Animal Intelligence.

Elephants are among the most severely drilled of animals. Their intelligence does not have free play in consequence. But all English trainers agree that there is a great difference in capacity between them and that some will learn and remember a lesson far more quickly than others.

Cats have very "level" brains and are too self centered and self contained as a rule to show the distinctions which exist between them. Their strongest instinct is toward a kind of domestic comfort not exactly shared with human beings, but enjoyed in their company, to which the cat perfectly adapts itself. Yet there are misanthropic cats which make no secret of their dislike and contempt for mankind in general, only come into the house under protest and would prefer to sleep in a coal cellar to taking their nap in good society. These are the exceptions in the cat world, but every one has met with them.

Birds are usually regarded as possessing brains in "classes," not as individuals, the origin of the belief being probably the fact that birds of one species usually build exactly the same kind of nest. The generalization is not correct. The same species may have brains of all capacities.—London Spectator.

Mixing His Metaphors.

To Lord Rosebery's famous "spade and wind" metapher may be added two or three lapses, not all of which are mixed metaphors, perpetuated by Lord Londonderry.

In 1896 Lord Londonderry threw the house of lords into roars of laughter during the debate on the second reading of the Irish land bill by gravely declaring that "this is the reason why you have failed to settle the Irish land question in the future as you have done in the past."

In the course of the same speech he concluded a period with, "This is the keystone of the bill, are you going to kill it?"

Better still was a sentence which he uttered in 1897 when speaking once more on the Irish land question, "That your lordship will see," referring to a quotation he had just made, "indorses up to the hilt what I have said."—Tattler.

Courtship In China.

A curious custom prevails at Huaying-hsien, in Kwangsi. On the fifteenth day of the first month in each year all the young ladies and gentlemen take a walk to the Yenyen mountain. Each damsel carries a little box, which she deposits at the foot of the hill. Any young gentleman desirous of entering the bonds of matrimony may select one of the boxes and take it away with him, whereupon the fair owner of the box makes herself known, and an acquaintanceship is thus formed. Ill assorted matches are not likely to occur, as this custom is observed only among the well to do classes of society.

How He Saved Him.

They were speaking of a certain physician favorably occasionally, but mostly otherwise. Finally one of the party spoke of the good qualities of the absent doctor and said his life had once been saved by the much criticised practitioner.

"How is that?" some one asked. "I did not know he usually treated you."

"No, he does not," said the man, "but one day when my family physician was out of town I was suddenly taken ill and sent for this fellow in the emergency, and he couldn't come."

Large Family.

Patsy Dooley was a very poor arithmetician and was puzzled by a great many questions of numbers which did not enter other people's heads.

One day a new acquaintance remarked in his presence:

"I have eight brothers."

"Ye have eight brothers?" said Patsy. "Then I suppose ivery wan o' thim has eight brothers too?"

"Certainly."

"Arrah, thin," said Patsy, "how many mothers had the sixty-foor o' ye?"

The Reason.

"There is a very intimate nervous connection between the brain and the stomach," said the scientific man.

"That explains it," answered the humble person who is willing to learn.

"What?"

"The reason why nearly every political alliance or financial deal has to be discussed at a banquet."—Washington Star.

Joke Was Evident.

"No wonder they say the British are slow in seeing a joke."

"Why so?"

"I told the chap from London that we never ate a rabbit stew without finding a hare in it, and he is going home and write a paper entitled 'Neatness Needed In American Kitchens.'"—Chicago News.

Carpets Carpets
. . Carpets . .

Measure your rooms, plan out any changes you may contemplate. March is the time to purchase your Carpets. All the new Spring patterns are here and if we are any judge of beauty, the carpets are handsomer than ever before. If you are not familiar with Reynoldsville Hardware Company Carpets, we may say that we've never sold a carpet that we are ashamed of, and the new stock is made up of just good, time-tried grades of which we have made a reputation.

We are looking for a volume of business; to introduce such results we are satisfied with small margins.

Reynoldsville Hardware Co.

THE CASH NEW YORK RACKET STORE ONE PRICE TO ALL.

It may surprise you that we have not advertised more, but we are not like some merchants who have been offering prizes and premiums to their customers. In the long run your purchases will cost you rather more than ours. You know yourself that until we came here a year ago you did not have the opportunity of buying your goods at New York Racket prices, because we are at small expense and give our customers the benefit in low prices.
