THE SPINNING WHEEL SONG.

By JOHN FRANCIS WALLER.

Mellow the moonlight to shine is beginning; Glose by the window young Elleen is spinning; Pent o'er the fire, her blind grandmother, sitting, a crooning, and moaning, and drowsily kaltting-"Tist in a chora, I hear someone tapping" "Tis the ivy, dear mother, against the glass flapping." "Elleen, I surely hear somebody sighing," "Tis the sound, mother, dear, of the summer wind dying." Merrily, cheerily, nolsily whitring. Swings the wheel, spins the resi, while the foot's stirring; Sprightly, and lightly, and sirily ringing.

"What's the noise I hear at the window, I wonder?" "What's the noise I hear at the window, I wonder?" "Tis the little birds chirping the holiy bush under." "What makes you be sheving and moving your stool on, And singing all wrong that old song of "The Coolan?" There's a form at the casemut -the form of her true love-And he whispers with face bent, 'I'm waiting for you, loves Gos up on the stool, through the lattle step lightly, We'll rove in the grove while the moon's shining brightly." Merrily, cheerily, noisily whirring. Bwings the wheel, spins the roel, while the foot's stirring; Sprightly, and lightly, and sirily ringing. Thrilis the sweet voice of the young maiden singing.

The maid shakes her head, on her lip lays her fingers, Steals up from her seat-longs to go, and yet lingers; A frightened giance turns to ber drowsy grandmother, Puts one foot on the stooi, spins the wheel with the other. Lazily, easily, swigs now the wheel round: Howiy and lowiy is heard now the reel's sound; Noiseises and light to the lattice above her The maid steps - then leaps to the arms of her lover. Blower-slower-and lower the wheel swings; Lower-lower-and lower the reel's tings; Lower-lower-and lower the reel rings; Ere the reel and the wheel stop their ringing and moving, Through the grove the young lovers by moonlight are roving.

what's the matter with me?"

Colin Stuart opened his eyes, and that he was in the shabby bed sitting room in the dull side street which for a dreary time now had been his

He was still only half conscious and painfully weak, but gradually his brain cleared a little, and bit by bit memory mme back

"So she didn't turn me out, after all! must have looked after me, too, and found money for medicino and food. Her bark was worse than her bite, poor creature! I daresay she's hard pressed enough herself at times, especially if many of her lodgers are as unprofitable as 1 am."

"How much did I owe her, now, before I was taken ill? How long have I been lying here in centium. and, worst problem of all, what am I to do with myself now I have my senses back again? Life was pretty rough before; it will be impossible now."

Another glance round the room freshened his memory again-the open plano, the loose sheets of torn music carelessly strewn all around. However long the illness had been in duration, no loving hand tended him, only grudging service, (given, perchance, as an alternative to an inquest) had been bestowed on him.

"I remember! I'd reached the end of all things; not one penny left-no work-season flat-couldn't sell music or get it sung, not one solitary engagement through all those awful weeks. Only the clothes I was wearing left! Not a friend in the whole world I could turn to for help-bread and wathe bread, with me Frenchman's ex- them." perience to follow; no sooner had I taught the horse to live on one straw a day than the brute spited me and diedi

"But I didn't die! No; here I am, unfortunately, alive. I've been under the waters of fate once, and like other

"I suppose I've been ill! I wonder ( et?" hectoringly, "There you was alying dead (so it looked at first) on the floor, and when the doctor was struggling into a sitting posture saw fetched, he says food, fire, wine an' good nursing. 'Who's to pay?' says I, and he says, 'You'd better look among his things for his money. In the mean-

One of the other lodgers sat with you while I run out for the medicine, an' afterward we went through your things together.

name to its being all right, which, thank heaven, he's here an' can prove, an' in course I took out the three pounds owing for rent, an' paid the doctor back his sovereign, an' used the rest as it was wanted. What's left is in that there box on the table, an'

another week's rent due tomorrow." She was hard, but honest. There was still a remnant of gold among the silver-enough to last, please heaven, until he was strong enough to crawl about again, with the hope of earning a precarious living. Where the money had come from goodness alone knew! A purse of gold. where not one copper piece had been! As Colin lay back on his lodging house pillow (hard and rather grimy) unshed tears burned his eyeballs as he thought of that doctor, who, seeing at a glance that he was dying from sheer starvation, had not hesitated to give the "two pence" of the Good Samaritan. "The mere money I may repay some day," he thought; "but the action. never! Whether one pound or fifty at the last day, it will speak-it will have ter for a week-then water without a thousand voices. God will hear

