The Pillow of the Italian Peasant.
The Italian peasant girl as soon as she has learned to spin and sew begins to make her wedding trousseau. She pieces by piece it grows, and she has put into it all her finest stitchery and sweetest thoughts. As soon as she is a bride she makes a bag of fine muslin. This she begins to fill with rose leaves. Each year adds its share. When she dies, perhaps an old woman full of years, it is this rose pillow that her head rests on. In this calm acceptance of and preparation for the great events of life, such as marriage and death, there are time and soil for the blossoming of fancy which we, stumbling, hit and miss, through life, do not furnish.

Why Dumas Laughed.
Sir Richard Wallace once heard the elder Dumas laughing boisterously in his study and was told by a servant that Dumas was working and that he often laughed like that at his work. It turned out that the great novelist was "in company with one of his own characters, at whose sallies he was simply roaring." But this was years ago, when imagination went hand in hand with animal spirits. It would be difficult to imagine one of the modern intense, realistic, analytical school so easily diverted.

Tommy's Quick Answer.
"Tommy," said an uncle to his precocious nephew, "your mother tells me she has to give you pennies to be good. Do you think that is as things should be?"
"Of course it is," replied Tommy.
"You certainly don't want me to grow up and be good for nothing, do you, uncle?"—Chums.

Quite Fabulous.
"That foreign gentleman is said to have fabulous wealth."
"That's what it is," answered Mr. Cumrox; "fabulous wealth. I don't believe $50 of it is genuine."—Washington Star.

Man's Adaptability.
Jumble—There's something wonderful about man.
Jumble—So well adapted, for instance, to carry an umbrella.—Boston Transcript.
