TACTLESS FANNY.

Janauschek's Reason For Opening Her Season In Syrneuse.

A Syracuse man tells a story of Mme. Janauschek when she was a prominent star. The willy advance agent went to Syracuse a week or so before the local theater opened there for the season and procaeded to fill up the guileless newspaper men with the statement that Janauschek had said that she would open her senson in that place or not at all. Her manager wanted Chlcago, but offered to compromise on Boston or Philadelphia, but the madame was firm.

Naturally Syracuse was delighted at the honor. Janauschek got pages of advance notices, and when the opening night came the theater was packed as never before.

After the first act an ambitious reporter "went behind" to interview Mme, Janauschek,

"Syracuse feels very proud that you have started here this senson." said, "and my paper would like to tell the people for you why you have so honored us."

"Great heavens," said the tactless Fanny, "I had to open some place!"-Chicago Record-Hernid.

How to Read History.

Perhaps the best way to read history is to take up the life of some great figure that attracts our imagination and be drawn by that into the study of the general stage upon which he was only a single actor. Certainly it is not a good plan to begin with those elaborate documentary histories in which you cannot see the wood for the trees. It is better to be wrong in a few of your facts or even contract a blas from some partisan historian than to lose yourself in a morass of documents. SAVS SUCCESS.

The best histories are the vividest. If they occasionally lend you astray, you can always correct them by the more sober colored chronicles. Macaulay may have been prejudiced, and so may Fraude, and so undoubtedly was Carlyle; so, again, was Gibbon; yet, none the less, these are the great historians, the historians who set you upon the peaks of time and enable you to see history as it lies beneath in wide views and broad masses.

Texas Vernzenlar,

"Speaking of Texas." said a young lawyer who once fived in the Lone Star State to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "reminds me of a peculiar conversation I heard in a grocery store a few years ago in one of the smaller places of the state, and the story will amply illustrate the pecultarities of the vernacular in certain more remote parts of Texas. I happened to be in the grocery store in question when a little girl came in to buy some eggs, and the following couversation was carried on between the girl and the keeper of the place: 'Ain't you got no eggs?' asked the little girl. 'I nin't said I nin't,' the storekeeper replied, whereupon the little girl replied after this fashion: 'I alu't ask you is you ain't you. I ask you is you is you. Ain't you? That's the way they tall some sections of the state. The little

Punishment In Persia.

Among the Persians the usual mode of punishment is the bastinado, from which men of the highest rank are not exempt. It is inflicted with very great severity, frequently so as to render the sufferer almost a cripple for life. The victim is thrown upon his face and each foot is passed through a loop of strong cord attached to a pole, which is raised horizontally by men, who, twisting it round, tighten the ropes and render ELEPHANTS. Few Grow Nine Feet High, the Ma-jority Being Under Eight Feet.

The average term of an elephant's life, although there is no precise information on the point, is seventy or eighty years. The dephant is not in full vigor and strength till thirty-live. The most ready way of forming an approximate idea of the age is by the amonut of turn over of the upper edge of the ear. In young animals, some times up to the age of eight or nine years, the edge is quite straight. It. however, then begins to turn over, and the time the animal is thirty the edges lap over to the extent of an Inch. and between this age and sixty this increases to two inches or slightly more. Extravagant ideas are held as to the height of an elephant. Such a thing as an elephant measuring ten feet at the shoulder does not enlet in India or Burma. Sanderson, who is admitted to be the best authority on the subject, says the largest male with measured 9 fect 10 inches met and the tallest female 8 feet 5 inches. The majority of elephants, however, are below eight feet, and an animal rarely reaches nine feet, the female being slightly shorter than the male, The carcass of an elephant 7 feet 4 luches tall weighed in portions gave a total weight of 3,000 pounds, so an elephant weighing two tons should be common The skin was about three-

A lawyer whose eloquence was of the spread cagle sort was addressing the jury at great length, and his legal opponent, growing weary, went outside to rest.

"I got into an art gallery one day by telling the janitor that I was a picture taker. I took a lot of them, too, among which was one of Plugugly, the champion prizefighter of 1845."

"Did they catch you?" asked the wise guy. "No," replied the sad looking man "Plugugly's portrait was next to my solar plexus, and I had to drop them all. It was such a striking likeness."

Of course it was to be expected that the sad looking man should get the worst of the fight that followed.-Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.
