

OF INTEREST

WOMEN
Here's a Novel Scheme.
The mothers who "don't know what in the world to do" with their daughters who persist in tight lacing, are evidently going to have the question settled for them. Here is an ingenious plan of a French writer on hygiene to persuade women to adopt loose-fitting, and therefore healthier, garments: "As long as a small waist is considered elegant and modish women will lace," says this old cynic. "Very young girls especially are almost impossible to control in this respect. I see only one way to effect a remedy. Let it be decreed that between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five a flouting but becoming garment shall be worn; that will be like the Greek dress—beautiful, but so adapted as to allow the growing body to develop without restraint in the healthy way nature intended. The very young girls will hasten to adopt this costume because they always wish to attain the dignity of womanhood. They will hesitate to quit it because it will be an atonement for their age, and until they are thirty, at least, they will not be ready to confess twenty-five, by which time they will have found the untrammeled garment so comfortable that to relinquish it is generally impossible."
The directors of the Government railways in Prussia have decided that women shall hereafter be available for service in the clerical divisions.
The memoirs begun by the Empress Eugenie soon after the death of the Prince Imperial are believed to be now practically completed. Her manuscript has been seen by no eye save her own.
The first union of Chicago retail clerks composed exclusively of women has been organized through the efforts of Mrs. Emma Lamphere, of the Retail Clerks' National Protective Association.
Miss Ida May Jackson, of Milwaukee, has been appointed under a new law of Wisconsin, woman factory inspector, and will be the first woman in the State to take up official work of this kind.
Miss Jane Elizabeth Hillyer, who has celebrated her one hundredth birthday at Orange, N. J., was a granddaughter of Abraham Riker, who was a captain in General Montgomery's army when that officer fell before Quebec.
Miss Myra L. Dook, of Harrisburg, has been appointed by Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania, a member of the State Forestry Commission, to take the place of a man who resigned. She is young and much is expected from her association with the board.
Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

The employment of women as sanitary inspectors in the large cities of England and Scotland is quite general.

The directors of the Government railways in Prussia have decided that women shall hereafter be available for service in the clerical divisions.

The memoirs begun by the Empress Eugenie soon after the death of the Prince Imperial are believed to be now practically completed. Her manuscript has been seen by no eye save her own.

The first union of Chicago retail clerks composed exclusively of women has been organized through the efforts of Mrs. Emma Lamphere, of the Retail Clerks' National Protective Association.

Miss Ida May Jackson, of Milwaukee, has been appointed under a new law of Wisconsin, woman factory inspector, and will be the first woman in the State to take up official work of this kind.

Miss Jane Elizabeth Hillyer, who has celebrated her one hundredth birthday at Orange, N. J., was a granddaughter of Abraham Riker, who was a captain in General Montgomery's army when that officer fell before Quebec.

Miss Myra L. Dook, of Harrisburg, has been appointed by Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania, a member of the State Forestry Commission, to take the place of a man who resigned. She is young and much is expected from her association with the board.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Miss Myra L. Dook, of Harrisburg, has been appointed by Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania, a member of the State Forestry Commission, to take the place of a man who resigned. She is young and much is expected from her association with the board.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

Olive Thorne Miller, the writer of bird-books, only puts down what she actually sees of her feathered heroes and heroines. She will sit for hours on a camp stool watching the movements of birds through fieldglasses, and taking notes of their doings. She lives in Brooklyn, near Prospect Park.

NEW IDEAS in TOILETTES

New York City.—Short jaunty jackets that extend only a few inches below the waist, take a permanent place among the latest styles, and will be much worn both en suite, with skirts to match, and as general utility wraps. The applied yoke is a marked feature and stamps the garment as being up-to-date at the same time that it is generally becoming.

WOMAN'S JACKET.

The smart May Manton model shown is made of sibeline in the new shade of garnet, but corduroy in dark blue, gray, brown and tan is exceedingly fashionable for walking, shopping and sleeves are ample and in the haps. The front and neck edges are finished with double bands that are turned over to form the collar, but the lower edge and sleeves are simply faced.

