

Rothschild's Auto Hothouse. An automobile hothouse is one of the latest inventions in Paris. Baron Edmond de Rothschild has just had one constructed at a cost of 15,000 francs, for the purpose of carrying hothouse plants from his country estate to his house in Paris. The journey there and back used to take two days, and necessitated the lodging of three men overnight in Paris. It is now performed in the same day and will, doubtless, be a considerable economy.

MISS BONNIE DELANO

A Chicago Society Lady, in a Letter to Mrs. Pinkham says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Of all the grateful daughters to whom you have given health and life, none are more glad than I. My home and my life was happy until illness came upon me three years ago. I first noticed it by being irregular and having very painful and scanty menstruation; gradually my general health failed; I could not enjoy my meals; I became languid and nervous, with gripping pains frequently in the groins.

I advised with our family physician who prescribed without any improvement. One day he said, "Try Lydia Pinkham's Remedies." I did, thank God; the next month I was better, and it gradually built me up until in four months I was cured. This is nearly a year ago and I have not had a pain or ache since."—MISS BONNIE DELANO, 3248 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Relic of John Bunyan

Half-way down Great Suffolk street, London, which is the borough, are two little courts of very little houses, which are called King's court and Queen's court. They are on ground sacred to many associations, for the Marshalsea was close by, and some who saw little Dorrit each day must have lived here. But King's court, like the Marshalsea, must make way for modern improvements, and the most interesting monument in its narrow boundaries will shortly be pulled down, says the London Daily Graphic. The monument is an odd little building, half wood and half red tiles, and both tumbling down, which is known as Bunyan's Chapel. Within, Bunyan's Chapel shows few er symptoms of decay. The wooden galleries are there, as they have been for more than 200 years, and the beams and rafters are still sturdy. In its pulpit, tradition alleges that Bunyan preached during the 12 years of his imprisonment at Bedford; and in a curious secret chamber between the gables of the adjoining house, he is said to have concealed himself from his pursuers. This much, at least, is certain, that during his imprisonment at Bedford Bunyan did several times succeed in visiting London and preaching to a Southwark congregation, an intrepid defiance of authority, which, besides getting his gaoler into trouble, greatly increased the severity of his confinement. When at last he was released, on the interposition of the bishop of Lincoln and other churchmen, the congregation to which he was attached selected him as their minister, and built a new chapel for him, which was always crowded to hear him preach. His visits to London were frequent, and his coming to preach was advertised beforehand. His popularity was very great.

The meeting house at Southwark, at which he generally preached, would not hold half the number that attended. Three thousand persons have been gathered together there on Sundays, and not less than 1,200 on week days, and dark winter mornings at 7 o'clock. The little tumbledown Southwark chapel, which is associated with Bunyan's name, is said to have been erected on the site of an ancient chantry, and tradition affirms that a crucifix and a figure of the Virgin were found concealed in a cellar connected with the chapel.

The Baptist community, however, have records giving it a very different origin. Early in the 18th century the Baptist congregation of Southwark were accustomed to assemble in an old meeting house in what was then Duke street, and now forms the western half of Union street. About 1773 this congregation was divided in itself on the question of Calvinism. One-half migrated to Zoar street, and the rest established themselves in what is now known as "Bunyan's Chapel" in King's court, opposite Bridewell, then—"a kind of assembly or club room, originally belonging to a public house." It was "fitted up as a place of worship," and opened in 1800 by the "General Baptist Society." If this is a trustworthy record, how can the Bunyan tradition be explained? Certainly he must have preached in the older Duke Street Chapel, and possibly in the Zoar Street Chapel, which was opened in 1688, the year of his death. Perhaps the two Baptist congregations, when they removed from their old Duke street place of worship to Zoar street and King's court, brought with them traditions of the coming among them of their great preacher, and his presence in their pulpit. Gradually, as in process of time these traditions grew confused, each chapel may well have claimed him, in the belief of its respective congregation.

Martin Luther's Stein.

As the collecting of beer steins has become quite a fad, it is interesting to note that one of the most curious of these articles is at present in the possession of Lord Londesborough. It was formerly owned by Martin Luther, who from all accounts, was a remarkable trencherman. The historic stein is of ivory, very richly carved, and mounted in silver gilt. There are six medallions on its surface, which consist, however, of a repetition of two subjects. The upper one represents the agony in the garden and the Savior praying that the cup might pass from him; the base

WHERE MARRIAGE IS A LOTTERY.

The Chinese Girl Knows Nothing of Her Husband Until She is Wedded. "Marriage is truly a lottery to the Chinese girl, for she knows not what she is getting until she is actually married," writes the London Daily Graphic. "Sometimes it is a kind, good husband, an amiable mother-in-law, and much comfort; sometimes it is a tyrant, a mother-in-law who is eternally scolding, and a life that is a weariness to both flesh and spirit. The ceremonies of betrothal and marriage cause much trouble and anxiety. The young man's family begin the negotiations. They engage a go-between to call on the girl's family and tender a proposal of marriage. If the young man is considered eligible by the girl's parents they consult a fortune-teller who decides whether the betrothal would be proper. If his decision is favorable the go-between is given a card on which is marked the hour, day, month and year when the girl was born. This is delivered to the young man's family, who in their turn consult a fortune-teller. If he also pronounces favorably, a festival is held by both families, the betrothal contract is signed, and the bridegroom makes a present to the bride of a pair of bracelets, but neither he nor she is present. The betrothal, however, is not considered binding until a postcard card has been interchanged by the families. The bridegroom's family provide two of these cards, one having a gilt dragon on its face, the other a gilt phoenix. The phoenix card is retained by the young man's family as evidence of his engagement, while the dragon card is kept by the girl's family. The betrothal is then complete."

