Burned to Death. Benjamin Haugh was at Knoxdale yesterday attending the funeral of James Shaffer, a nephew, who died in a hospital at Pittsburg and the body was brought to home of the young man's parents at Knoxdale for burial. On the 29th of March James Shaffer received burns at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works which caused his death. The parents did not know their son was so seriously burned until they received a telegram announcing his death.

Fourth St. to be Paved. Fourth street is to be paved with brick from Grant street to Dietz alley, below Jackson street. The work is to be done this summer. The property holders along the part of Fourth street that is to be paved will pay two-thirds of cost of paving and the borough to pay one-third. The paving will be from Grant to Main and from Main to Dietz alley, but the paving will not extend across Main street.

It is to be hoped that this is the beginning of brick paving in Reynoldsville and that Main street will be paved this year. No one can deny the statement that Main street is badly in need of substantial paving.

Papa Black. Francis Jerome Black, erstwhile editor of a Reynoldsville newspaper, charter member of the Reynoldsville "Bachelor Club," now disbanded on account of disloyalty of a number of members—proprietor of the popular Hotel McConnell before it was consumed by fire, now proprietor of the Mansion, is now Papa Black. The boy has not been named yet, and Frank says a new name will have to be coined for him, as there is not a name good enough for the boy in the long list now in vogue. According to Frank's statement his son is the finest boy ever born, and one look at him is sufficient to convince any person that he should not be christened with a common name.

Home Wedding Thursday.

Jacob Hoffman, of DuBois, and Miss M. Blanche Whitmore were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Whitmore, on Main street, Reynoldsville, at 3.30 p. m. on Thursday, April 9, 1903, by Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D., pastor of the Baptist church. The wedding was a private one, only the immediate members of the two families and one or two friends being present. A wedding supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left here on the 5.27 train over the P. R. R. for Pittsburgh on a wedding trip, returning to DuBois Sunday, where they will reside. Mr. Hoffman is a carpenter for the tannery at DuBois. The bride is well known in Reynoldsville, where she was born and raised, and has many friends here. Up until the time she went to DuBois, eight or ten months ago, she was an active worker in the Reynoldsville Baptist church. The STAR joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman happiness and prosperity in their journey through life.

New Officers Installed.

Last Saturday night W. G. Landers, D. D. G. M., of Coal Glen installed the following officers in the I. O. O. F. lodge at Reynoldsville: Noble Grand, J. K. Womeldorf; Vice Grand, J. W. Iniquitous Libel Bill.

The Grady-Salus libel bill, which was passed with such unseemly haste by both branches of the legislature, and now awaits the signature of Governor Pennypacker, is an outrageous and vicious measure. The Governor has fixed Tuesday, April 21, at 10.00 a. m., in the hall of the House of Representatives, as a time and place to hear committees for and against the bill. It is expected that as far as possible every editor in this Commonwealth will be at Harrisburg next Tuesday to be present at the hearing.

Fire at Falls Creek.

Smith Bros.' Co. store, the largest general store in Falls Creek, was destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. The store was located near the Elk Tanning Co. plant and it was only by hard and heroic work that five of the tannery company houses were not destroyed. A strong wind was blowing at time of fire. According to Falls Creek Herald's statement the loss on goods and building was about $13,000. The goods were insured but the building was only partially insured.

Baptist Aid Society Officers.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church held their annual meeting for the election of officers at the residence of Mrs. Dr. A. H. Bower Thursday, April 2nd, and elected the following ladies: President, Mrs. A. H. Bower; vice-president, Mrs. W. L. Fisher; secretary, Mrs. Joseph King; treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Wilson. After all business had been disposed of, an excellent lunch was served to the ladies by the hostess.

Tyler Quarantined.

There are a number of cases of smallpox at several of the small towns along the Low Grade between Tyler and Driftwood. There are about forty cases at Tyler and the town has been quarantined. Passenger trains will not stop to take on passengers at Tyler.

Steam Laundry for Sale.

The Reynoldsville Steam Laundry will be sold cheap to a quick buyer. Reason for selling is that Mr. Taphorn has a good opportunity to engage in another line of business, and the position is only open for a short time.

POLANDER KILLED MONDAY.

His Neck Was Broken by Jumping Off a Train Near Company Store. Five Polanders, who have only been in America about two months, jumped on the rear end of a coal train at Big Soldier Monday afternoon when the train was starting to Falls Creek. The train did not stop at Reynoldsville and two of the Polanders jumped off the fast running train near the company store. One of the Polanders had his neck broken and died instantly. He jumped off the train in the opposite direction from what the train was running and his head struck end of a tie with above result. The other Polanders were badly bruised, but not seriously injured. George Greasy was the name of the man killed. He was about 31 years old. He leaves a wife and three small children in the old country. The dead man was taken to J. H. Hughes' undertaking rooms where body is still lying. Funeral at 3.00 p. m. to-day.

Death From Typhoid Fever.