To cut this kimono for a woman of medium size nine yards of material twenty-one inches wide, seven and a half yards twenty-seven inches wide, six and a quarter yards thirty-two inches wide or four and three-quarter yards forty-four inches wide will be required, with three and an eighth yards for bands.

Popularity of the Pendant.

The pendant is so popular that it is to be found now on bracelets. Beautiful silver bracelets, rather heavy and round, the silver representing a serpent, two heads of which meet. In the top of each of these heads is set one large or three smaller stones of some kind, precious or imitation, and a good-sized pendant hangs from the junction of the two.

Woman's Yoke Shirt Waist.

The shirt waist with a pointed yoke makes one of the notable features of autumn styles, and is shown in velvet, corduroy and similar materials. The May Manton model illustrated is made of the new, soft finished corduroy in Napoleon blue, worn with a tie and belt of black satin, and is singularly handsome and effective. The severe style suiting the material to a nicety. The original is made unlined but lighter weight materials are more satisfactory when the fitted foundation is used.

WOMAN'S KIMONO.

out-door sports, and all suiting materials are appropriate, while cheviot and covert cloth make satisfactory jackets for general wear.
The backs fit snugly to the figure, being cut with side backs and underarm gores, but the fronts are loose fitting and include single darts only. The yoke is applied over the cloth, but can be omitted when preferred and the little coat left plain, as shown in the small cut. The neck is finished with a regulation coat collar and lapels, but the velvet facing is applied in novel manner, the edge being cut in the Van Dyck points that appear in the newest designs. The sleeves are in bell shape and flare becomingly over the hands.
To cut this jacket for a woman of medium size two and a half yards of material forty-four inches wide, or two and an eighth yards fifty inches wide will be required when yoke is used; two yards forty-four inches or one and three-quarter yards fifty inches wide when jacket is made plain.

Woman's Kimono.
The loose flowing kimono is a recognized and deserved favorite of woman-kind. It is picturesque at the same time that it is comfortable, generally becoming at the same time that it is a negligee in every sense of the word. The May Manton original, from which the large drawing was made, is of white India wash silk, with figures of rich red and bands of plain silk to match, but Japanese crepe, simple cotton crepe, cashmere, flannel, flannel, cotton velour and fleece lined albatross are all equally appropriate, which is best depending upon the use to which the garment is to be put. Silk and all fine materials are charming when it is to become a lounging robe worn in the boudoir or bedroom, flannels and the like are better when it is to serve as a bath robe.

The yoke, cut without seam, fits smoothly across the shoulders, but the main portion is arranged in gathers and joined to its lower edge. The

WOMAN'S KIMONO.

At the loop on Fifteenth street a crowd was gathered, waiting for the evening cars. A ragged young girl was selling flowers at the Fifteenth street end of the waiting station when a man, rushing to catch his car, knocked her against the side of the building. Without stopping, probably not having noticed what he had done, he continued his rush, when the boy stepped in front of him, defiantly.
"Say, what do you want to knock a girl down for? Hit me, I'm big enough."
The man paused in surprise, and then glanced around. He saw the flower girl picking up her wares, and understood. Without a moment's hesitation he went back to her, gave her enough money to make her eyes sparkle with joy, and said:
"I'm sorry, my dear, that I hurt you. I didn't see." Then turning to the boy, he continued: "You said you were big enough, young man, but you're a great deal bigger than you think. Men like you will have a lot to do with keeping this old world in a condition of self-respect."
Then he caught his car and the boy and the girl stood there wondering what he meant.—Denver Times.

Sovereigns Who Might Change.
The two monarchs who could change thrones to the greatest advantage are Edward VII, R. I. of Britain and the Indies, and Wilhelm II, King of Prussia and German Emperor. Both are thoroughly acquainted with the political and social conditions of the "other country." Each speaks the language of the realm of his imaginary adoption with perfect ease. Kaiser Wilhelm is half English. King Edward is half German.—Pearson's Weekly.

The difference between self esteem and conceit is the difference between you and your neighbor.

UTILITY OF THE SANDBINDERS.

Grasses with Which It Is Hoped to Hold the Drifting Sands on Our Coast.

