Spain's Migratory Sheep. There are about 10,000,000 migratory sheep in Spain, which each year travel as much as 200 miles from the plains to the mountains. They are known as transhumantes, and their march, resting places and behavior are governed by special regulations, dating from the fourteenth century. At certain times no one may travel the same route as the sheep, which have the right to graze on all open and common land on the way. For this purpose a road nine ty yards wide must be left on all inclosed and private property. The shepherds lead their flocks, which follow after and around. The flocks are accompanied by provision mules and by large dogs to guard against wolves.

The merino sheep travel 400 miles to the mountains, and the total time spent on the migration there and back is Bribery In Elections. Bribery in elections is an ancient if not an honorable custom. This is shown in the case of Shrewsbury, England.

An extract from Parry's "Parliaments and Councils of England" of a case of bribery, with its punishment, in 1571 shows how long the pernicious custom has been in practice: "Thomas Long, 'a very simple man and unfit' to serve, is questioned how he came to be elected.

He confesses that he gave the mayor of Westbury and another 14 for his place. They are ordered to repay this sum, and a fine of £20 is to be assessed on the corporation and inhabitants of Westbury for their scandalous at-an hour's notice. That is, how much accommodation could a bank extend a customer unexpectedly confronted with pressing need or for the purpose of financing a big deal. A banker of international experience is authority for the statement that Wall street's facilities in this regard are superior to London's in that a large undertaking could be financed here with much greater dispatch than on the other side. Said an officer of one of Wall street's most important banks: "It is no trouble at all nowadays to raise $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 within an hour. I have seen it done too often to think for a moment that it would tax seriously a large bank's resources. Five times that sum, say $25,000,000, can be raised at twenty-four hours' notice. It has been done. Of course no one bank could do it, but the great Wall streat institutions are linked together in such a way as to provide almost unlimited resources for the financing of any safe deal. The large banks think little of $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 loans these days, whereas in former years they attracted general attention, for such large amounts were released only after con siderable negotiation. But this has all changed now."-New York Mail and Express

Pictures and the Eye.

Sir Thomas Lawrence, an eminent English painter and president of the Royal academy, commended the pictures of a young artist and then said to him: "You have around your room two or three rough, clever, but coarse Flemish sketches. If I were you, I would not allow my eye to become famillarized with any but the highest forms of art. If you cannot afford to buy good oll paintings, buy good engravings of great pictures, or have nothing at all upon your walls.

"You allow, in intercourse with your fellows, that 'evil communications corrupt good manners.' So is it with plctures. If you allow your eye to become familiar with what is vulcar in conception, however free and dashing the handling and however excellent the feeling for color, your taste will insensibly become depraved. Whereas, if you habituate your eye to look only. on what is pure and grand or refined and lovely, your taste will insensibly become elevated."

Ether Drinking In Russin.

The habit of ether drinking is known to be prevalent in some parts of Russia, also in east Prussia, and all the efforts of the authorities to combat the evil have hitherto been almost fruit-An idea of the extent to which the habit prevails may be gathered from records given in the Russian newspapers of a recent accident which occurred at a place called Trossno. Ether is drunk by farmers on festive occasions, when it appears to be consumed in pailfuls. A farmer, celebrating his son's wedding, in the fullness of his hospitality got in two pailfuls of ether. During the process of decant-ing the ether into bottles a violent explosion took place, by which six children were killed and one adult dangerously and fourteen others more or less severely injured.-British Medical Jour-

Found Them Hard to Raise. A great gormand who had a passion or shellfish inherited a fine estate and a large sum of money. He had been extravagant, and his friends were greatly rejoiced at his legacy. Mr. H. Barry in "Ivan at Home" tells to what use the money was devoted: I went to town one day and soon learned that the prince was in his usual impecunious condition. "Where has your legacy gone?" asked. "Why," he replied, "you know that I am very fond of lobsters, and, having a river on my estate, I thought I would try to acclimatize them there, but unfortunately I have spent all the legacy in the attempt without succeeding. quite forgot the water is not sait."

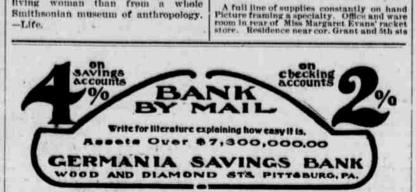

Inseparable Words

"Say," asked the red faced man in the hotel writing room. "How do you spell 'unmitigated?" "Why," replied the stranger next to him, "it's unmit-t-say, my friend, I wouldn't advise you to call a man a liar of any sort in a letter. You'll get yourself in trouble." - Philadelphia Prodence and Prevention.

The following qualitily worded notice is posted outside the offices of one of the street car companies of Paris: "We beg to inform burglars that we do not leave money or valuables in any of our depots during the night. You are re quested to make known this fact among the confraternity, so as to avoid unnecessary trouble and loss of time.' The newspaper which publishes the above adds, "Prudence and prevention are the two mothers of safety."

A Natural Mistake. He had recited to his class the story of Abraham entertaining angels una ware. Feeling that the children might not know the meaning of the word "un aware," he asked them if they did. One little hand went up promptly, and the smallest girl in the class said: "The thing you wear next your skin." -Harper's Magazine.

Short Great Men.

Oliver Cromwell, Claverhouse and Mehemet All must be content to take it out in brains, for they all lacked nches. Two of these great names naturally suggest that of another famous soldier and usurper. Napoleon Bonaparte. Le petit corporail, as his men lovingly called him, stood about five feet (French) in his stockings, say 5 feet 1% in English. In stature the Iron Duke beat him by about six inches, while the 5 feet 4 of Nelson place him midway or thereabouts between the victor and the victim of Waterloo.
