Court Decides Against Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Western Union Telegraph Company, by a decision of the United States circuit court of appeals, won an important victory over the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The court reversed the decision rendered last by the western circuit court, which allowed the railroad company to oust the Western Union system and substitute the Postal along its lines, after a connection with the former since 1856, and to remove all the Western Union poles and wires and offices.

The decision was on an appeal taken by the telegraph company from the circuit court's decision. It does not settle the case finally, however. It sends it back to the lower tribunal for further proceedings. This means that the injunction taken out by the Western Union when it first received notice that the railroad intended to sever connection with it, will be reargued

Judges Acheson, Dallas and Gray heard the appeal. Judge Gray's opinion, explaining the decision, says, in effect, that the agreement entered into in 1856 seemed to imply that it was an agreement in perpetuity. The poles and cross arms, upon which the complainant telegraph company's wires were strung, were assuredly part of the railroad company's real estate, and the privilege given to string the wires was what is known as an "easement in gross.

FOG AIDED RUSSIANS.

Prevents Attack on Viadivostok Fleets Pass Each Other at Sea.

Vice Admiral Kamimura, who is in command of the Japanese squadron which has been operating recently bearing against Vladivostok, has sent in a report from Gen. San, Korea, dated Sunday, in book, which he says, that the impenetrable fog twice forced the abandonment of the attack on Viadivostok and twice spared the Russian squadron a sea fight.

While Kamimura was steaming north the first time he passed the Russian squadron bound south on the raid to Gen Sen, which resulted in the sinking of the Japanese merchant steamer Goyo Main and the trans-port Kinshin Maru. The Japanese and the Russian squadrons must have passed very close to each other, for the Japanese were conscious of the presence of the enemy. When Kamimura was compelled to suspend his attack upon Viadivostok he moved to the southward and again passed the Russians on their way north after the Gen Sen raid.

As soon as Kamimura returned to the Korean coast, he learned that the Kinshio Maru was missing and immediately returned to the search and pursue it. He found three boats belonging to the Kinshiu Maru floating at sea. He then detached some cruisers from his squadron and vessels discovered some Russian mines at Ismut. The Japanese cruis
