A Woman in the Case.

April 29th Gios Coulmiglio and James Marrazzo, both of Sugar Hill, made information before Squire Laird, of Henderson township, against Frank Leo for surety of the peace and assault and battery. When Leo had not been arrested Wednesday forenoon Coulmiglio and his constable were too slow and they came to Reynoldsville and made the same information against Leo before Squire Neff. The Reynoldsville Justice promptly placed the warrant in Constable Warrick's hands and he went to Sugar Hill after Leo and before six o'clock that evening the Italian was in the Reynoldsville lock-up. The same evening Squire Laird and Constable E. C. Rudolph came into Reynoldsville to get Leo, for whom they had a warrant. They insisted and demanded that the prisoner be turned over to them, but they were informed emphatically that he was in the clutches of Squire Neff's court and they could not get him, so they gave up the chase. Leo remained in the lock-up until Friday afternoon, when he was to have a hearing. Before noon he was taken into Squire Neff's office and he made information against James Marrazzo for threatening to kill him. Marrazzo was promptly arrested and put in lock-up. This complicated matters somewhat and before the hour set for hearing arrived all three cases were settled.
