"My father and sister both died of Consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of Pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infalible for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung trouble. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed bottles, 50c and $1.00 at H. Alex Stoke's, druggist.

Rural Free Delivery.

After July 1st any person living on a mail route can have free delivery by putting up a box. The boxes must be safe and substantial, and so placed that the mail carrier can deposit the mail in them without getting off his vehicle. The postmaster from whom mail was formerly received must be notified of the existence of the box and given the names of all members of the family desiring their mail put there. The boxes should be made of iron, with lock and key, so that they cannot be opened, and they should be secured so that they cannot be carried away.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

No Gloss Carriage Paint Made

Will wear as long as Devco's. No others are as heavy bodied, because Devco's weighs 3 to 8 ounces more to the pint. Sold by H. A. Stoke.

Competitors dislike us, not only because our prices are from 15 to 35 per cent lower than theirs, but because so many are catching on to that most surprising fact. Bing-Stoke Co.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY SERVICES.

Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D., Delivered an Excellent Sermon From This Text: "A Good Soldier."

Notwithstanding the inclement weather a large congregation attended the Memorial services in the Baptist church Sunday at 11:00 a. m. The old soldiers, W. R. C. and Sons of Veterans attended the services in a body. The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants, cut flowers and stars and stripes. Rev. Perry A. Reno, pastor of the M. E. church, assisted Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D., pastor of Baptist church, in the opening services, after which Dr. Meek preached an excellent sermon from a text selected from 2 Tim. 2:3, "A Good Soldier." We did not have the time to put the entire sermon into type, but we print part of it, as follows:

In order to be "A Good Soldier" it is absolutely essential to have a good and righteous cause. What was the cause for which you enlisted and became soldiers? Was it the cause of error and wrong? No! No! A thousand times, no! Some one has said that there can be no great cause that is wrong and no good soldier that is not on the side of right.

True there were brave soldiers in the South who were conscientious in their convictions, yet that does not make their cause just and right. We can never say that the South was right in the rebellion and that the North was in the wrong. We can never look upon those who fought against and for the union in the same light. There is a line that separates the two forces. These gallant boys in blue must never be asked to be ashamed of the part which they took in the war. That would be too great a strain upon their consciences to remain silent and not to resent the insult. I am charitable enough to admit that many of the soldiers of the south believed conscientiously, that they were in the right and that they were justifiable in secession and the taking up of arms. Their belief had been fed by false statements, and a misapprehension of fundamental truth. Their belief rested upon what they conceived to be self-interest. But we all very well know that the nature of things is not changed by belief. The outcome of the conflict and the history of the succeeding years have conclusively proven to any half candid mind, that the South was clearly in the wrong and that the North was in the right, and that secession and slavery is forever settled within our limits as a nation. We had never fully learned that fundamental fact, contained in the Declaration of Independence "That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," until we saw our noble fathers and sons bid adieu to their homes and loved ones and don the blue and take up the musket and sword, many of them to fall in the din of battle. Never until their blood was shed did we fully realize that all men are free and equal. The North has no malice against the South, neither has the South any malice against the North. The northern man may travel through the South and everywhere be kindly and cordially received. The brother from the South may come to our homes and share our hospitality with perfect peace and safety, although 36 years ago he was an uncompromising enemy. But as time levels all ranks and heals all sorrows, so it buries all enmity in the great sea of oblivion. To-day the southern orator may stump any of our states and visit our homes which were filled with sorrow and made desolate by a causeless rebellion. We, the people of the North, have always been ready to meet our brothers of the South more than half way and hail them as fellow citizens of this the greatest Republic and nation upon the face of the earth.

