OPERATED BY A TWENTIETH CENTURY COMPANY

Our plan, which we have in successful operation in many places throughout the country, is one that puts clothing buyers on an entirely new plan.

The Middleman takes no part whatever in our tailoring business. We take his place at the mill and by so doing change the price of a $15.00 suit to $15.00.

ABOUT MATERIALS. There is no trouble to secure materials which can be made up to sell at $15.00, but there is trouble to secure anything to equal the well known fabrics turned out by the Dundee Woolen Mills to self for $5.00. Thats the sort of goods we g veyou for $15.00. We employ none but the best skilled union workmen, from the cutter to the one who puts on the buttons, and every garment bears the Union Label.

THE GIANT'S CAUSEWAY.

Permation and Appearance of This

Odd Frenk of Nature. The Glant's causeway is situated at the northern extremity of County Antrim, a short distance from Port Rush, Ireland. It consists of countless hosts of basaltic pillars, varying in shape from a pentagon to an octagon, the average length of each column or pillar being about eighty feet, the whole stacked so closely together that a knife blade could hardly be inserted between them. But the formation of these pillars is not the least wonderful part about them, for, although they may be counted by thousands and tens of thousands, each column is fashioned with a symmetry that suggests a mason's handiwork. Their composition is a perfect fusion of one-half flinty earth, one-quarter lime and clay, one-quarter almost pure iron, each pillar being divided into regular lengths or Joints which come together as a perfect, natural ball and socket union.

Although to be found in small detachments (imbedded in the cliffs, sands, etc.) for some distance along the shore, the principal aggregations forming the causeway proper consist of three projections or tongues known as little, middle and grand causeways. These singular columns are of different lengths and present an astonishing appearance as they stand, an army of at least 40,000 strong marshaled on the shores of Erin as if ever ready to do battle with the rising tide.

The Word "Joss,"

"It's a mistake to suppose that 'joss' is a Chinese word," says a retired ship's carpenter. "I've traveled a good bit in the orient in my time, and among the odds and ends of interesting information I picked up was a knockout of the genuineness of 'Joss' as a Chinese word. Chinamen only know 'joss' when they come in contract with Europeans. A Chinese priest that I became chummy with in Hankow told me that there was no such word in Chinese. He explained that the word was a corruption of the Spanish word 'Dios' and had come into use through the missionaries. Many early missionaries, he said, were Spanish priests, and their pronunciation of 'Dios' was speedily corrupted into 'Joss' by native tongues and applied to the Chinese deities. It's only on the Chinese seaboard that the word is understood by Chinamen. In the interior, the priest told me, the Celestials had no knowledge of it."-Philadelphia Record.

Street Etiquette.

In meeting a lady in a public thoroughfare in America a gentleman always waits for her bow of recognition before lifting his hat or addressing her. In Europe, however, the contrary is the established rule, it being the gentleman's place to bow first, when, if the lady desires not to recognize him, she ignores his salutations, thus giving the cut direct. It is not good form in any place for a lady to stop a gentleman in the street for the purpose of chatting with him, though she may with perfect propriety pause to speak if he take the initiative. Prolonged talks in the street are not, however, considered good form, even between persons of the same sex, the better plan being to walk on slowly until the conversation is concluded .-Detroit Free Press.

Why Coughing Is Weakening. The amount of energy expended in coughing is very considerable. Indeed one of the patient statisticians for which Germany is renowned has calculated that a patient who coughs once every quarter of an hour for ten hours expends energy equivalent to 250 units of heat, which may be translated as equivalent to the nourishment contained in three eggs or two glasses of milk. In normal respiration the air is expelled from the chest at the rate of four feet per second, whereas in violent coughing it may attain a velocity Paterfamilias-See here! What does this mean? The parlor clock is stop-Mr. Nicefellow was here last night, as usual, wasn't he?

Daughter-Yes, pa, and I told him what you said about the cost of coal and gas in the parlor every night, and we began to wonder how we could economize for you, and finally Mr. Nicefellow decided that we could at least stop the clock and save wear and tear on the works, you know.

A Frenchman was teaching in a large school where he had a reputation for making some queer mistakes. One day he was taking a class which was rather disorderly. What with the heat and troublesome boys be was very snappish. Having punished several boys and sent one to the bottom of the class, he at last shouted out in a passion, "Ze whole class go to ze bottom!"

"Help! Help!" came the cry of dis-tress through the midnight stillness.

The policeman in the neighboring doorway stirred uneasily. "Advertise in the want column," he muttered and resumed his nap.—Philadelphia Press.

A celebrated physician declares that the increase in height and weight of Britons and Americans during the last half century is chiefly due to the in-creased consumption of sugar.

YOUNG RAVENS.

Queer Story of the Changing Color of the Newborn Birds.