Italy's Industrial Advance. The industries of Italy show a remarkable advance. This is largely owing to the development of electricity as a motive power. I was lately in the valley of the Nerina, says a writer in the Edinburgh Scotsman, where are the Marmore Falls, formed by the River Nera below. Around the falls manufactories of all kinds are springing up, while down the united streams as far as Terni there are nothing but huge factories at work or in process of construction. It is proposed to light Rome from the Marmore Falls, from which it is distant seventy miles. The production of cotton goods has risen in some five years from 50,000,000 francs (£2,000,000) to 100,000,000 francs (£4,000,000); while the exportation of silk has increased from 250,000 pound weight to nearly 2,000,000. In spite of emigration, the population of Italy increases by about half a million a year, education is spreading, for it is now free and compulsory, and altogether the conditions of life in Italy are steadily ameliorating.

MACKAYS OPEN MANSION.

Society Invited to the Grandest Palace in United States. The opening on Christmas day of the marble mansion on Harbor Hill, Hempstead, L. I., just completed for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mackay, was a "housewarming" indeed. The guests from New York arrived in a special train and were taken up "the hill" in the Mackay vehicles. The arrivals were so many that Mr. Mackay's two automobiles had to be utilized. The program consisted of a dinner, followed by a symphony, at which, besides the New Yorkers, the whole of Long Island's smart set was present. Holly, mistletoe and smilax constituted the decorations, and the only bit of color was the little red berries of the holly. The palace, for no other term does it justice, is the grandest and most elaborate in the United States, and is only equaled by Cornelius Vanderbilt's "Biltmore." It is situated on what is known as Harbor Hill, the highest point on Long Island, and overlooks both sound and ocean. After passing through an imposing gate lodge and area of white marble, visitors are driven for a mile over a smooth terraced driveway until, emerging from a grove of chestnuts, they are awed by the magnificent appearance of the mansion on the hill. The building is almost entirely of white marble, with onyx trimmings. The main entrance is a triumph of architecture, and one is led to think he is about to enter some ancient Greek temple rather than the abode of a man, a woman and a wee baby. The interior, if possible, is more beautiful than the exterior. The vestibule, with the exquisite tiling and plain but elegant frescoes, is from artists of highest repute.

Are Anxious to Pay Their Fines.

Among the anomalies which the prohibition law has given rise to in Kansas is a fervent desire on the part of certain law breakers to pay the penalty of their crime. At Wellington the temperance folk started to get out an injunction prohibiting the city treasurer from accepting the fines which are imposed on jointkeepers every month. And the jointkeepers headed off this move by rushing in and paying their fines, $300 each, six months in advance.

The Growth of Pennsylvania.

Beginning later than any of the original colonies except Georgia, Pennsylvania grew more rapidly than any, says A. Pennsylvania Quaker in the Atlantic, and at the Revolution was among the first three in wealth and population. It was the only one whose paper currency never depreciated. It had absolute security from Indian invasion and internal broils while Quaker rule lasted. Its free thought freed the soil upon which alone conscience could grow. Franklin, tired of the dogmatism of Massachusetts, found a congenial atmosphere in Pennsylvania. Priestley, driven from England, found sympathy and a home on the banks of the Susquehanna. Rittenhouse, Bartram, Audubon, Rush, Marshall and many others, constituted a conclave of scientists unequalled elsewhere in America. Philadelphia was the best governed, most enterprising, and most important city of the colonies at the beginning of the Revolution.

Seattle Gets the Sacred Ox.

The sacred ox, a part of the assets of the stranded Australian circus, which went to pieces in Biaine a few years ago, and of which Lester C. David, Tom Kenney and O. H. Walker became the legatees, was sold to the Seattle museum and shipped yesterday. This, it is claimed, is the only animal of its kind in the United States, and the owner said as he was putting him on the boat, that $500 would be no temptation to part with him. The different brands show the tribes by which he had been worshiped in India.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

BEFORE HE TOOK VOGELER'S

He Could Not Touch His Wife's Dinner and They Were "Fit For a King." So writes our esteemed friend, Mr. Frank Chambers, of 9 Bennett St., Chiswick: "For over two years I suffered agonies from indigestion, and became reduced to a mere shadow of my stalwart self. I would return home from my business feeling so faint that I could hardly drag one leg after the other; my dear wife did all she possibly could to tempt me with dainty dishes, and as I entered the house I sniffed and thought: 'Oh, how good; I know I can eat that.' But alas! no sooner had I eaten a few mouthfuls, when I felt sick; severe pains shot through my chest and shoulder blades, my eyes swam and everything seemed black. I became alternately hot and cold, and got up from such a dainty dinner heartily sick of living, and feeling I was a sore trial to everybody. I may mention that I was also very much troubled with a scaly skin, and often boils. But one evening I noticed my wife seemed more cheerful than usual. I questioned her and found she had been reading a pamphlet she had received, of men afflicted just as I was, and who had been cured by Vogeler's Compound. Said she, 'What gives me more faith in it is that it is made from the formula of an eminent physician now in active practice in the West End of London, so I am sure it is no quack thing.' 'All right, dear, let's have a bottle,' said I. After taking the contents of the first bottle I felt very much better, and determined to give this remedy a fair trial, and I can positively assure you that a few bottles have made a new man of me. I can sleep well, eat anything and thoroughly enjoy life. I have told several of my friends, whom I knew were suffering the same as myself, and they all wish me to say that they are like new men. I sincerely bless the great physician who gave me the formula of Vogeler's Curative Compound, and also yourselves for making its virtues known to a suffering public." The proprietors (the St. Jacobs Oil, Ltd., Baltimore) will send a simple free to any one writing to them and mentioning this paper.

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them their medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. The genuine article may be bought anywhere of all reliable druggists at fifty cents per bottle. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.—is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only.
