Every man should mind his own busi ess, and only that. It is hard to tell him so in plain words; yet it is one of the simplest rules of conduct, and the most useful that mankind can adopt in their intercourse with each other. There is a great deal of Paul Pry in the human heart, or wonderful inquisitiveness in regard to the personal and private affairs of friends and neighbors. This spirit makes more mischief in the community than almost any other cause and creates more malice, envy and jealousy than can be overcome in a century. Let every man mind his own business and there will not be half the trouble in the world that there is at present. New Bethlehem Vindicator.

Large Funeral.

Charles Harris, who died at Rathmel last Wednesday morning, mention of which was made in last week's issue of THE STAR, was buried Friday afternoon. The funeral services were held in the M. E. church at Rathmel, conducted by Rev. James H. Jelbart, of Johnsonburg, assisted by Rev. Montgomery, pastor at Rathmel. Mr. Harris, who was formerly a resident of Reynoldsville, was popular at Rathmel and was a member of the Sons of St. George and Golden Eagle lodges of this place and, hence, his funeral was very large. Both lodges attended the funeral in a body. Interment was made in Prospect cemetery.

Charles Harris was born in England in August, 1854, making him forty-six years old last August. He was a highly esteemed citizen. He leaves a widow and six children to mourn for him.

Two Fine Paintings.

In the store window of Messrs. Brumbaugh & Hillis, the furniture dealers, there are two very fine portraits painted by R. H. Burfoot, the artist of DuBois, Pa. His portrait work possesses a distinctive style combined with a wealth of beauty not often obtained by other artists. While these paintings do not show to advantage in the window, and would look much better in a room, on account of the glaring light, yet one can see that Mr. Burfoot is an observer of detail and his work has a life likeness not often equalled. Mr. Burfoot came from Washington, D. C., to Du-Bols, and has made a number of portraits for people in this vicinity. A few are M. I. McCreight, cashier of the National Bank of DuBois, Mr. J. E. DuBois, Mrs. Sidney Fuller, Mrs. Horner, Dr. Spackman, Dr. Free and a num-ber of others. He has also made work for people in Clearfield, Ridgway and Brookville. Mr. Burfoot will be in Reynoldaville the latter part of the

ADMIRED BY THE OLD LADIES.

Ab. Reynolds' Dignified Appearance Attracted Attention at Memorial Home.

Notary Public Albert Reynolds and ye editor were in Brookviile rerecently and called at the Memorial Home to see Oliver Smith, an old comrade who enlisted at Reynoldsville and was a member in the same company with Albert during the civil war, but whom Ab. had not seen since Mr. Smith was discharged some thirty-six or thirty-seven years ago. When the war began Ab. was long and lank and vet in his teens. He is now about 64 feet tall, 24 feet broad across shoulders and weighs something less than 300 pounds, and is a fine looking specimen of humanity. It is not surprising that Comrade Smith did not recognize the giant-for such Albert appeared to Smith-who stood before him in the parlor. Mr. Smith frequently referred to Ab.'s immense size in the few minutes conversation. By the time we were leaving the parlor a number of the old ladies of the home had assembled in the room adjoining parlor and as Ab. stood at door saying a few parting words to Comrade Smith we heard the old ladies comment thusly: "What a large man," "He's a noble-looking man," "My, but he is handsome." Ab. was as interesting as a side show to the old

In the issue of the 9th just, we said that Albert Reynolds had received his seventh commission as Notary Public. which was a mistake. Ab. said it was the 7th commission at a guess, but he has since counted up and finds that this was his thirteenth commission.

Incidentally we might remark here that Albert Reynolds has grown up with Reynoldsville. When Ab. was a barefooted urchin the site this flourishing town now occupies was a vast wilderness where wild beasts roamed at will and the red man's tracks had barely lost the scent. At one time Ab's father. Woodward Reynolds, owned all the land now occupied by the business portion of town. Later on Ab. and his brother David, fell beir to this same land. Ab. owned the side that the First National bank is on and David owned the other side. About twenty-five years ago Ab. sold two acres to Charles H. Gor don, in which was included the land from First National bank to Syndicate building at corner of alley, for the big sum-at that time-of $200.00. Ab. could not buy two feet of that same land on Main street now for $200.00. However, Ab's father only paid $1.00 an acre for the land.

TWO MEN INJURED.

John Butson and Jas. Reed Had Thrilling Experience and Have Broken Legs.

John Butson, who moved from Reynoldsville to Fuller last week, and James Reed, of East Brady, had experiences last Thursday forencon that they will not soon forget. Reed had both legs broken at ankle, and Butson's left ankle was broken. It is almost a miracle that both men were not killed.

Straitwell, Hibbard & Co. are opening a large coal mine near Fuller, six miles west of Reynoldsville, and they have built a railroad-one mile and a half long-from mine to tipple at P. R. R., near the Fuller Station, and have put a small engine on the road to haul the mine cars to tipple and back to mine. There is a very heavy grade from tipple to mine and it was on this little narrow gauge road that these two gentlemen had a wild ride and received

The mine is not ready for shipping co I yet and Butson, who had just gone to work for the company Thursday morning, was helping to haul ballast to get the road bed in shape for shipping coal. About ten o'clock Butson, Martin Straitwell and another man decided to drop three cars of ballast down to where they wanted them without the engine. It was not hard to get the cars started down the grade, but getting them stopped was different. The cars were soon speeding along at a fast rate and when the brakes were applied they proved to be no good. Butson was on first car, Straitwell on second, the other passenger on rerr car. When he discovered they had lost control of the cars he dropped off. The brake that Straitwell was using all force on broke and he fell off the cars head first, and Butson was left alone on the wild train. On account of the condition of the ground on each side of the track Butson had to stay on the cars until they were almost flying down the grade when he jumped and broke his leg. The runaway cars crashed into a string of empties at the tipple.

About an hour after the first accident Engineer Reed was coming down the grade with his engine and two or three cars and on account of bad rail and no sand, the engine became uncontrollable and started rushing down the hill, but it soon jumped the track and ploughed the ground up for some distance. Engineer Reed was thrown off his engine before it jumped the track and only saved himself from being ground to pieces by taking a death grip on handhold of engine. He was dragged a short distance and it was while he was being dragged that his legs were broken.

Martin Straitwell, a member of the coal company, who fell off the cars, was badly bruised, but not seriously injured.

Kaffir Boy Choir.

J. H. Balmer and his Kaffir Boy Choir, representing four tribes, with Miss Elsie Clark, the brilliant and eloquent young Anglo-Afrikander, will appear at Assembly Hall Friday evening, February 1st. This will certainly be a rare treat for the people of Reynoldsville. Some of our people have already heard the "Kaffir Boy Choir" and praise them very highly. It is claimed that this is more than an entertainment-it is a revelation. Not only do you get scene and story, but such singing as it is impossible to describe. There is nothing like it before the publie to-day.

For pure English, delicate harmony, quaint humor, weird African song they are incomparable. Every item on the program is given with a spirit that at once catches the audience. The boys sing soprano, contralto and tenor. With Mr. Balmer's bass voice, a complete quartette is formed. The repertoire of the company is as extensive and varied as it is possible to wish, consisting of upwards of sixty selections: Solos, duets, trios, quartettes, part songs, old melodies, etc., etc. All of them given from memory.
