His Maternal Grandma.
A devoted father after a day's absence was met by his two little sons. "Have you been good boys?" Silence.
"Have you been good boys?" "No, papa; I called grandma a bad word," said five-year-old, turning scarlet.
"Is it possible? What did you call your grandma?"
"I called her a human being."
The father, with mighty effort, maintained his gravity and closed the scene decorously. "I must forgive you for once, but remember if you ever call your grandmother a human being again I shall have to spank you."—Boston Budget.

Did as He Promised.
During the civil war there was one conscription fakir who made thousands of dollars before the authorities restrained him. This rascal would send letters broadcast, wherein he said he would communicate for $2 a sure means of escaping the conscription. Letters inclosing two dollar notes poured in on him, and in reply to each letter he would send a printed slip reading, "Join the nearest volunteer regiment."

She Was There.
"Mamma," said little Frances, "I dreamed of you last night. We were all sitting in the parlor, and you began to scold me."
"What did I say, Frances?" asked mamma.
"Why, you ought to know, mamma," replied Frances, with some astonishment. "You were there."—Judge.

Preocious In Spots.
Bobby—Do I have to go to school, mother?
Mother—Of course, Bobby.
Bobby—Why, mother, I heard you tell father last night that I know entirely too much.—Detroit Free Press.

The "Show" and the Showy People.
"Society" in England is divided into two classes—show people and showy people. To the first "society" belongs; the second are anxious to belong to "society."
Of the former there are comparatively few. It is a feature of the times that there are very many of the latter. The show people are those who, because of their position, their popularity or their abilities, have attained prominence and are more or less associated together in the social life of their period.
The showy people, without the position, the popularity or the abilities, strive to become prominent by display, extravagance, eccentricities or self advertisement. Their carriages are painted in the most glaring color; they are dressed expensively even on ordinary occasions; they are tireless and tireless in their endeavors to appear to be associated with "society"; their life may be described as one of continuous deceit and disappointment, and they take offense on the least provocation and are implacable in their vindictiveness.—London Truth.

The Actor's Mouth.
The actor's mouth is essentially facile and not infrequently it exhibits a tendency to turn to one side or the other. This is due, in part, to its being constantly used to express emotion and also to the peculiar but no less well recognized fact that when the mouth is somewhat crooked a greater effect can be produced than when it is opened quite straight. Example after example could be cited, but for obvious reasons names may not be mentioned. At one time it was considered the mark of the low comedian, for nearly every one of them had a mouth twisted either to the right or left as the result of "mugging." Some of the most serious actors—even those with a reputation for beauty—could, however, be pointed to as possessing the same characteristic, which has also been observed with not a few opera singers of the first rank.—London Tatler.

Sex Peculiarities.
A man will run as fast as he can to cross a railroad track in front of a train. Then he will watch it till it goes out of sight. Then he will walk leisurely away. He seems to be all right and probably is. That is a man.
A woman in a street car will open a satchel and take out a purse, take out a dime and close the purse, open the satchel, put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will give the dime to the conductor, who will give her a nickel back. Then she will open the satchel and take out the purse, put in the nickel, close the purse, open the satchel and put in the purse, close the satchel and lock both ends. Then she will feel for the buckle at the back of her belt.—Kansas City Journal.

Wagner and Thirteen.
In the life of Richard Wagner the number thirteen played a curious part. He was born in 1813, the numerals of which, added together, are equal to thirteen, and he received a name the letters of which when added to those of his family name are also equal to thirteen. Moreover, he finished "Tannhauser" on April 13, 1860, and it was performed for the first time on March 13, 1861. Twenty-two years later he died, and again the mystical number was dominant, for he passed away on Feb. 13, 1883.

A Scientific Classification.
"Now, children," says the dear teacher, "I have explained to you how yeast grows until it is full of cells. Which little boy or girl will tell me the kingdom to which yeast belongs?"
"The little wise boy lifted his hand."
"You may tell, Johnny."
"The criminal kingdom, teacher."—Chicago Tribune.

Practical.
The Rooster—Why can't you love me? I swear I'd go through fire and water for you!
The Hen—Oh, don't be ridiculous! You know you can't swim, and I just ate the smell of burned feathers.—Puck.

A gossip is usually willing to be a liar, so is the man who is always complaining.—Aitchison Globe.

WHERE OLD HATS GO.

Clerk Tells of Unique Scheme for Making Cigar Money.
"Needn't send that old hat home," said the customer as he placed the newly purchased derby on his head. "It's too shiny around the edges, and it would just take up room in the closet."
The customer walked out of the store and the clerk turned to a friend.
"That means cigar money for me," he said, "and I smoke good cigars at that. In most stores it wouldn't do me very much good, as all the discarded hats are given to the drivers of the delivery wagons. But here the house allows the clerks to have the hats, and as result we make a little extra money. About once a week the bushelman comes around to the store looking for old hats, and when I give him all I have collected he pays on an average of 15 cents apiece for them."
"After the bushelman has made his rounds he takes the hats to a shop on South street, and there they are taken apart. The silk ribbons and bands and sweatbands are removed and the hat given a thorough cleaning and new material and trimmings put on. When it is all fixed up it is extremely difficult to tell it from a new hat, and in many cases it will sell for as high as $2. When you can buy a hat for 15 cents, clean it for about 5 cents, put 25 cents' worth of leather and ribbon on it and sell it for a dollar or more, you see where the profit comes in, don't you?"—Philadelphia Press.
