AS A WORKING TOOL

for the student and the writer, as an authoritative reference book for schools, families and business men, there is one book which offers superior advantages both in the solid value of its information. and the ease with which it is obtained.

One's admiration for Webster's International Dictionary increases daily as it comes to be better known. It never refuses the information sought and it never overwhelms one with a mass of misinformation illogically arranged.

The St. James Gazette of London, England, says: For the teacher, the pa-pil, the student and the litterateur, there is nothing better; it covers everything.

The New and Enlarged Edition recently issued has 25,000 new words and phrases, 2364 pages and 5000 illustrations.

Our name is on the title-pages of all the authentic dictionaries of the Webster series.

Clever Gentleman. On this particular occasion she landed in New York from a trip to Philadelphia about 8 o'clock in the evening As, suit case in hand, she stepped lightly from a Twenty-third street car at Broadway, two gentlemen-tall and dis-tinguished looking in full dress, opera hats, etc.-crossed the tracks at the rear of the car and met her face to face

"Carry your grip, mum," impudently remarked one of them, with all the airs of a "smartle" who thinks he has do e something clever.

Quick as a flash into the white gloved hand went the travel solled grip, and with a "To the next corner" the "clever gentleman" found himself unddenly transformed into a porter. with a trim little miss walking along beside him in a very matter of fact

Looking as if he wanted to treat the matter as a joke and didn't know exactly how, he religiously carried the grip to the corner. What else could the poor man do?

Relieving him finally of his burden the girl innocently slipped a dime into the elegantly gloved hand (she was used to having porters assist her) and prepared to board a car. Not the slightest suggestion of a smile crossed her pretty features. As the whiz of the car finally drowned the uproarious laughter and Lawn Games In England. We get nothing like the pleasure out of our lawns which the English do. Where we are at fault is that we do not use our lawns to anything like their full capacity of enjoyment. Here and there we use them as the framing of lawn tennis or croquet courts (which we make either of dirt or asphalt), and here and there we mark out upon their surface a baseball diamond. Still rare ly and only in limited localities they are used for the playing of cricket. Both the latter games, however, re quire for their outfielders rather a field than a lawn, within the ordinary meaning of the word, and, speaking broadly and generally, it may be said with truth that we have no games which require only a lawn and nothing more. Nevertheless the two games of jack o' the green, or lawn bowls, and quoits have held their own through ten centuries at least in Great Britain and in later times have spread with the race to the remotest parts, which might be played on tens of thousands of lawns in America, to the great advantage of the players and to the enhancement of the pleasures of country life,-Country Life In America.

An Alligator's Nest. Alligators' nests resemble haycocks more than anything else to which they can be compared. They average about four feet in height and five feet in diameter and are constructed of grasses and herbage. First the mother gator deposits one layer of eggs on a mortar like floor, and, having covered this with a stratum of mud and herbage about eight inches thick, lays another set of eggs upon that, and so on to the top, there being commonly from 100 to 200 eggs in a nest. With their tails the parents then beat down, the tall grass and weeds to prevent the approach of unseen enemies. The female watches her eggs until they are hatched by the heat of the sun and then takes her brood under her own care, defending them and providing for their subsistence England's Oldest Alehouse The oldest licensed village alchouse in England is claimed to be the George inn, in North St. Philip. The license dates from 1397. Each story of the picturesque old structure overhangs that beneath. The front is broken by bay windows, a porch and a flight of stone steps leading to a doorway in the wall. At the back are more quaint doors and windows, and a turret built against the wall incloses an outside stair, while in the yard still remains part of the old gallery found in so many hostelries of the middle ages. Most of the front is timbered, and a curious chimney surmounts each gable. The upper floor inside is of plaster.

Trio Remarkable Epitapha The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Danie Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, an of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley stage driver. The former reads as for lows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrow ed little from nature except his name and his love to mankind and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon.

did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow. Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest bearted and best known stage driver in the west, who was kind to all and brought ill to none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."

Chinese Justice. The China Times relates an extraordinary case of Chinese "justice." A Mr. Jen was betrothed to Miss Han and paid his money to the woman's parents. Then he called on the parents to have the contract fulfilled and was told that the promised one was the bride of another. Having paid his money he considered he was entitled to the girl and went to her husband's house to carry her off, but she was not at home. He then laid his case before the magistrate. The girl was arrested and sentenced to be "kun-ed," the magistrate arguing. "If you are so wicked at twenty years of age, at the age of eighty you will be a menace to the Celestial empire." The process of kua-ing is very similar to the ling-chih, or slicing to death punishment.

The Population of the Moon.

There is plenty of authority for beleving that there is a man in the moon. In fact, there is authority for believing that there are women and other and mals there. Dante declares that Cain was banished to the moon and that he can be seen there at any time. Chaucer declares that the man in the moon was guilty of larceny and that he carries a thorn bush. Shakespeare loads him with thorns and gives him a dog. According to the general version, he was banished there for gathering sticks on Sunday, and the Germans have amplified this theory by giving him a wom-

> Many persons must have noticed that the most diligent sprinkling of lawns and flower beds fails to impart to the grass and plants a vital stimulus equal to that which comes from a good shower of rain. A correspondent reminds us of the reason for the difference. It is because rain, failing from a great height through the air, brings with it a considerable quantity of carbonic acid, of nitrogenous particles and of other elements nutritious to plants which it has washed out of the atmosphere. So a sprinkler used from the top of a tall building might be slightly more effective than when employed at the surface of the ground.

The principle on which they are constructed by the Aymaras Indians proves their ingenuity. A bale of hay naturally floats in the water, and ac-cording to the quantity of dried grass used in constructing the boat do they control the displacement or carrying capacity. These boats are likewise fit-ted with a mast and sail, and in some instances carry from eight to ten persons. The Indians travel long distance over this vast inland lake, the surface

It was Aunt Rebecca's first visit to her niece, a city girl who had married a few years before and begun house keeping in a pretty town in southern Michigan.

"Myrtle," she said, looking out of the kitchen window one morning, "you have a fine patch of ground here that seems to be going to waste. Why don't you plant peach trees? They grow beautifully in this climate."

"No, nunty," replied the young wife; "the soil is too poor. I have tried it. You remember those canned peaches you sent me year before last? Strange Craft. A traveler says: "The strangest craft Good Tasting Medicine Cod liver oil is in universal repute as the best body builder in wasting diseases, and the best reconstructor in recovery from severe sickness known to medicine.

Nevertheless, three-fourths of the people are really made sick by the taste and smell of cod liver oil Half of them can't take it. Their stomachs either reject it, or are so upset by it that the dose does more harm than good.

Vinol is the only preparation of cod liver oil which contains no grease or bad taste yet does contain all the virtue of cod liver oil, and is deliciously palatable. It also contains organic iron. Iron gives quality to the blood. Almost every ailing person needs it.

The combination of these two elements with table wine is both scientific and effective. It has accomplished wonderful things right here in town. We think we are doing a service to every run-down, ailing, coughing, nervous, debiltated person in calling attention to Vinol. We sell it on its merits ---money back if it does not help you. You run no risk.

Old people revive under its influence. Nursing mothers and over worked people get new vitality.

The Blenheim Spaniel.

It is a traditionary custom in the Marlborough family for each duke to present a Blenheim spaniel to the duch ess when she enters Blenheim palace for the first time as its mistress The story from which this custom had its origin is that during the battle of Bleuheim a spaniel followed at the heels of the great duke throughout the day, never leaving him until victory was assured, and the duchess, the famous Sarah Churchill, in memory of the incident forthwith adopted the spaniel as her favorite dog.
