CELERY KING
NATURE'S CURE
Pain in Head, Side and Back.
For years I suffered with pain in the head, pain in the side, and in the small of the back.
I was nervous and constipated and could not sleep. The pills and other medicines I tried only made a bad matter worse. Then I tried Celery King. One package cured me and made a new woman of me.—Mrs. Th. Kleehammer, Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.
Celery King cures Constipation and Nerve, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Diseases.

DISTRICT INSTITUTE

Held in Public School Building of West Reynoldsville February 9th.
Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. A. J. Meek of the Reynoldsville Baptist church.
District institute, composed of teachers of Reynoldsville, West Reynoldsville and Winslow township, organized at 10.30 a. m. by electing A. J. Postlethwaite chairman, and Misses Stauffer and Beer secretaries.
First subject for discussion, "Fundamental Rules of Arithmetic," was very ably discussed by Prof. W. M. Brown, Prof. Leavenworth and Prof. Lenkerd.
Some of the practical points given were:
The great weakness of work in mathematics in all grades, and especially in the higher grades, is weakness in the fundamental rules. Pupils, as a rule, are not accurate in the fundamental rules. This work should become mechanical. Great mistake was made when mental arithmetic was eliminated from our public schools. Mental arithmetic causes a consciousness of power that is not obtained by written arithmetic. It should be incorporated into all the schools.
In the absence of a paper on his subject, "The Objects of a Recitation," by W. T. Harris, U. S. Commissioner of Education, was read by the chairman.
Prof. W. M. Brown discussed "Nature Work in the School." He said: "Nature study should be from nature and not from books. We are selfish if we know nothing of our neighbors—the animals and plants of our earth.
Teach pupils not to fear the small animals. Bring them into the school room. The work should teach us to love the objects of nature. Should have pupils spend much time in watching the things in nature. Then follows the true love of nature, and the true lover of nature recognizes God in all nature." Adjourned to meet at 1.30 p. m.
Afternoon session opened by singing "Beautiful Isle."
Prof. Burdick discussed his subject, "Value of an Education." Prof. Leavenworth discussed, "Physical Culture." He said: "In schools where the session is three hours long we should give exercises for rest of both body and mind. Begin with light exercises. It is a work in which all are interested and progress is very apparent. The object is to rest pupils; to create within them the innate consciousness of decision; to cultivate a liking for promptness of decision. Results are that pupils return to mental effort greatly refreshed."

On the same subject, Prof. Teitrick said: "The country and borough schools need much different kinds of physical exercises. Physical culture gives grace and ease in movement which is a great help in the exigencies of life. Time is coming when music, drawing and physical culture will be taught in all our public schools."
An address on "How the Home May Help the School," by Prof. J. L. Allison, of Punxsutawney. He said: "The ends of the home and the school are the same, to fit the child for life. The home is the basis upon which this must depend. The office of the parent is the greatest office to which any human being can aspire. The law requires a certificate before any person can teach, but there are parents all over the land who are not at all capable of training children. Child should be trained in the first six years, so that the teacher will not have to take so much time to correct the errors of the first six years at home. If the home influence is right there is little difficulty in training the child in school. Children are sent to school too young. The parents send them to be rid of them at home. Positive injury to the child is the result.
Personal influence is the greatest factor in teaching. This being true the parent should exert his influence in the right direction or the school can do very little good. If the home and school do not work together, the school is of little use. The influence of the home is the greatest that is ever brought to bear upon the life of the child. The best and greatest men have always attributed their success to the home influence. The home guard should be a guard against all the 'ills of life.'" Institute favored by a solo by Miss Myrtle Shober and a recitation by Master Walter Bates.

