post rooms. It is also proposed to provide free scholarship for worthy discharged orphans from the soldiers' orphans' homes of the various states.

This university will be unique in character, being dedicated to patriotism and having a chair of applied patriotism. All the patriotic societies of the nation are deeply interested in this movement and are aiding in the work. It will be amply endowed, an honor to the men and women of war times and a credit to the people whose contributions have made it possible. By vote of the Commandry in Chief of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., which convenes at Syracuse, N. Y., in September a location will be selected and the work of building commenced at once. This is the most practical soldier memorial yet proposed and in founding this university the order, Sons of Veterans, does its duty by both ancestry and posterity. Its doors will be open to all worthy students and will greatly assist in elevating the standard of citizenship in the United States.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold by H. Alex. Stoke, druggist.

JOHN S. BARR, Brookville, Pa.

Clear and to the Point.

The following is taken from a hotel advertisement in the Calcutta Times: "Gentlemen who come in hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for, and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, etc., and if they say that they not have anything to eat they will be charged, and if not so they will not be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager of the place, and should they want to say anything they must order the manager for one, not any one else, and unless they bring not it to the notice of the manager they will be charged for the least things according to the hotel rate, and no fuss will be allowed afterward about it."

A Poultry Problem.

A Somerville man borrowed a neighbor's hen on the pretense that he wanted her to sit. As soon as he got the hen he broke up the sitting habit and got her to laying eggs. In the next six weeks she laid two dozen eggs. These he sold for 40 cents a dozen, and with the 80 cents that he got for them he bought the hen. Now the question arises whether the original owner of the hen was fooled or not.—Somerville Journal.

Was it a Miracle?

"The marvelous cure of Mrs. Rena J. Stout of consumption has created intense excitement in Cummack, Ind.," writes Marion Stuart, a leading druggist of Muncie, Ind. "She only weighed 99 pounds when her doctor in Yorktown said she must soon die. Then she began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and gained 37 pounds in weight and was completely cured." It has cured thousands of hopeless cases, and is positively guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at H. Alex. Stoke's drug store.
