School Days

Are drawing near. Parents should have their children's eyes looked after and if glasses are needed have them fitted, so there will be no loss of time when school commences.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT FRIDAY. Lewis Yates Had Right Arm Torn Off on Picking Machine. Lewis Yates, an employe at the Reynoldsville Woolen Co. plant, had his right arm torn off above the elbow on a burr picker machine about 2.30 p. m. last Friday. The picking room is in a small brick building near the main building and Yates was in the picking room alone when the accident occurred, and his agonizing cries drew outsiders to the picking room before the employes of the mill knew of the distressing accident. The burr picker machine runs at a speed of 600 revolutions per minute and has teeth on it six inches long. The machine is covered so that there is no danger of a person getting caught in it, and no one is supposed to raise the lids to uncover the picker when it is running, but Yates was in a hurry and he kicked off the bolt, raised the lid and began wiping the cylinder before the machine stopped and his right arm was caught and torn off above the elbow. Mr. Yates' arm was bent so machine caught it at elbow and the hand and forearm were not torn to pieces. Mr. Yates' head was almost caught in the machine, as there are the marks of two teeth on right side of his head. Had the speed of the machine not been slackened considerable before the accident, Mr. Yates would have been instantly killed. The doctors amputated the stub of arm at the shoulder. Mr. Yates has a wife and two children. Had been an employe at the woolen mill four years.

The Koon-Korn Klub's Outing. The first annual outing of the Koon Korn Klub was held on Thursday evening of last week at the Reynoldsville Camping Club grounds adjoining the Stevenson farm in Beechwoods. The rigs began conveying the members to their destination at four o'clock and by the time the roll was called forty sturdy knights announced themselves as present and awaiting the command to begin operations on the product rendered immortal by our primeval natives. The repast served was one that would have tickled the palate of Epicurus himself, had he been fortunate enough to be present, and consisted of thirty-five of the present season's output from the homery, twenty-five dozens of roasting ears, coffee, rye bread, etcetera. While all did justice to the occasion in the eating line, yet it is stated on good authority that Albert Reynolds got away with three dozen ears of corn and two spring chickens. While this is a record of which any knight of the tilled stock may feel proud, yet "Damon" Tapper went him one better in the consumption of fowls.