The South more than ever before, are beginning to realize the justness of our cause and it is growing more clear to them that they were in the wrong. They are now beginning to see that we are not prosecutors, but that we meted out to them the punishment that they justly merited at our hands. Their sons have been admitted into positions of great responsibility and trust in the Government which they attempted to overthrow. And none of our boys in blue will for one moment object so long as they uphold the stars and stripes and maintain the constitutional rights of our Republic. The settlement of these questions, that had agitated our nation for so many years, vindicates the right and stamps the wrong. One of our poets has said,
 "Truth crushed to earth, shall rise again,
 The eternal years of God are hers,
 But error wounded writhes in pain,
 And dies among her worshippers."
 The same may be said of the cause of our mighty struggle in the late civil war.
 Soldiers of the John C. Conser Post No. 192, members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the cause in which you fought was a righteous cause. God set his seal of approval by giving you the victory which has made you famous and preserved the union.
 We must not forget that those who fought for our "Dear Old Flag" and the preservation of our Union, were not the blind, the deaf, the lame, the maimed and the consumptive. They were our strongest and best men; in the prime of life and the vigor of manhood, in the full enjoyment of health and strength of body and mind. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the glow of time has cut deep furrows upon your brows and in your cheeks. Your eyes are being dimmed by age. The blasts of winter have sifted their snows upon your heads and the spring time of youth can never come to you again. You may not be so active in limb and light in heart to-day as when you enlisted as good soldiers and went to fight the battle for freedom, home and country, but your courage remains unshaken. Let it be said to your credit, that while in the past men have waged war for the sake of pomp and power, yet you, with courage and enthusiasm never to be excelled, fought for the preservation of our nation and for the destruction of human slavery. Though there were times when you were repulsed, yet you were not discouraged. Though your comrades fell at your side you did not swerve until you rescued our flag from rebel hands and every human being beneath its folds was absolutely free. You have the honor of being a soldier in the greatest and grandest army of the world, you fought not to enslave men but to make them free, not to destroy our union but to save it, not for yourselves alone but for us and for our posterity and the down-trodden nations of the earth. You perhaps could not to-day endure the hardships of the past. The strain was even then too great for your youthful age and now you suffer the result of hard marching, exposure and battle. Indeed many who stood by you fell in battle, others since the closing of the war have bid adieu to this world, they have folded their hands and pitched their tents in the spirit land. Years have passed away since you laid down your muskets and swords and returned to your homes. Some of your comrades who have gone through the fiery furnace of battle and with you stood before the belching cannon sending forth flaming tongues of fire to consume you, even in the next year have answered to the roll call beyond the grave. You are still spared. Your ranks are growing thinner every day. One by one the soldiers of the grand army of the republic are breaking the ranks and passing away and the ranks can never be filled.

 "Soon, soon your work will all be done,
 Your battles fought, your victories won."
 Don't give us your money till you see your money's worth. As rapid selling keeps our stock always clean, you are sure to get your money's worth. Bing-Stoke Co.

Letter to J. V. Young.
 Reynoldsville, Pa.

Dear Sir: No man is more interested in the look and wear of the paint on the houses you plan than you; not even the owner; not even the painter.
 And painters sometimes are suspected of being more concerned for the look than the wear. What is your opinion? Which pays best, for a painter to have his paint last three years, or as long as he can? He can have it last six, if he wants to.
 Lead and oil lasts three; Devco Lead and zinc lasts six. Of course, conditions effect the time of both.
 Most painters know that zinc toughens the lead; some use it.
 Devco lead and zinc is thoroughly ground in oil; the proportions are right, and the mixture is thorough.
 No painter need mix; he can't afford to. Hand-work can't compete with machine-work. He runs no risk with Devco lead and zinc.
 All interests lie in using it; yours, the owner's, the painter's—unless he wants his paint to wear half as long.
 Yours truly,
 F. W. DEVCO & CO.
 P. S.—H. Alex Stoke sells our paint in your section.

A Reynoldsville Woman Asks

"Have you a floor paint that will last two weeks?" Yes we have Devco's; it has a beautiful gloss and will wear two years if properly applied. H. A. Stoke.

We cater to no particular class, but welcome all for a saving of from 15 to 35 per cent. Bing-Stoke Co.

A good physician can cure many ills. Why can he not invent a preparation that will cure a few? He can, and many good things are to be found in patent medicines. Clydesdale Ointment is a great healer and a pain killer. Give it a trial. Druggists, 25c.

A fair inspection of our goods and an honest judgment of our prices are all we ask. Bing-Stoke Co.
