HOWE'S MOVING PICTURES.

Assembly Hall was too small to accommodate the crowd.

The Lyman Howe Moving Picture Company at Assembly hall last Thursday evening was the best drawing attraction ever appearing in that hall. Almost eight hundred people witnessed the performance, and many people were turned away because they could not get a seat. Before seven o'clock only standing room tickets were being sold. The Lyman Howe Co. is certainly up-to-date and strictly first-class. The pictures are illustrated in all their realism and with such forcible naturalness as to lead the audience to believe it is looking at the actual scene instead of merely a picture reflected on canvas.

When the picture of Mr. McKinley, making his public speech on the Pan-American grounds the day before the assassination, was presented a deep hush fell over the audience and a few tears were shed. All felt its significance. Among the other scenes were views from China, thrilling contest in ice yachting, polo, football, and funny pictures such as the disadvantages of living in a flat, Uncle Josh and Cousin Si at a theatre. Those sitting on the front seats, at least, know how it feels to be run over by an automobile. One of the attractive pictures was a big liner in mid-ocean battling against gigantic waves. When part of program had been reached where the magic pictures were to be presented a breakdown occurred at the power house and the electric power, which operated the machine, failed and that ended the moving picture performance, although the audience waited about twenty minutes hoping the electric power would be turned on again.

The work of Jay Paige, the clay modeller, was appreciated by the large audience. Paige is a genius in his line of work.

Prof. Lenkerd engaged the Lyman Howe Co. to give another exhibition in this place in May, at which time an entirely new program will be given.

There was a mix up on reserved seats Thursday evening which made it a little annoying and unpleasant for those who found somebody else in their seats, but that trouble will not occur again. Hereafter small tickets will be used for all entertainments same as is used on lecture course.

To all Whom it Concerns.

I am informed that my nomination for city council is not wanted by some on the ground, as I understand, because I am not a property holder, and a stranger in the city, but much to the contrary I think, as it was shown at the primary when I came out ahead, which was left entirely to the people at large to cast their votes for whom they pleased without the solicitation upon my part, and those people knew well, I think, who they were voting for, and are working for an honest man for an honest government. An office seeking the man.

Now to those who have opposed me in the manner in which they have, stooping to such trickery which would make any man, who has manhood at all, blood run cold, of which the report is false and without any foundation at all. They had better get their gunning suits on, and plenty of ammunition, for I am going with hot shot and believe the people will know just as much what they are doing on election day for a good and honest government as they know what they were doing when they selected me on their ticket at the primary a candidate for city council. The same will be left to the people for their choice.

If elected I will serve the city in every way honorable to the best of my ability, that no man may become ashamed of his vote in the future.

If I am defeated I will accept the same manfully, and not shamefully, and at any time I can be of any service to this city I will be pleased to lend a helping hand.

Study the above carefully, however, for I cannot help thinking that the citizens know when they have the right man in the right place.

Thanking you one and all for the past and future I am

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM BENNETT.

Investigating Spiritualism.

This town has been all worked up during the past ten days over the coming to this place of a spiritualist lecturer and a medium. The lecturer, Rev. Moses Hull, of Buffalo, N. Y., delivered a series of four lectures in Herick's Hall last week, and the medium, Mrs. Vestal, of Indianapolis, Ind., proceeded to produce the spirits of the departed and rattle in the shakels. "Fake" and "Spirits" are the words heard on the streets.—Big Run Tribune.

Fair Association Election.

At a meeting of the directors and stockholders of the Fair Association held in Municipal Hall Tuesday evening, Ira J. Campbell was elected president; Ben Record, secretary; J. E. Pantall, treasurer; W. R. Neale, chief marshal; Dr. C. S. Aldrich, John A. Philliber and Jas. A. Phelan were elected auditors. It was decided to hold the Fourth Annual fair in 1902, August 26, 27, 28 and 29 inclusive.—Punxsutawney News.

Railroad men ought to get together and agree on a name for the rod which constitutes the principal part of the ordinary hand-brake used on railroad cars. While making inquiries of half a dozen railroad men the other day in regard to this matter, they all gave it a different name. One said the "brake rod," another the "brake-shaft," another the "brake-stem," another the "brake-bar," another the "brake-crank," and still another the "brake-arm."—Punxsutawney Spirit.