> As soon as he could crawl, he dragged himself to the plano. If even now he could only be in time-time to win that grand prize offered by the Conservatoire at Florence for the best setting of a song to words supplied by them-£250 English money, with the uation of harmony master at a large salary too, perhaps, the cleverest group of students the world had ever seen. There was an exquisite but maddeningly elusive melody in his brain-an her. angel song; but his head was weak from illness, and it was evidently make. doomed to remain one of those untold dream witcheries which thrall most soul musicians at times and draw away their thoughts to cloudland. He could not hum it, could not find its beginning or end, though he tried each note in the gamut; but he felt it, he had dreamed it; some day-too late, perhaps, to make use of it in this worldit would come to him in its full, glorious beauty.

Down he sat and set feverishly to | not so thoroughly but that some letters work, and the melody fitted the words, as a glove the hand:

were left"-

themselves."

or toy boats.

boom

Hail, victor in the generous strife, This is the golden hour of life; The struggle and the task are done, The guerdon and the chaplet won, Thine is the fadeless olive crown, Biazon and badge of bright renown; For thee the poet's lyre is strung, For thee the song of triumph won. He wrote on and on, and on! Night passed into day, and day nearly into night again before it was finished, and of each other's lives-the good luck he managed to stagger out and post it had come at last!-Tit-Bits. himself; then he fainted, and Mrs. Wilcox told him he must leave her house BOYHOOD OF THE HERRESHOFFS. at the end of the week. She couldn't abide invalids, besides which she had John B., the Blind Builder, Worked a chance of letting her rooms for almost double the money; her first floors were going, and new people coming in who wanted an extra room. Colin was thankful to go. He felt like a thief who has robbed a blind man. He was a thief, and he had stolen what was far more precious than gold-he had stolen fame from an old man, a foreigner, from a girl perhaps as poor as himself-and he hated himself for it. He had done it almost in his delirium, but as health and strength returned every hour, so did his moral sense of right and wrong.

He was a thief. The letter with the good news came to a dreary London attic, one of those tiny, ill-furnished rooms which shelter broken hearts and hide blighted hopes from the mock of the world.

Colin Stuart had won the prize for his superb setting of the classic odehe held the check in his hand for £250, with the formal offer of the post he had craved, with more than formal appreciation of his work, for the famous Signor Tiorno pronounced it worthy of the highest praise.

Colin threw the letter down in bitter contempt. "Stolen honors-a giant's robe," he muttered, "only, thank heaven, there is still time to make restitution. I will take it there onight-now. it may be to them what it was to mewhat it would have been to me if it were honestly mine. Perhaps the melody was hers-that beautiful dark eyed girl I used to see passing up and down to the second floor back-perhaps it was the old foreigner's I saw with her apartments, he found-they had gone a erness and had lived here for three years." explained Mrs. Wilcox, vexedly, "and paid to the day all that time. Then her uncle came and took her away-he hadn't any children, and is quite a rich old man, I believe, an' she's going abroad with him. She was his sister's child, an' there'd been a quarrel over the marriage, an' they'd lost sight of each other. Anyhow, the parents are dead now, and the signor he's adopted Miss Giacoma for his own; their address, sir? Now, let me see, they went from here to one of them big hotels-Cecil, I think it

Colin contrived to cut short the rest meetings sometimes, the glance from

BEATING A MAILROAD. "You must forgive," she cried quick-Cost Mrs. Willie More Than She

ly. "The good luck came to me just then; my uncle offered me a home. I Had Saved. Willie Westcott, of Riverside, knew I should have enough money for visited her friend Mrs. Waddleson in always-and-and I was passing the Evanston last week and had a splendid door when you fell and faluted. I time. Only one thing marred the knew why, and-Mrs. Wilcox has been pleasure of the occasion. That was made hard because her own fight has the unreasonable obstinacy of the railbeen so bitter-those on the coach canroad companies.

not understand how the wheels hurt "It's a perfect shame," said Mrs. Willie, "that the Northwestern charges unless once they have been under them 35 cents for a ticket from Evanston to And after all they did not pass out Chicago."

"I know it." her friend agreed. "I can't see why they do such a stupid thing. But I have a twenty-five-ride ticket that you may use going home, so that you can ride to the city for 17 cents."