Prof. F. Samson Scribner, agronomist of the department of agriculture, has returned to Washington from Buffalo, where he has been in charge of the department's exhibit of grasses. 90 varieties of which are under cultivation at the exposition. Since he left Washington Prof. Scribner has traveled extensively along the Atlantic coast and throughout New England and New York states, engaged in superintending the selection and the preparation of various species of grasses known as sandbinders, by the extensive cultivation of which the department hopes to hold the drifting sands of the Atlantic coast. The principal experiments with different varieties of these grasses are now being conducted in the vicinity of Cape Cod, and Prof. Scribner said today that it had been demonstrated that the sand dunes of that locality were being held by the intelligent use of the sandbinders. On the Pacific coast the cultivation of these grasses had resulted in fixing the sandhills in the vicinity of San Francisco and Los Angeles and had made possible the creation of the Golden Gate park.

These experiments with the sandbinders, Prof. Scribner said, were being conducted in all sections of the country in co-operation with the experiment stations of the various states, and since the inception of the idea and the steps taken toward carrying it out, commendatory letters have been received almost daily at the department from persons who either reside in the sandy districts where the grasses are being utilized, or whose business interests bring them in touch with conditions along the coast. One variety of the sandbinders which has shown up well in experiments is the Montana blue grass, which has been transplanted with great success to the north Atlantic coast. This grass, aside from its utility, leads most picturesque coloring to the sand dunes, and when thickly grown along the coast, blends with the hue of the ocean and from a distance makes it a difficult matter to determine the line of sea and shore.

While in New England Prof. Scribner had a consultation with the secretary of the Massachusetts state board of agriculture, looking to the redemption of the abandoned farms of New England from their present state of disuse, while the abandoned farms are generally considered, through a misconception of the facts, to be sections of worked out land. Prof. Scribner said that as good land as any in the east is embraced in some of these abandoned tracts. All they needed, he said, was intelligent cultivation and tillage. The planting of forage crops, noted as soil improvers, would aid materially in increasing the productivity of the land and the proper use of fertilizers would do the rest. In the majority of cases he thought the farms had not been abandoned because the land was too poor and barren to till, but because the younger generation had drifted to the cities, not caring to continue the struggle in the old-fashioned way, oppressed by mortgages and discouraged by the failure of crops and the refractory and unproductive soil, and not having sufficient knowledge of modern agricultural methods to open the fight on other lines.

"Hit Me, I'm Big Enough."

At the loop on Fifteenth street a crowd was gathered, waiting for the evening cars. A ragged young girl was selling flowers at the Fifteenth street end of the waiting station when a man, rushing to catch his car, knocked her against the side of the building. Without stopping, probably not having noticed what he had done, he continued his rush, when the boy stepped in front of him, defiantly.
"Say, what do you want to knock a girl down for? Hit me, I'm big enough."
The man paused in surprise, and then glanced around. He saw the flower girl picking up her wares, and understood. Without a moment's hesitation he went back to her, gave her enough money to make her eyes sparkle with joy, and said:
"I'm sorry, my dear, that I hurt you. I didn't see." Then turning to the boy, he continued: "You said you were big enough, young man, but you're a great deal bigger than you think. Men like you will have a lot to do with keeping this old world in a condition of self-respect."
Then he caught his car and the boy and the girl stood there wondering what he meant.—Denver Times.

Sovereigns Who Might Change.
The two monarchs who could change thrones to the greatest advantage are Edward VII, R. I. of Britain and the Indies, and Wilhelm II, King of Prussia and German Emperor. Both are thoroughly acquainted with the political and social conditions of the "other country." Each speaks the language of the realm of his imaginary adoption with perfect ease. Kaiser Wilhelm is half English. King Edward is half German.—Pearson's Weekly.

The difference between self esteem and conceit is the difference between you and your neighbor.

THE NEW Pittsburgh Exposition.

WITH ITS NEW BUILDINGS AND NEW MUSIC HALL.

OPENS SEPTEMBER 4, CLOSING OCTOBER 19.

MUSIC BY THE WORLD'S GREATEST BANDS.
SOUSA AND HIS BAND, Sept. 4th to Sept. 17th.
DAMROSCH'S NEW YORK SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA,
WALTER DAMROSCH, Conductor. Sept. 18th to Oct'r 1st.
THE FAMOUS BANDA ROSSA, ITALY'S GREATEST MUSICAL ORGANIZATION. Oct'r 2d to Oct'r 12th.
EMIL PAUR, AND THE NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA. Oct'r 14th to Oct'r 19th.