Address, "The Duties of a Teacher," by Prof. R. H. Longwell, of Brookwayville. He said: "Some of the teacher's duties are as follows: First duty is careful preparation for the work. Devotion of whole time to the work. Health must be preserved; hours must be regular. Teacher should be inspired and interested in his work and the welfare of the children. Most important duty of teacher is to live a pure life, to be a christian. The personal contact of teacher with pupil counts much. Talk with pupil in regard to their life and work. Some people say it is a duty of the teacher to treat all pupils alike. No two pupils have the same disposition, so they can not be treated alike." Next on program was a solo by Miss Margaret Butler.
Rev. P. A. Reno then gave a short talk on the close relation between the teacher's profession and the ministry.
Prof. H. C. Leavenworth gave a reading, "Grading the Street." County Superintendent R. B. Teitrick then addressed the institute on the subject, "Observations Made in Schools." He spoke of the Co-operation of home and school and urged each teacher to spend thirty minutes a day in thinking how to interest parents and patrons in the schools. He spoke of the school atmosphere and said: "It should be a cheerful thrifty atmosphere. Some things to establish this good feeling are: neatness of the teacher, cheerful disposition, firmness of purpose, polite conduct, condition of whole school arrangement. The teacher should make careful preparation for each day's work. Should encourage kindly feeling between pupils and teacher, and among pupils. The teacher's aim should be to cultivate the powers of the pupil." On motion vote of thanks was taken for hospitality received.
Adjourned sine die.

A Fireman's Close Call.
"I stuck to my engine although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa, "I was weak and pale, without any appetite, and was all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run-down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by H. Alex. Stoke, druggist.

When Twelve is Odd.
One would think that 12 was more entitled to be considered an "even" number than 10, for its half is an "even," whereas the half of 10 is "odd." Yet on the Stock Exchange 12 is an "odd" number. The house takes five shares as the basis of dealing, remarks Commerce, and all multiples of five are considered "even" numbers. Any intermediate numbers are "odd," and parcels of shares not divisible by 5 are difficult to sell except at a reduced price.

Does It Pay to Buy Cheap?
A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the most severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do?
Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectora-tion, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle.

The Cost of a Duke.
A correspondent of London M. A. P. tells a story of the Duchess of Montrose, whose beauty is no less renowned than her philanthropy. The scene was a bazaar where the duchess was selling photographs. One old Scotchwoman was very anxious to secure a photograph of the duchess, but the price asked was 5 shillings. The old woman hesitated. She wanted the photograph, but she could not well afford so much.
"You can have my husband," said the duchess, with an amused glance at the duke standing near, "for 2s. 6d." The would be purchaser looked at the duke and then at his photograph con-temptuously.
"Half a crown!" she blurted out. "I wouldn't give a silver sapphire for him. But," she added insinuatingly, "I am right willing to give half a crown for your bonnie self." The duchess was unable to resist this, and herself added the other half crown to the bazaar coffers, or, as another version of the story goes, the despised duke proffered the balance.

She Was Ahead.
Marjorie had just returned from a visit to the old homestead in Tennessee, where a colored nurse nearly 100 years old was still an inmate. It puzzled her that Chloe should be called "auntie" by her mother and the family, but at last she accepted the fact and did likewise. Her playmates, trooping in to welcome her home, began to enumerate their possessions acquired during her absence.
"I've got a black pony," crowed Charlie exultantly.
"I've got a new baby brother," cried Jessie.
"M'm! That's nothing; I've got two of 'em," retorted Fred.
Marjorie's eyes flashed. "Oh!" she cried. "I've got a heap more'n that; I've got an auntie as old as Methuselah and black as tar."—Leslie's Weekly.

Aroused Her Curiosity After All.
"Don't want any," said a North Broadway housekeeper from her second story window to a street vendor whose wagon was standing a few steps away and who had just pulled the bell.
"Don't want any what?" gruffly asked the arab, who hadn't had even a chance to tell what his wares were.
"What have you got?" asked the housekeeper, whose curiosity was getting the better of her annoyance.
"Oh, never mind. You don't want any. Git up, Bob!"
"Now, I wonder what that exasperat-ing man is selling, anyhow?" she exclaimed as the wagon disappeared around the corner.—Baltimore Sun.