James H. Rickard, jr., died at Bellvernon, Pa., April 7, 1903, at 3.00 p. m. with typhoid fever. The body was brought to Reynoldsville on the noon train Thursday, and a number of members of the Mt. Cliff Castle, Knights of Golden Eagle, of which order the deceased was a member, and other friends were at station to meet the funeral party and accompany them to Rathmel where funeral service was held in the M. E. church, conducted by Rev. J. C. McIntire. It was a large funeral. Interment was made in Prospect cemetery beside three brothers who preceded James across the River of Death. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rickard, sr. He was born in England April 1, 1881. He moved with his parents to Rathmel in March, 1887, where he resided until one year ago last November, and was well known in Rathmel and to a large number of people in Reynoldsville. On 20th of March, 1902, deceased was married to Miss Margaret Bower, of Rathmel, at the Baptist parsonage in Reynoldsville by Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D.

We understand that the young widow, who was ill before her husband died, but fought off the disease until after the funeral, is now very ill with typhoid fever at home of her parents in Rathmel.

Don't Miss Seeing Them.

"If you ever get a chance to see the Dudleys do so," was the advice given yesterday by one traveling man to another, as they stood on a street corner and read the bill board announcement of the coming of the "Marvelous Dudleys and Princess Iola." "I'm not going to tell you what I think about this mind reading business," continued the speaker, "but all I've got to say is, go. If you don't come away wondering and mystified I'll miss my guess. I saw them in Rochester, Pa., and I'm going to see them every chance I get." At the Reynolds opera house Friday and Saturday of this week, April 17th and 18th.

SCHOOL CONTEST CASE.

Judge Reed's Decision in Favor of Murray and Smith for School Directors. Judge John W. Reed has given his decision in the Winslow township contest over the election of school directors last February. We publish the court's opinion in full:

OPINION OF THE COURT.

Reed, P. J., April 11th, 1903.—This is a contest over the election of school directors of Winslow township at the February election last. There were two to be elected for the term of three years and one for the term of one year. Six candidates were voted for. O. H. Broadhead, James Roberts and Benj. Haugh received 144, 129 and 115 votes respectively, and Allen Cathers, A. C. Murray and P. A. Smith received 144, 124 and 112 votes respectively. Six candidates were voted for. O. H. Broadhead and Allen Cathers for the three years term and to James Roberts for the one year term. In this they disregarded the fact that no term was designated on the ballots cast for either O. H. Broadhead or James Roberts. The effort to support this action of the election officers on the ground that there was a "common understanding among the voters that the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes were to be declared elected for the three years term, and the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes was to be declared elected for the one year term," cannot succeed. Where some of the votes cast have the term designated on them and some have not, those having no term designated on them must be rejected. This question has been before our Supreme Court on several occasions, and in each instance it was held that the votes without any term designated on them could not be counted.

Milligan's Appeal, 96 Pa. 222; In re Contested Election of Gilleland, 96 Pa. 224; Chamberlin et al. v. Hartley et al., 152 Pa. 544. The intention of the voter must appear from an inspection of his ballot; it cannot be proven by parol or by resort had to extraneous evidence. The common understanding has nothing whatsoever to do with the legality of the ballot cast. The second section of the act of April 11th, 1862, P. L. 471, provides that if the voters "shall all neglect to designate, on their tickets, the term of office for which each person voted for is a candidate, then the person or persons having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected for the longest term or terms; the next highest in vote, after filling of the longest term, shall be declared elected for the next longest term, and so on, till all the terms vacant shall be filled." But this act is only operative when there are no ballots on which the term is designated.

In Chamberlin v. Hartley, supra, six directors were to be chosen, two for a term of three years, two for two years and two for one year. The ballots of the six persons having a majority of all the votes cast, failed to designate the term, but the six persons having a minority of all the votes cast had a majority of all the votes on which the term was designated, and the court held that the latter six persons were duly elected; also that it was incompetent to show that it was the common understanding regarding the first six persons nominated that the persons receiving the highest number of all the votes should have the three years term, the persons receiving the next highest number should have the two years term, and the persons receiving the next highest number should have the one year term. The court further held that the act of April 11, 1862, had no application where some of the voters have designated on their tickets the term of office for which each person voted for is a candidate. That case rules this one, and is directly in point in all its essential features.

The contention that the "election of the entire ticket at the February election in Winslow township should be declared illegal for the reason that the constable of said township failed and neglected to give ten days notice by written or printed handbills of said election as by law he is required to do," cannot be considered for the reason that the legality of said election is not properly before the court. This question only could be considered upon a contest duly inaugurated for that purpose.

And now, April 11th, 1903, after full and careful consideration of the matters involved in this contest, it is adjudged and decreed that A. C. Murray was duly elected school director for the term of three years at the election held on the 17th day of February, 1903, in the school district of Winslow township, and that P. A. Smith was duly elected school director at said election for the term of one year, instead of the contestees, O. H. Broadhead and James Roberts. The cost of this proceeding to be paid by the school district of Winslow township. By the Court. JOHN W. REED, President Judge.