Under the Guidance of His Mother. Mrs. Willie was delighted to be able When the America won the first into save the 18 cents on the return trip ternational yacht race at Cowes, Engand was pouring out her thanks when land, fifty-two years ago, the world little knew at the time that on a lit-Mrs. Waddleson said:

"That's too bad! I forgot all about having arranged to go in early totle farm at Point Pleasant, Bristol, R. I., two children were playing who morrow morning, so I shall have to would give yachting and rapid navigause the ticket myself."

tion generally an all-round, far-reach-Then they got to figuring on the ing impetus such as, in all the wide matter.

world, they had never felt before. The "I know what!" Mrs. Willie exclaimed, "I can put the ticket in an envelope elder, John B. Herreshoff, a sandy addressed to you and drop it in a box haired, blue-eyed, earnest-looking boy when I reach Chlcago, so that it will of 10, although foredoomed to a life of blindness, could then see, and had get out here in the first mail in the already begun to whittle out pretty morning."

toy boats. Only three or four years later he built his first boat for actual This her friend pronounced a fin scheme and Mrs. Willie was compliuse, which was considered a marvel of mented upon her cleverness in having beauty and speed. At 15 his eyesight thought of it.

failed him forever, but he would not When it was time for her to start for home Mrs. Willie paid her friend 17 cents for the ride and 2 cents for the let anything discourage him, so he continued to study heats, and to build them, too. The younger, "Nat," stamp which was to bring the ticket rather reddish-haired, ruddy-faced, back. Mrs. Waddleson insisted on roguish toddler of 3, at the time of furnishing the envelope free. Then they kissed. Mrs. Willie cried "Now the Cowes contest, was noted chiefly be sure and come soon," and the train for his irrepressible inclination to run away to the shore near by, at every started.

favorable opportunity, and lie down On her way to the city Mrs. Willie on his back in the sand and kick his began to worry. She was afraid the heels exultantly in the water. He was ticket might he left lying in a letter often found asleep in this position by box for a day or two if she posted it in his anxious mother, one chubby hand the ordinary way, and thus her friend clasping a wisp of seaweed, the other would be unable to use it. The more she thought about it the less likely it full of wet sand, and the rising tide washing his bare feet. Whenever he scemed that the ticket would be rewas missing he was first sought for on turned to its owner in time to be of use the shore, where, if he was awake and the next morning unless something exsaw that his movements were noted, traordinary could be done, he would generally spend his time in

At last she addressed a benevolent looking gentleman who sat near her: watching passing ships or sailing chips "Are you going back to Evanston When older grown, he attended the this evening?" she asked.

primary, intermediate and grammar He said he was.

schools, and later, the high school, un-"Well," she went on, speaking in her sweetest, most appealing tones and der the principalship of Thomas W. permitting a pathetic look to over-Bicknell, now living in Providence, who spread her beautiful face, "I am awsays he was always well behaved and studious, only an ordinary pupil in fully anxious to have this ticket go grammar, reading, spelling, or history, back so that my friend will get it the first thing in the morning. Would you but bright in physical geography, algebra, geometry and chemistry, and remind taking it and dropping it into the markably keen in natural philosophy. Evanston postoffice for me when you At this time he was tall for his age, return this evening? Then it will be thin, rather slender, somewhat loosely stire to be there."

He was delighted to be of servic built and had a noticeable forward inclination of the head which became and Mrs. Willie went on her way re joicing. After arriving at home it o more and more pronounced from a ha bit he had of closely watching rivals in curred to her that the envelope con taining the ticket might for some rehis many boat races, craning his neck son be overlooked by the carrier in order to see them from under the the morning, so to make sure she cal Mr. Bicknell says that the mother of ed her friend up by telephone and to her to send to the postoffice if the tic the young Herreshoffs, although a very busy woman, managed to visit the et didn't reach her in time.

high school two or three times a week, The telephoning cost 15 cents, which with the 17 cents for the ticket an on an average, and encouraged her children, some of whom were blind, the 2 cents for the stamp made in all ways possible. "My mother," said John B. Herreshoff to the writer total of 34 cents, Still Mrs. Will couldn't understand why her husbay in 1899, "is 88, and still enjoys good laughted when she told him how sh health. If I have one thing more than had avoided paying the railroad con pany 35 cents. Two days later sl another to be thankful for, it is her care in childhood and her sympatny complained that the benevotent-loo through life. She is one of the best ing man had either forgotten to po

Chicago Record-Herald.