NEW ATTRACTIONS.
$15,000 TOBACCO SLIDE. CHILDREN'S EDEN MUSEE AND WONDERLAND.
A DAY IN THE ALPS. THE LATEST MOVING PICTURES, MAGNIFICENT ELECTRIC DISPLAY.
EVERYTHING ABSOLUTELY NEW.
ADMISSION 25 CENTS. One Fare for the Round Trip on all Railroads.

LAST OF THE BOLIVARS.

Death of a Nephew of the Great South American Liberator.

When we turn our eyes through the lens of South American history and recall that bloody struggle for independence, we behold the shadows of many deathless heroes, whose steps along the corridors of time have left a trailing light of glory behind them. Such a cluster of noble patriots include Miranda, Paez, Sucre, Monagas, Hernandez, Falcon, Vargas, and Simon Bolivar, whose names will live in imperishable grandeur as long as the human heart can cherish deeds of valor and sentiments of unalloyed patriotism. But by far the most eminent and foremost man of that period and the one who infused his lofty individuality among all his followers, was General Simon Bolivar, who has ever since been known as the Liberator—the Washington of South America. And well has he won such fame, as the idol of his people, the admired hero of Europe and America, the conqueror of Spain, the liberator of half a continent, and the founder of five nations. By the strange fervidness of Latin-American politics, and the rivalries and jealousies of smaller men, the great Liberator, within two years after his successes, found himself an exile—an outcast from the nations he had created. In the sadness and humiliation of exile he passed his days, dying at Santa Marta in 1830. A tardy reversion of national feeling succeeded, and twelve years later, his remains were brought back to Caracas, and amid the greatest pomp he was laid to rest in the pantheon of his native city. The last direct relative of the Liberator, bearing his family name, has just died in Caracas, at the extreme age of ninety-one years. He was Don Fernando Simon Santiago Bolivar y Palacios, the son of Colonel Juan Vicente Bolivar y Palacios, the only brother of General Bolivar (this brother being lost at sea while conducting a filibustering expedition during the patriot wars). Don Fernando lived until the time of his death in an unpretentious quarter of Caracas, in a very ordinary house, sparsely furnished, which could in no particular give an impression of the large wealth he is reputed to have left. He was extremely infirm, feeble and palsied, requiring constant attention, as his helplessness was so complete during the last years that his food had to be raised to his mouth by another. Through the influence of such physical weakness, long confinement, and the drooping energies and faculties of extreme old age, his mind was naturally weakened, and as unfortunately often occurs with the aged, this beclouded condition was manifest in an intense bitterness against all who were directly or remotely related to him.—Venezuela Herald.

At the loop on Fifteenth street a crowd was gathered, waiting for the evening cars. A ragged young girl was selling flowers at the Fifteenth street end of the waiting station when a man, rushing to catch his car, knocked her against the side of the building. Without stopping, probably not having noticed what he had done, he continued his rush, when the boy stepped in front of him, defiantly.
"Say, what do you want to knock a girl down for? Hit me, I'm big enough."
The man paused in surprise, and then glanced around. He saw the flower girl picking up her wares, and understood. Without a moment's hesitation he went back to her, gave her enough money to make her eyes sparkle with joy, and said:
"I'm sorry, my dear, that I hurt you. I didn't see." Then turning to the boy, he continued: "You said you were big enough, young man, but you're a great deal bigger than you think. Men like you will have a lot to do with keeping this old world in a condition of self-respect."
Then he caught his car and the boy and the girl stood there wondering what he meant.—Denver Times.

Sovereigns Who Might Change.
The two monarchs who could change thrones to the greatest advantage are Edward VII, R. I. of Britain and the Indies, and Wilhelm II, King of Prussia and German Emperor. Both are thoroughly acquainted with the political and social conditions of the "other country." Each speaks the language of the realm of his imaginary adoption with perfect ease. Kaiser Wilhelm is half English. King Edward is half German.—Pearson's Weekly.

