An Odd Sort of Dinner

Lord Polkemmet, a Scottish lord of session, usually retired to his country residence during the part of the year when the court does no business. John Hagart, the Scottish advocate. equally idle from a similar cause, went shoot, and, happening to pass Lord P.'s property, he met his lordship, who politely invited John to take, or, as he said, to tak', a family dinner with him self, his wife and daughter.

John accepted the invitation, and they all assembled at the hour of dinner. There was a joint of roasted veni at the head of the table and stewed veal at the bottom, veal soup in the middle, calf's head on one side of the soup and veal cutlets on the other. calf's foot jelly between the soup and roast veal and calf's brains between the stewed veal and the soup.

"Noo," said his lordship in his own blunt way, "Mr. Hagart, you may very likely think this an odd sort of dinner, but ye'll no wonder when you hear the cause of it. We keep nae company. Mr. Hagart, and my daughter here caters for our table. The way we do is just this: We kill a beast, as it were. today, and we just begin to cook it at one side of the head, travel down that side, turn the tail and just gang back again by the other side to where we be-

Queen Margherita of Italy was anxlous that her husband, King Humbert, should follow the example of his father and the fashion common among elderly Piedmontese officers and dy his hair. Her pleadings were in vain. Seeing entreaty was in vain, the queen had recourse to stratagem. She caused a quantity of fine hair dye to be sent from Paris and put in the king's dressing room, together with directions for its use, making, however, no allusion to the subject. The king, too, said nothing, though he could not fail to see the pigments.

Now, the queen had a large white poodle of which he was very fond. What was her horror a few days later to see her pet come running into her room with his snowy locks all turned to a jet black. King Umberto had expended the dyes upon changing the color of the poodle's hair! From that day forth the subject of hair dye was dropped between the royal couple.

Laughs and Mishaps. What queer things the average per-son laughs at. If some one slips and falls or is unfortunate enough to make any awkward blunder, the average person thinks it very funny and laughs and repeats the affair for a funny story. If some one makes an unfortunate remark accidentally, his embarrass ment is always a theme for merriment. Women, who are supposed to be sym-pathetic, are the ones who have the largest stock of such funny stories. They always seem to be a success. People love to laugh at the misfortunes of oth-ers.—Atchison Globe. The Vampire Bat.

South America, especially Venesuela is the home of the vampire bat, that horrible animal whose blood sucking propensities are so well known. In Venezuela the vampire when caught is often made the subject of an experiment that is as curious as it is cruel, though in connection with such a loathsome animal as this glant bat the cruelty is rather naturally lost sight of by the people who have to suffer from its ravages.

The vampire is captured in a thick cloth. It is then taken out, and through its two extended wings nails are driven, securing the animal to a door or a wooden paling. A cigarette is then lighted and placed in the bat's mouth. At once the animal's eyes shine strangely, and it begins to puff the smoke in and out with frenzied gasps. its actions being exactly those of the most hardened smoker, keeping firm hold of the cigarette the while between its sharp, deadly teeth. When the cig-arette is nearly finished, a blow on the head puts an end to the animal's ex

The extraordinary part of the experiment lies in the fact that the but does not at once reject the cigarette, as he is of course at liberty to do. There are many who affirm that the bat really does enjoy the tobacco. The probabili-ty is that the animal is so maddened by fear and pain that he puffs away unreasoningly and flercely, his instinct telling him that in the properties of the tobacco lles oblivion.

"Norma" and Liberty.
In an air in the opera of "Norma" the theatrical censor went so far as to cancel the word "liberta" (liberty) and substitute for it the word "lealta" (loyalty). * * * Signor Ronconi, the famous baritone and a great public favorite, having, in the ardor of his role, forgotten the above mentioned emenda-tion, was imprisoned for three days in order to refresh his memory.

Not long after, singing the line in the "Elisir d'Amore" describing bow a peasant enlisted, "Vende la liberta, si fe soldato" (He sold his liberty to be a soldier), he waggishly altered it to "Vende la lealta, si fe soldato." This variation in the text was received with lively applause by the public, who always warmly welcomed anything that savored of political opposition.

The next day the poor singer was summoned by the head of the police to receive a reprimend for having said that "loyalty could be sold," to which Ronconi replied by observing that a few days before he had been taught in a way he was not likely to forget that "lealta" ought always to be substitut-ed for "liberts."—Pietro Orsi's "Modern Italy."

Didn't Read It.

A little girl of 4 years, having written a letter consisting simply of waving lines, asked her father to post it. "What did you say?" asked papa.
"I don't know," said Rosamond.

"Why, you wrote it!" exclaimed papa.
"Yes, but I did not read it," was the innocent reply.—Exchange.
