PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE FOR WOMEN,

East End, Pittsburg, Pa.

Death of Robert M. Ross.

Robert M. Ross, a well known young farmer of the Beechwoods, died Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock after an illness of eighteen hours from cholera morbus and cramps. Mr. Ross worked all day on Tuesday and while he did not feel quite as well as usual he seemed to be in good health. That night he was taken seriously ill and continued to get worse until Wednesday morning when he became unconscious, He lingered in this state for some time and died early in the afternoon as above stated. His death is a shock to the entire community.

The deceased was born in the Beechwoods 34 years ago and is the sou of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, well known residents of this place. After his parents moved to this place Robert assumed charge of the homestead farm where he died. Several years non he was married to Miss Ida Moore and the widow and two children survive. Mr. Ross was a man of good business principles and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a successful farmer and was upright in all his dealings with his fellow man .- Brockwayville Record.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 2.00 p. m. Friday, conducted by Rev. Wick, pastor of the Warsaw M. E. church, of which the deceased was a member. Interment took place in the Beschwoods cometery. The funeral was the largest one over seen in Beechwoods on a week day. It is claimed that there were one hundred and forty conveyances in the funeral

Soft Coal Market.

Soft coal continues to be in good request, and at all the districts there is active work being carried on, so that the output is large and there is no difficulty in disposing of it; there is plenty of home demand for coal and the foreign tende is looking toward very much larger quantity than has been thought of heretofore: this outside trade is likely to be of very great benefit to the Amerlean producer, for otherwise the continued opening of new property would seem to be in excess of the home demand, even in view of the growing tonrage likely to be demanded for that division of our industrial enterprises using bituminous coal. Some parties in the trade are inclined to view as among the possibilities an equal trade this fall to that of last, while others are not so optimistic.

At Buffalo the soft coal market is very quiet, there being plenty of coal on hand for all ordinary demands. The railroad companies are taking time by the forelock and are all laying in a supply of fuel coal in order not to take any chances of being disappointed when the market takes a sport. The general inquiry is very light with little prospect of improvement.

Dangerone Ettquette. Old world privilege and restriction reign supreme in Spain, where there is a law that no subject shall touch the person of the king or queen.

Alfonso XIII nearly suffered a s vere fall from this rule in his childhood. An aug of his made him a present of a swing. When he used it and the first time, the motion frightened him, and he began to cry, whereupon a lackey lifted him quietly out of it and so, no doubt, preserved him from fall-

The breach of etiquette, however, was flagrant and dreadful. The queen was obliged to punish it by dismissing the man from his post. At the same time she showed her real feelings on the subject by appointing him immediately to another and better place in the royal household. In another case a queen of Spain nearly lost her life in a dreadful way owing to this peculiar rule. She had been thrown when out riding, and, her foot catching in the stirrup, she was dragged. Her escort would not risk interference, and she would have been dashed to pieces but for the heroic in-terposition of a young man who stopped the horse and released her from her dangerous position. As soon as they saw she was safe ber escort turned to arrest the traitor who had dared to touch the queen's foot, but he was not to be seen. Knowing well the penalty he had incurred. he made off at once, fled for his life and did not stop until he had crossed the frontier.

She Rode Free.

A woman who had come out of the west, where she had been a cow girl on a ranch, was boarding a car in this city recently. She had just placed her foot upon the step and was preparing to take another step to the upper platform when, with a furious "Step lively!" the conductor pulled the strap. The car jerked forward, and the west ern woman swayed back for a minute. then just caught herself in time to prevent a bad fall upon the cobbles. She confronted the conductor with angry eyes eyes that had looked undismayed into those of mighty horned monsters of the prairies. "What do you mean by starting the car before I was on it?" she asked. "Can't wait all day for you, lady," the conductor snarled. "Just step inside there." In a moment the western woman, with a backward golf sweep of the arm, lunged for the conductor's head. He dodged. The blow sent his hat spinning back into the track. The woman entered the car and sat down. She was flushed, but dignified. While the other women passengers were rather startled, they all knew just how she felt. Then the car stopped, while the conductor went back for his hat. The western woman rode free that time .-

Lost Hat Stories. The London Globe has been collecting a series of lost hat stories, of which the following are specimens: A father and son were standing at entrance to Old Chain pier at Brighton when the dear little boy tumbled into the dancing waves. A stander, accoutered as plunged into the sea and, buffeting the waves with lusty sinews, succeeded at last in setting the dripping child at his father's feet. "And what hae ye do .. wi' his hat?" said papa.

A correspondent sent the following narrative: A festive bluejacket was seen from a ship in Malta harbor dancing on the top of the parapet wall at Fort Ricasoli. First his hat blew over. and then, leaning over to look for it, he lost his balance and fell after it-a sheer drop of 30 feet or more. The surgeon on duty was landed with a party to bring off the remains for dentification. They found them crawling about on hands and knees and inquired if he was seriously hurt. "Hurt be blowed!" was his reply. my bat?"

Only a Misunderstanding.

Several years ago, in a well known wholesale house in a big manufactur-ing town, an old bachelor bookkeeper, who had been many years with the firm, suddenly announced that he was to be married. The partners gave him a week's holiday, and his fellow clerks raised a little purse and presented it to pay the expenses of his wedding trip. A couple of days after the wedding one of the numbers of the firm went down to a seaside resort, and there, lounging about the parade and apparently enjoying himself immensely. he saw his recently married old bookkeeper, but alone. Where's your wife?" asked the prin-

"She's at home," was the reply. "But I thought you had money given you for a wedding trip?"
"So I had," was the reply, "but I # didn't understand that it was intended to include her."-Pearson's Weekly. A Question of Gramme

"Ain't you got any sense?" asked the 4-year-old daughter of the man who doesn't believe in corporal punishment.

"Why, my dear," said the father reprovingly, "aren't you ashamed to talk to papa that way?"

"Excuse me, papa," she answered. "I meaned to say isn't you got any sense?"