I have not learning enough to know whether in the earliest times ravens were accounted "unlucky." If so, why were they chosen from among all the birds of the air for the merciful errand of carrying bread to Elijah in the wilderness? Did they steal it? They are given to theft! Also in the written word we are assured that "God hear eth the young ravens when they cry out unto him." And nothing of this said of doves or of any other white or heavenly kind of bird. An explanation is given in the Egyptian commentary on St. Luke in the Coptle script by Epiphanius, A. D. 368-401. The passage is certainly very curious, and I am permitted to transcribe it "Why, then, did the evangelist mention no name among the birds except ravers only? Because the ben raven, having laid her eggs and hatched her young, is wont to fly away and leave them on account of the bue of their color, for when hatched they are red in appearance. Then the Nourisher of all creation sends to them a little swarm of in-sects, putting it by their nest, and thus the little ravens are fed until the color of their body is, as it were, dyed and becomes black. But after seven days the old ravens return, and, seeing that the bodies of their young have become perfectly like their own, henceforward they take to them and bring them food of their own ac-

Got a Bargain. Years ago, before the corrupt prac-tices act, when a Scottish parliamentary candidate was canvassing his constituency he called at the house of an nged couple. Finding the old woman alone, be entered into conversation and asked her to use her influence in getting her husband to vote for him. While they were conversing the would be M. P. noticed a kitten playing about on the floor and offered £5 for it. The bargain was struck, and on leaving he again expressed the hope that she would secure her husband's vote for

The German Soldier's Wage.

One of the peculiarities about the military service in Germany is the paternal interest that the officers are required to take in the frugality of the men. The pay of the soldier is only 6 cents a day, but the army regulations guard it jealously. Each man is expected to keep his money in a little bag suspended from a string around his neck, and any officer during inspection may demand to have the bags opened and their contents shown. If it be found that a soldier is spending his pay too freely-think of that, with the pay at so low a mark-he is reprimanded and punished. He is compelled to make his pay cover his ex-

Golf In Old Dutch Picture. By the seventeenth century golf in Holland had become almost entirely a winter game. The Dutch painters of the period seem to have found a peculiar fascination in winter scenes, with their clear, bright atmosphere and the moving clouds of figures in their various occupations of sledging, skating or golf. As might be expected, many a golfing scene is to be found in pictures by Van de Velde, Van der Neer, Avercamp, Van Goyen and others of their school. Several drawings of this period showing single figures or small groups give perhaps a better idea of the golf of the time.-Connols-

THE WHISTLE WAS SILENT.

Why His New Set of Teeth Didn't Help the Blower, A small town in Posen, near the Sile sian frontier, still keeps that relic of other centuries, the night watchman who calls the hours. One night-the London Telegraph tells this remarkable story-one of these watchmen, an old worthy long in service, failed to blow his whistle when the clock struck Our Foundation will be Honest

The burgomaster summoned the delinquent to account for his negligence. After some besitation he declared that his last tooth had dropped out and that he could not hold in his mouth the official flat tin whistle.

A council was called, and the subject was gravely discussed. Finally one of the members said that he had heard of a dentist at Breslau who supplied artificial teeth. After long debate the council appropriated money to send the aged watchman to Breslau to get a set of new teeth.

In due time the watchman reported that his teeth had arrived. That night the burgomaster sat up to hear the result. To his astonishment there was no whistle at 10, at 11 or at midnight, 25 The next morning he summoned the watchman.

'You have got your teeth," he said indignantly. "Why do you not whistle as before?"

"Yes, I've got a new set of teeth," replied the old man, "but the doctor told me to put them in water at night."

An Old Welsh Custom.

The kindling of bonfires on hills is the simplest of celebrations at any time. The Druids made four great fires at their festivals in February. May, August and November. Wales seems to have been a country especially tennelous of this custom. Each family used to make its own fire, and as it was dying out each member would throw a white stone into it, the stones being marked for future identification. Then all said their prayers and went to bed, and in the morning they tried to find all the stones again. If any stone was missing, it betokened that the owner of it would die within a year.

Some superstitions are pretty and picturesque and attractive; this was one of the many which were cruel as well as picturesque. It would take but a slight accident to cause a fright that might be actually dangerous to a superstitious person, and it would not be hard for an enemy of such a person to cause that fright by stenling his stone from the fire.

London's Sewer Hunters.

The London sewer hunter before commencing operations provides himself with a bullseye lantern, a canvas apron and a pole some seven or eight feet in length, having an iron attachment at one end somewhat in the shape of a hoe. For greater convenience the lantern is invariably fixed to the right shoulder, so that when walk-ing the light is thrown shead and when stooping its rays shine directly to their feet. Thus accoutered they walk slowly along through the mud, feeling with their naked feet for anything unusual, at the same time rak ing the accumulation from the walls and picking from the crevices any article they see.

Nothing is allowed to escape them, no matter what its value, provided it is not valueless. Old iron, pieces of rope, bones, current coin of the realm and articles of plate and jewelry-all is good fish which comes to the hunt er's net.-Chambers' Journal.

In its war with England and France 1859-60 China was easily con and forced to a humiliating peace. The Peking Gazette, the official organ of the government, however, reported the following concerning that treaty of

"As the western barbarians have admitted their wrongs and humbly so-licited for peace, the emperor in his infinite goodness has granted their prayer and, moreover, has made them present of a large sum of money (indemnity of war) to enable them to begin an honest life, so that they may not again be driven to murder and

A Way of Explaining It.

Wife-Why, John, just see what a stupid blunder the newspaper has made in its account of our silver wedding! Don't you remember I wrote it out for the reporter that we had spent together twenty-five years of married happiness, and the stupid typesetter has gone and made it twenty-five years of marred happiness. Isn't it awful? Husband-Oh, well, dear; don't be too hard on the poor fellow. Perhaps he's been married twenty-five years himself .- London Tit-Bits.

"Do you think you can give my daughter the surroundings to which she is accustomed?" asked the parent. "Well," answered the young man, "I won't guarantee that. You see, Claribel has talked the matter over and says she's tired of the neighborhood." -Washington Star.
