FOUR MEN KILLED IN MINE.

Fall of Roof in London Mine Causes an Appalling Accident.

One of the most appalling accidents in the history of Clearfield county mining by which four miners lost their lives and two more were terribly injured occurred at London Mines about 7.30 Friday morning, April 3, 1903. The dead are: George Truax, motorman; Edward Eyo, driver; Earl Waggett, trapper; Wm. Phipps, boss driver. The injured are: Theodore Cyphert, trapper, leg broken and other injuries, probably fatal; John Mechan, badly bruised.

The track walker reported a fall of earth on the rope road and the men were sent in to clear the track of the obstruction. When they reached the place, the roof was carefully tested and thought to be safe. Then the work of clearing the track began and the men had been at work about 20 minutes when, suddenly and without warning, the roof crashed in upon them and buried them beneath its awful weight. The alarm was quickly given and willing hands set desperately to work to extricate the lifeless bodies. When the brawny workmen removed the rock and slate from their dead comrades, and saw their horribly mangled bodies, it was a sight to make the stoutest heart quail.

Edward Eyo and George Truax had received the full weight of the slip and their heads were horribly crushed, and death was instantaneous. Earl Waggett, the little trapper, lay near his comrades and although not so badly mutilated, his life had been instantly crushed out. Wm. Phipps met death in the same manner as his comrades and his death probably was instantaneous. Theodore Cyphert, the other little trapper, is so badly injured that his life is despaired of; he sustained a broken leg and other injuries; John Mechan received numerous bruises and a broken leg but will recover.

It is singularly sad that all the unfortunate miners were young men ranging in age from 18 to 28 years. Wm. Phipps who was 28 years of age resided at Rochester Mines and leaves a wife and three children; Ed. Eyo was 26 years old and resided at the "Patch." He leaves a widow and two children; George Truax was aged 27 years and leaves a widow. He was a resident of the 1st ward; Earl Waggett was 17 years old and resided at the "Patch."

Theodore Cyphert resides with his parents in the 1st ward, and is 17 years of age, and John Mechan, single and 24 years old resides at Rochester mines.—DuBois Express.

Delegates to State Convention.

Under the rules governing the Republican party in Jefferson County delegates to the State Convention are to be elected at the June primary in off years, and at the February primary in Presidential and Gubernatorial years. This year the date for the State Convention, May 27, was fixed after the February election, and being too early to permit the election of delegates at the June primary, it was decided that, with the permission of the majority of the county committeemen, the delegates elected last year, namely, J. B. Henderson, of Brookville, Edwin Hoar, of Reynoldsville, and T. M. Kurtz, of Punxsutawney, could be authorized to serve. With this end in view County Chairman Kurtz has addressed letters to all of the committeemen asking for their approval of this plan. A large number of them have already answered in the affirmative, and as there appears to be no particular contest for the State offices to be filled this fall, it is expected that this expedient will receive the almost unanimous indorsement of the committeemen. It will save the expenses of the two meetings of the county committee and one special primary election necessary to the choice of delegates, and still permit Jefferson County to be represented in the State Convention.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

THOUGHT WAVES.

Can They Be Transmitted From One Brain to Another.

The remarkable performances which are being produced by an English professor named Dudley, in different cities in this country, and who will be here April 17 and 18, has brought up again the discussion of thought waves and the extent to which they can actually be controlled. Scientific opinion has always been divided on the subject, some holding that it is possible for one mind to throw off waves of thought by the vibration of the ether, while others deny this proposition. Since the discovery of such forces as are illustrated by the X ray and wireless telegraphy, the thought wave theorists have rather had the best of the argument. Prof. Dudley's experiments which have been causing such a commotion in scientific and occult circles, are described as the most marvelous feats of second sight ever attempted in public. Whether or not they are actually what they claim to be, genuine second sight demonstrations, is something that none of the witnesses seem able to say with authority, but no trickery has been discovered so far as known, and the wonderful nature of the exhibition is taken by the partisans of the thought wave theory to be good evidence on their side of the argument. Prof. Dudley's experiments are conducted through the medium of a young woman whom he calls Princess Lola, and who is, he claims, the most perfectly developed clairvoyant the world has ever known. It is asserted that she actually sees while blindfolded the things which others see or have seen with their eyes. The pictures on the brains of others, so it is claimed, are conveyed by thought waves to her brain and she "sees" the same things. —I.