THE JEFFERSON SUPPLY COMPANY

Being the largest distributor of General Merchandise in this vicinity, is always in position to give the best quality of goods. Its aim is not to sell you cheap goods but when quality is considered the price will al-ways be found right.

Its departments are all well filled, and among the specialties handled may be men-tioned L. Adler Bros., Rochester, N. Y., Clothing, than which there is none better made; W. L. Douglass Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass., Shoes; Curtice Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y., Canned Goods; and Pillsbury's Plour.

This is a fair representation of the class of goods it is selling to its customers.

HANAU

In black and blue, clay wo equare a (15.00 sul 12.00 sul 10.00 sul 6.00 sul 5.90 sul 6.00 sul

$10.06 sul $.00 sul 7.50 sul 6.50 sul 6.90 sul 5.50 sul

YC

I am closing out my stock of dry goods and clothing and ladies and gents' furnishing goods at 25 per cent less than cost. Am going to quit business

61.00 Dress Goods See dress goods, 75c dress goods,	•	٠.	83c 65c	1.00 ladies' shirt wais 1.35 ladies' shirt wais 1.50 ladies shirt wais	t
25c Cashmere			2012	$1.15 indies' shirt wals	1	- 73
Sic Cashmere			240	$1.25 baby dresses
60c Cashmero			47%C	75c baby dresses -		111
18c Plaids			12c	50c baby dresses		2
Sc Plaids -			60	25c baby dresses,
$1.00 Broadcloth			700	75c buby skirts -		1 9
$1.20 Brondcloth			90C	50c baby skirts
$1.00 Slika	•		7943	25c baby'sskirt
75c Filks			57C	10c child's stockings	•	- 7
60c Silks -		•	400	12%c child's stockings	DC (1963
45c Silks	•		350	18c child's stockings		12
Sc Brush Bloding		•	70	25c stand covers	- 7 10
5c Brush Binding			40	5c balls silkateen		1.5
25c Table Linen	•		200	loc yard silkateen	1.41	- 7
50c table linea	•		490	15c yard silkateen		10
70c table linen			60c	$1.50 flexible corset	( * )	- 5
Soc butcher's lines	n		226	$1.00 flexible corsets
40c butcher's lines	n		300	85c flexiblecorset
Sc cambric lining		-	4C	50c flexible corset
50c ladies' shirt w	aist		400	40c flexible corset
			OT OT	TTING

CLOTHING. Childrons' Knon Pant's Suite

ind i	round c	ut sult		Cundione muce in our
		• :	$11.00 10.00 8.50 7.25 5.50 8.50	$5.00 Suits, 4.50 suits - 5.00 suits - 5.00 suits - 1.50 suits - 1.00
te OU'	TH'S	SUITS	2.40	75c knee pants - 55c 56c knee pants - 42c 25c knee pants - 19c its ts		÷.,	7.25 6.25 5.09	25c child's overalls - 19c Men's 15c linen collars 10c Boy's 10c linen collars 7c
its its	•.	•	4.00 8.75 9.75	Men's 25c rubber collars 19c Men's 50c nockties - 39c Men's 25c neckties - 19c Child's för neckties - 6d

First National Bank	BUSINESS CARDS.
OF REYNOLDSVILLE. Capital - $50,000 Surplus - $25,000	DENTIST, Office on second floor of First National bank building, Main street, DR. R. DEVERE KING,
Scott McClelland, Presidenti J. C. King, Vice Presidenti Join H. Kaucher, Cashier, Directors: Scott McClelland J. O. King Daniel Nolas John H. Corbett J. H. Kaucher G. W. Fuller R. H. Wilson Does a general banking business and solicite the accounts of merchanic professional usen	DR. W. A. HENRY, DENTIST, DR. W. A. HENRY, DR. W. A. HENRY, DENTIST, Office on second floor of Henry Bros. brisb building, Main street.
farmers, mechanics, miners, lumbermen and others, promising the most careful attentios to the business of all persons. Safe Deposit Boxes for rent. First National Bank building, Noian block Fire Proof Vault.	E. NEFF. JUSTICE OF THE PEACE And Beal Estate Agent, Bayneldsville, Pa.
The Front Vault.	SMITH M. MOCREIGHT,

time, use this,' giving me a sovereign. "Ten pounds there was in two five pound notes, an' 15 shillings in silver. I jist got the gentleman to sign his just before I was taken ill-they will pity and forgive, the temptation was so great.' But they also had left Mrs. Wilcox' few days before he himself had done so. "She-Miss Giacomo-was a gov-was" of her voluble talk, and started off to walk to the Hotel Cecil; he was glad from his heart that the girl had found a friend and the prospect of happiness -if only the good luck had come to him, other dreams than money and fame might have been his; now she would never know that her pretty face had chained him to Mrs. Wilcox' house like a spell; that the chance s risen to the surface. I shall go down again directly. Mrs. Wilcox thinks she can turn me out without being had up for manshaughter or anything of that kind. Shall I rise the second time through the casual ward or be allowed to die quietly in the guttar? Heaven knows; I don't."

