Difference in Climate.

The difference in latitude between the extremes of New York, taken with the difference in elevation and the presence of the sea in the southern part makes an appreciable difference in cl'mate. There is decidedly more snow also a somewhat lower average winter temperature on the edge of Yonkers than at the southwestern extremity of Staten Island. While the highest point of the city is the ridge near the center of Staten Island, where the elevation at several points exceeds four hundred feet above sea level, the general elevation in the upportion of the city is considerably ater than that of the parts south

MANNERS IN BUSINESS. Brains and Good Deportment a Winning Combination. The value of brains in business cannot be overestimated, of course. But neither can the value of manners. Don't make the error of supposing that brains are everything. You may have the best set of brains in the town, but if you haven't the manners of a gentleman nobody is going to appreciate you. Your manner is the outward indication of what you are within, in the estimate of most peo-ple, and if the manner is disagreeable few will take the trouble to examine into you any further. The consensus of general opinion is that the man who goes about with porcupine quills as his manners hasn't brains worth bothering about. Did you never notice that the men who employ large forces of intelli-gent people look at an applicant closely, ask a few seemingly unim-portant questions and promptly em-ploy or dismiss him? They don't sound his brain depth; they don't ob tain his biography; they don't ob quire into his social standing; they size him up from his manners, and if he is brass on the surface they don't has been and within look for gold within. The employer knows that if an ap-plicant's manner strikes him faver-ably it will also favorably strike peo-ple with whom he comes in contact in his work. And nobody knows bet-ter than a big business man that a favorable first impression means half sale. People are apt to think that if there is any place where man-ners are of little consequence, it is in business, where cold calculation so largely takes the place of feeling. But the truth is that nowhere else are manners of such importance as in every day dealings. There is no capital and equipment any young man can have that will pay him better than good manners. There is no possible calling for which this does not better fit him. If he has brains, the world owes him something, but unless he has

That the poultry industry of the country is yet in its infancy is clearly shown in the constantly-increasing demand of both eggs and dressed fowls. The general trend of the markets for the past two years has shown a shortage of supply, and a consequent advance in price, until today the products of the poultry yard are at high tide, with no prospects of any early change.

More poultry has been raised this season than ever before, and yet the people want more, and the demand will continue to grow. The wise poultry man will, as the > saying goes, "get in on the ground floor" and he prepared to furnish his part of the supplies which the markets are sure to demand.

Stunted Pigs.

Sometimes these are caused by an inherited disability to make use of the food given them, but probably more often by conditions after birth. If they are watched it will be found that the other pigs are driving them from the teats and later from the trough, says Farmers' Review, Having once become weakened they are less able than the other pigs to fight for their food and have to be satisfied with short rations. It is evidently a part of the plan of nature to eliminate the weakling as a breeder. However, these same pigs, if given a chance at the teats and the trough, often develop into good sized hogs, and prove profitable. We would not, however, advise using such an animal as a breeder. The hint that nature has good manners he will have a hard time collecting it.-Kansas City given us should be taken. We agree with her in wanting for breeders only the most vigorous.
