Via Norfolk and Washington Steam boat Company: Old Point Comfort and return, $3.50; Virginia Beach and return, including transfer through Norfold, $4.50.

From Baltimore, via Bay Line or Chesapeake Steamship Company: Norfolk or Old Point Comfort and return, $3.50; Virginia Beach and return, including transfer through Norfolk, $4.50.

The Address He Got. A Russian gentleman tells a funny story of his first encounter with the English language.

The day after his arrival in London he made a call on a friend in Park lane, and on leaving the premises inscribed in his notebook what he supposed to be the correct address.

The next day, desiring to go to the same place again, he called a cabman and pointed to the address that he had written down. The cabman looked him over, laughed, cracked the whip, and drove away without him.

This experience being repeated with two or three other cabmen, the Russian turned indignantly to the police. with no better results. One officer would laugh, another would tap his head and make a motion imitating the revolution of a wheel.

Finally the poor foreigner gave it up, and, with a great deal of difficulty, recalling the landmarks which he had observed the day before, found his way to his friend's house. Once there, and in company with one who could under-stand him, he delivered himself of a hot condemnation of the cabmen and the police of London for their impertinence and discourtesy.

His friend asked for a look at the mirth provoking address, and the mystery was solved. This was the entry: "Ring the bell."

The Russian had with great care copied, character for character, the legend of the gatepost, supposing that it indicated the house and street.— Pearson's. He Was Up to the Limit.

A young society woman tells a story of a very little newsboy who so appreciated her kindness to him at a news-boys' dinner that he went to the extent of great suffering for her sake. At but others have doubts. At all events, the young woman who, with a number of others, was engaged in serving the boys, noticed this little boy way off at one end of the table. Many of his larger fellows were already hard at work on the various good things, but this little fellow had evidently been neglected. Clearly here was a case of urgent charity, so the amateur waitress flew to his side, and for an hour she saw to it that he did not lack for anything. Plate after plate of turkey was literally showered upon him. Finally, as she set another piece of plum pudding in front of him, he rolled his eyes meekly toward her and said in muffled tones: "Well, miss, I kin chew, but I can't swaller no more!"-New York Sun. Oulds and the Duchesses

Lord Rathmore told a friend how he once took Oulda in to dinner and how disappointed he was to find that the povelist devoted berself to the dishes rather than to intellectual refreshment. He said at last in despair at having only been able to get "Yes" and "No" in answer to the different subjects he introduced: "I'm afraid I'm singularly unfortunate in my choice of topics. Is there anything we could talk about to interest you?"

To which the chronicler of society's shortcomings replied: "There is one thing which would interest me very much. Tell me about the duchesses. have written about them all my life and never met one yet."

The Double Letter,

The double letter is scarcely of use in any language. Sometimes we are purely inconsistent. Letter must bave two t's, literal one. The double letter very seldom affects the pronunciation. Would it not be well to drop the double letter altogether? It would simplify spelling and save time too .-Notes and Queries.