Another long, weary pause, at the and of which the landlady popped her head in at the door, gave a grunt which might either have been satisfaction or disgust on realizing the invalid was us-better; then dived back to the kitchen, emerging therefrom a litthe later with a basin of very weak soup and a piece of bread which she set down with a clatter on a small table near the bed with the remark:

"You can feed yourself again now; the time it's wasted every day a-looking after you no money could ever pay

"I'm sure I'm very grateful," was the shamed reply. "Have I been ill

"Mor'n two weeks," ungraciously, "an' me scared to death with all this talk o' smallpox about."

Colin started violently. "But it can't be that-there is no mash"-

"Good thing for you it wasn't," was the sharp refort. "It's delirium, the doctor says. You've been a-playing that there plano to death, but there min't enough on those bones to suit me; it's all noise an' no meat in pia-Never no more musicians take my rooms, and out you go just as soon as over you can set foot to the ground."

"I must owe you an awful lot," he murmured, brokenly. "I see medicine, and food, and wine, besides the rent; you must be a kind of pantomime fairy disguised as-as"-

"Don't you go poking your fun at ," she broke in shrilly. "I'm a poor hard working honest woman. Fairy, ndeed. The very idea! What you've had you've paid for, or, it stands to "Paid for," blankly; "why, when I mas taken ill I was behind with my

"And who'll blame me for paying it into something that was worthy sif out of the money in your pock- even of heaven itself.

Song after song, tune after tune, he painfully evolved, only to throw them aside with a cry of despair when finished.

"Mechanical! wooden! Correct harmony? Yes, but oh, ye gods, how commonplace, how evenly on the dead level! and only 24 hours left before the MS. must be posted. I am like a drowning man who sees the life belt hanging just only out of his reach. The prize, the position, the melody, and my utter inability to grasp it. What is that?" spring to his feet and almost ceasing to breathe as certain notes. halting, faulty, but still gloriously beautiful, reached his car. "Who is that? What is that?"- A long pause, then he said deliberately, resolutely, though his face was white as now, "That is the music that shall win the prize! It is mine, not his! I dreamed it. I can write it into something that will electrify the world; my harmonies shall be transcendentally beautiful, his are hopelessly faulty; the melody is worthless to him, to me it is salvation before for soul and body"---

The notes were played through again slowly, tenderly, with wrong chords, with right chords, with one finger only, a rich deep voice hummed them, a girls' clear soprano corrected the man to a curlous minor resolution that Colin's soul had already leapt to-they -these unknown two-had given him the clew to his dream melody; theirs was of the earth earthy; he would turn her sweet eyes had inspired his museyes! something else had gone out of a debt I can never repay." She has his life with Nina Glacomo, and he since died .-- Walter Wellesley in Suohad to confess himself as a thief before Cess.

It was the only restitution he could

. . . "I had set my whole soul on winning that prize," stammered the culprit, with downcast eyes. "I thought of it by day, and dreamed of it by night-then I was taken ill, and a wondrous melody made itself known to me; strange, sweet harmonles ran through my fever so that waking was almost a pain, for with coming back to this dreary world the angel tune vanished, and I could not catch hold of it-it seemed still in my soul, but elusive, like a shadow which cannot be grasped-then-then one night I heard it played in another room. I heard it tion of Britain five distinct species of hummed and strummed, not the harmony but the ghost of the melody, and my delirium was not over. I entreat of the present day. There were the you to believe it was not the true Colin house dog, the greyhound, the buil-

Stuart, but some remnant of the fever fiend who did it. I stole the melody and elaborated it, harmonized it, as 1 had heard it played in my dreams, and I sent it in as my own; it won the prize--it is here--yours, not mine"--"No," said Nina Giacomo, softly laying a detaining hand to stay the reyours, Mr. Stuart; even in your fever the ruling passion of your life came out; there were many hours when you were alone, untended, and you used to get up and play wonderful musicdream music-which drove one into ecstacy to hear, better, far more beautiful than I had ever heard you play

