Corner Stone Laid.
The corner stone of the large brick building now being erected by the Reynolds Hardware Co.—Francis D. Smith and A. T. McClure—for their own use, was laid on Thursday afternoon, July 23rd, 1903, in the presence of about 200 people. Hon. S. B. Elliott gave a short address, in which he outlined the history and growth of Reynoldsville. A copper box, made by W. L. Fisher, was ready to be placed in the corner stone. The papers and documents to be placed in the box were in the hands of L. J. McEntire, town clerk, and he passed them to Rev. A. J. Meek, Ph. D., pastor of the Baptist church, one at a time and Rev. Meek announced each one to the people and then passed them to the hand of Francis D. Smith, who placed them in the box held by A. T. McClure, after which the corner stone was immediately laid.

Union Picnic.
The union picnic last Friday of the Reynoldsville and Punsutawney Baptist Sunday schools was a grand success. At 10:30 a. m. the two chartered cars were crowded almost to suffocation. Others went on the regular cars until fully 250 people from Reynoldsville were on the grounds. More than 300 came from Punsutawney. The day was ideal and all had a heart for enjoyment and a good time. Many introductions were given and new acquaintances were made. The mothers made provision for all who were present. At about 4 o'clock the pavilion was filled to overflowing and all joined in singing familiar hymns. Miss Florence Fisher, of Punsy, who is a student in the Washington, D. C., Seminary, favored the crowd with recitations which were very highly appreciated. Miss Thelma Smith, of Waynesburg, Pa., who has just graduated from the Conservatory of Music of Waynesburg College, rendered a piano selection and was honored to a second. Rev. C. H. Fitzwilliam, pastor of the Punsutawney Baptist church, was master of ceremonies. After supper many left for their homes. The young people of Reynoldsville lingered until 10 p. m. when all boarded the cars and the park was again cleared. All felt that the day had been well spent.

Death From Lockjaw.
Emery Faury, seven-year-old lad of DuBois, died Monday from the effects of lockjaw, the result of a wound received from a toy pistol July 4th. The Courier says: Bearing in mind the consequences often following such a wound, his parents took him to a physician and had the finger dressed. The abrasion healed nicely in a few days and the incident was forgotten.

On the 12th of the month Emery complained of having a sore jaw and several times became lightheaded and fell over. During the night he became hysterical and the next day his jaws were locked. Five physicians all agreed that it was a genuine case of tetanus. All that medical skill could suggest was tried but did no good. Ten days ago the anti-toxine treatment was tried but gave no relief. Various other remedies were tried without avail.

The little sufferer bore up bravely through it all, though for the fourteen days he was kept all the time partly or wholly under the influence of anesthetics in order to relieve the terrible pain.

The bargains offered in this sale have never been surpassed in view of quality and price. Watch the tables as many new things will appear frequently and as the quantity is not large they will not last long.
