

Great Sale of Muslin Underwear, Sheets and Pillow Cases, White goods, Embroideries and Linens.

THIS has become THE BIG STORE'S greatest event of the year. We have looked forward with the greatest preparation for some months to this event. Selling of Imported and domestic Summer Cottons right at the threshold of winter may seem a little strange and yet it is one of the features of this store and has added very largely in making THE BIG STORE what it is. Upon investigation you will find it just as sensible as it may seem strange at first sight.

A year ago we entered upon this unprecedented plan and it proved to be a great success in its infancy. By the enthusiasm already manifested on the part of many of our patrons we are convinced that you will recall with pleasure the first White Goods and Muslin Underwear display in the middle of winter. This year we have made unusual preparation and have added the lines of Sheets and Pillow Cases, Embroideries and Linens. With all reserve and respect for truth, we can promise you a display beginning that is far beyond anything that we have ever attempted. Let us urge upon you to see our display before the different lines are broken in size and price. We are not responsible for the disappointments which always result after some good sizes are sold out.

Death of Fred Lewis.

Fred N. Lewis was born March 14 1870, at Rimersburg, Clarion Co. and died Saturday morning, Jan. 4, 1902, at 12.30 o'clock with congestion of the brain. He had also been a sufferer for some time with rheumatism. He was the fourth child of the family of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lewis. He leaves four brothers, three sisters and a mother and father to mourn his loss. Fred was a great reader of daily papers and kept himself posted on matters of the day and occurrences of the world. He, when not travelling, was a great admirer of home and could be found there engaged in making home pleasant for his mother and other members of his family.

For several years he travelled with a company of musicians, chiefly gentlemen of his long acquaintance. His travelling took him over the greater part of the United States. One feature that he often remarked about in his travels was his trip through California and the Golden Gate. He was an admirer of the different scenic effects, as he was quick to comprehend anything of nature's works.

He was a natural born musician and began his musical career in early boyhood and mastered his favorite art to a high degree of efficiency.

He was a member of the Keystone band and Star Orchestra at the time of his death. Was a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, belonging to this organization at Eugene, Oregon.

Fred was brave, courageous and conscientious in every manner. Was very considerate in all his dealings. Always exercised thought before acting. He was mannerly and gentlemanly at all times. Was always humorous and viewed the bright side of life, which made him a favorite with all.

The family of the deceased were all attentive to him in his last hours, the brothers remaining at his bedside in the trying ordeal till the last and sad moments.

Fred was not a professed christian, but believed in a Supreme Being and a respecter of the word of God.

A short funeral service was held at the house at 10.00 a. m., Monday, conducted by Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D., pastor of Baptist church. The service was opened with a selection by the Keystone Band, of which the deceased was a member. The male quartette sang three hymns. The Elks attended in a body and held their services at the grave in the Reynoldsville cemetery. After they had concluded their services the Keystone band rendered "Nearer My God to Thee."

"Held Up" on Public Road.

James R. Zeigler, a traveling salesman of this place, reached town one evening after passing through a thrilling experience a few miles from town. On the Reynoldsville road he was set upon by three men, beaten, gagged and robbed of $160, and, according to his own story, narrowly escaped with his life.

The affair took place quite early in the evening and was at a lonely place along the road. The men jumped from the side of the road, grabbed the horse and fired several shots at Mr. Zeigler, one of which grazed the side of his face and burned his hair. Unable to cope with the unequal forces, he was obliged to submit to a gagging and hands and feet tying operation.

The robbers went through his pockets and secured every bit of money he had a sum stated by Mr. Zeigler to be not far from $160. The horse's head was turned in the direction of home and on reaching town, from the South Brady street entrance, he attracted the attention of Harry S. Criseman and Constable Davis and was released from his uncomfortable and trying position.—DuBois Express.

Challenge Sale.

Yes, ours is a Challenge Sale. We challenge for Quality, we challenge for Price. We quote no goods that are shop worn, no goods that have been carried over from year to year, but strictly new goods. That is why we challenge all competition.

Our merchandise is always distinctive. It has that which may really be called personal quality, because distinct individuality is used in its selection, and quality is one of the secrets of what is called style. We ask you to investigate these challenge bargains. If they're not as we say, we don't want your money. If they are as we say, YOU want the goods.