The difference between self esteem and conceit is the difference between you and your neighbor.

England imported last year about 250,000,000 pounds of tea, of which 55 per cent came from India, 37 per cent from Ceylon and 7 per cent from China.

CONDENSED TIME TABLE IN EFFECT SEPT. 1, 1901.

NORTH BOUND.
EASTERN TIME.	4 6 8 11 2
Pittsburgh	Leave	A. M.	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Allegheny	.....	9 00	.....	4 30	10 00
Butler	.....	10 15	.....	5 45	11 15
West Mogroove	.....	.....	.....	6 20	.....
Johnstown	.....	.....	.....	6 30	.....
Pittsburgh	.....	12 03 P. M.	.....	7 30	1 20
Pennsylvania	.....	12 05 P. M.	.....	7 50	1 22
Big Run	.....	5 50	.....	2 00	1 35
C. & M. Junction	.....	5 55	.....	2 05	1 40
DuBois	.....	6 03	.....	2 30	2 05
Falls Creek	.....	6 06	.....	2 37	2 12
Brookwayville	.....	6 08	.....	2 41	2 16
Ridgway	.....	6 11	.....	2 45	2 20
Johnstown	.....	7 00	.....	3 38	3 06
Johnsbury	.....	7 11	.....	4 11	3 17
St. Jovett	.....	8 00	.....	4 45	4 14
Newtown	.....	8 23	.....	5 30	4 37
Bradford	.....	8 50	.....	5 50	4 57
Buffalo	.....	11 30	.....	6 45	5 14
Rochester	.....	.....	.....	7 20	.....
Arrive	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.	P. M.	A. M.

Additional train leaves Butler for Pennsylvania 7:45 A. M. daily, except Sundays.

SOUTH BOUND.
EASTERN TIME.	12 9 5 7
Buffalo	Leave	A. M.	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Rochester	.....	7 45	.....	4 45	9 00
Bradford	.....	.....	.....	9 30	10 15
Bradford	.....	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.	A. M.
Newtown	.....	7 45	.....	6 15	12 45
St. Jovett	.....	8 42	.....	7 12	1 32
Johnsbury	.....	9 27	.....	8 08	2 17
Ridgway	.....	9 55	.....	8 30	2 37
Brookwayville	.....	10 30	.....	8 52	3 11
Falls Creek	.....	1 04	.....	9 20	3 35
DuBois	.....	1 40	.....	9 45	3 51
C. & M. Junction	.....	6 47	.....	11 07	.....
Big Run	.....	7 13	.....	11 31	9 22
Pennsylvania	.....	7 28	.....	11 45	9 37
Pittsburgh	.....	7 30	.....	11 45	9 37
Butler	.....	8 11	.....	.....	10 20
Allegheny	.....	8 22	.....	.....	10 31
Pittsburgh	.....	11 00	.....	6 45	5 39
Arrive	A. M.	A. M.	P. M.	P. M.	A. M.

Additional train leaves Pennsylvania for Butler 4:30 P. M. daily, except Sundays.

CLEARFIELD DIVISION.
P. M.	7 5	EASTERN TIME.	7 0 7 2
Pittsburgh	Leave	A. M.	A. M.
.....	1 20	.....	1 20
.....	1 40	.....	1 40
.....	1 55	.....	1 55
.....	2 15	.....	2 15
.....	2 35	.....	2 35
.....	2 55	.....	2 55
.....	3 15	.....	3 15
.....	3 35	.....	3 35
.....	3 55	.....	3 55
.....	4 15	.....	4 15
.....	4 35	.....	4 35
.....	4 55	.....	4 55
.....	5 15	.....	5 15
.....	5 35	.....	5 35
.....	5 55	.....	5 55
.....	6 15	.....	6 15
.....	6 35	.....	6 35
.....	6 55	.....	6 55
.....	7 15	.....	7 15
.....	7 35	.....	7 35
.....	7 55	.....	7 55
.....	8 15	.....	8 15
.....	8 35	.....	8 35
.....	8 55	.....	8 55
.....	9 15	.....	9 15
.....	9 35	.....	9 35
.....	9 55	.....	9 55
.....	10 15	.....	10 15
.....	10 35	.....	10 35
.....	1		