Stolen Fan Returned.
Four or five weeks ago a shell fan, valued at $40.00, the property of Miss Tegethoff, was stolen from parlor of National Hotel during dinner hour on a Sunday. Mr. O'Hare, proprietor of the hotel, was not responsible for the loss of the fan, but he became interested in finding the thief. He did a little detective work himself, besides having an experienced detective at work. Mr. O'Hare finally got trace of the fan in the neighborhood of Summerville and on Monday he went to that place and soon learned beyond a doubt that he was on the right track. He sent a constable after the thief. After putting up a big bluff, which did not work, the young fellow weakened and acknowledged he had stolen the fan, but said he had presented it to a young lady near Fairmount. He agreed to pay all costs and send fan to Reynoldsville Tuesday if Mr. O'Hare would not push the matter farther. The fan came in on noon mail yesterday.

Glass Plant Notes.
John L. Denny, of Pittsburg, president of the Independent Organization of Window Glass Workers, accompanied by T. B. Campbell, was in Reynoldsville Monday. Mr. Denny inspected the Star Glass Co. plant at this place and spoke very highly of the way it is being managed, of the fine quality of glass being made and of the quantity turned out during this fire. Mr. Denny visited a number of plants on his trip and he considers the Reynoldsville plant as fine plant as he visited.
In speaking of Mr. Denny as president of the Independent Window Glass Workers, the Kane Republican says: "The organization has prospered wonderfully under his leadership, which demonstrates that he is the right man in the right place."
The convention of the Independent Window Glass Workers will be held at Cleveland, Ohio, July 7, 1902. David Fitzgerald and William Strang will represent the Reynoldsville glass workers.
The fire goes out at the Star Glass plant June 28th. Some of the glass workers will remain in town until the next fire, September 15, but the majority of them will spend the summer at other places.

Air Guns Dangerous.
The air gun is a bad toy to place in the hands of a child. Many accidents have happened, and many cases of partially or wholly destroyed eyesight have been reported. It is a dangerous education. The boys kill the birds or maim them just for the mere sake of killing. This tends to make the boys vicious and cruel. Better give the boys something else to amuse themselves with. Often have we seen them point the gun at a playmate. The toy pistol is also a toy that should be classed as dangerous. The children learn to snap them in the faces of their playmates, and then when they get hold of a revolver that has been carelessly left within their reach the children are likely to play with it the same as they do with the toy pistol. Keep such things away from your children.—Punxsutawney News.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION.
Mr. and Mrs. John S. Smith Given a Surprise by Their Friends.
The tenth day of this month marked the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Smith, their golden wedding day, but it passed by unobserved because those who were contemplating a golden wedding celebration were not ready for the event, but did not propose to let it pass entirely without notice and fixed Thursday, June 19th, as the day to celebrate the wedding anniversary and give the old couple a surprise. The Woman's Relief Corps took charge of the affair and issued invitations for the golden wedding. It was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Smith when their old time friends and neighbors came to their house Thursday afternoon from all directions, carrying well filled baskets with them. There were about one hundred present. A large table was spread in the Smith homestead on Railroad street and the guests helped Mr. and Mrs. Smith eat the good things that had been carried in. The old couple received a number of presents, including gold coins.
Mr. and Mrs. Smith are highly respected citizens and are the oldest surviving settlers of Reynoldsville. June 10th, 1852, they were married at Shamokin, near Panio. Mrs. Smith's maiden name was Susannah Smith. Her father's name was John Smith, she had a twin brother named John Smith and she married John Smith. She said the other day that she had always lived with John Smith.
John S. Smith was the second postmaster of Reynoldsville and was holding that office at the enormous salary of from $35.00 to $40.00 per year when he was married. The day after the marriage Mr. Smith and bride came to Reynoldsville. The main part of the town then was in the neighborhood of King & Co's Store, where there were only six houses, a tannery and saw mill. Thomas Reynolds owned these two industries. The brick hotel, now Frank's Tavern, and a log house were in the other section of town with a thick woods between the two parts of town. Mr. Smith was a carpenter by trade. He built the double house two doors east of Dr. J. C. Sayer's office and moved his young wife into it. He afterward built and owned the Rhoads house below school house, including four acres of land. It was in the Rhoads house that Hon. W. O. Smith was born. Mr. Smith was one of the teachers in Reynoldsville in the early days, and following is a copy of certificate given him at that time:
WINSLOW, OC. 30, 1847.
We hereby certify that we have inspected John S. Smith and find him qualified to teach reading, writing, arithmetic and in short all branches of mathematics. Given under our hands.