"That prize melody was yours, and I used to pick out just the air on my piano afterward sometimes. I have remembered other tunes, but I liked that best, it is your very own-and the appointment also-and I am happy for your sake"-"I had one other dream, too," he said, in almost an inaudible tone, "as | eat and sleep, in the grim company of sweet or sweeter than the music. There their dead predecessors. For a short was a purse found in my room, a lady's time each day they ramble in the been purse, with a name bastily erazed, yet tifu' gardens.

of mothers, and I feel that I owe her the envelope containing the ticket else was a wolf in sheep's clothing. Her husband's loud laughter then convinced her that he was coarse-grained or else had a low streak in him somewhere.-

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Rain Brought No Orders. An electrical gridiron has been devised to kill files. It stands vertically, Philip D. Armour one day received a very long letter from an agent in and the moment a fly alights upon it regard to conditions of trade in the death ensues from electric shock. The dead fly drops onto a horizontal shelf country through which he was traveling. Page after page was devoted to underneath.

telling his employer that the "weather and uncertain crop conditions were re-Some large beetles are as good as circular saws. They seize a branch sponsible for the meager orders, and or twig with their deeply toothed jaws. not a lack of energy or perseverance and whirl round and round until the on his own part. Rain was needed in that section. With the first downpour twig is sawn off. They have been known to saw a twig as thick as a hope would enter into the despondent community and an order councasurwalking stlek in this manner. ate with the benefits granted to a

At the time of the Roman occupaparched earth could be expected. Rain saturated the earth, lengthy letters continued to arrive, but no or dogs were there, most of which can with certainty be identified with those ders "How about orders?" wrote the merchant, who was weary of footing nondog, the terrier and the slowhound. productive expense accounts and reading long letters. "Write, and let me A curious superstition prevails in know in the fewest possible words the highlands of Scotland, that if a what merchants say now that they cat be carried on a cart, and the wind have rain."

By return mail the famous merchant blow from it to the horses,"the latter immediately tire; and if any part of received a letter which told him in a the driver's clothing be made from catfew words the reception accorded the treat he tried to make, "it was always skin, the hornes will feel as if they agent in the newly drenched territory. "Dry up, old man, dry up."-Detroit were drawing a double burden. Free Press.

Loss of fortune and loss of his prac tice so affected Dr. Edward Stanton of Kokomo, Ind., that he became de

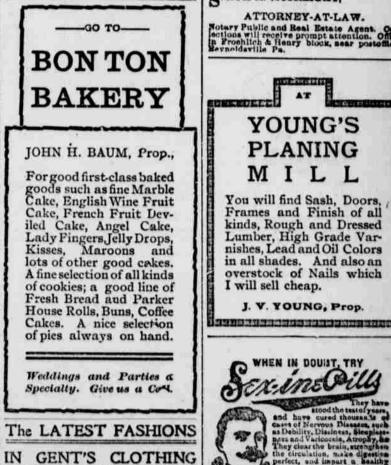

The story from Oklahoma of a two mented. He imagined himself an ox year-old child being killed by a Plymand strutted on all fours through the outh Rock rooster reminds one of a pasture of the country farm, with the tragedy in North Carolina, which is recattle, and ate grass. He died sudlated as follows:

"Many years ago a North Carolina dealy, while thus occupied, and with his mouth and stomach full of grass. judge or ex-judge, Judge Spencer of Anson, was killed by a turkey. He Miles of subterranean corridors was a very old man, and was sitting in the yard with a red skull cap on his lined with tombs and cells, were con structed years ago, far below the mag head. The red attracted the attention nificent cathedral at Klev, Russia, Iu of the turkey, angored it, and it flew these cells over 1500 ascetics perform upon the wearer of the cap and pecked, spurred and beat him to death."-Charlotte (N. C.) Observer. their daily devotion and duties-live cession until they are dead.

Gobbler Killed Man.

The newest, finest cloths, the latest designs, all the most fashionable cuts the most fashionable cuts for the summer season. Call at our shop and see samples of cloth—a complete line—and let us convince you that we are the leaders in our line. Reasonable prices always and satisfaction guaran-teod.

Johns & Thompson.

regulating motalist PENNYROYAL PILLS are prompt, safe and certain in result. The greet Cor sale ha H. Alau P

EVERY WOMAN

For sale by R. Alex Stoks.

Strong Again.

Lots of men will never lead the pro-