Rev. D. J. Frum, pastor of the Sykesville M. E. church, preached in the Reynoldsville M. E. church Sunday morning and evening, the pastor, Rev. J. A. Parsons, being absent. Rev. Frum is a good talker and the people were well pleased with his sermons.

William Brown, a citizen of DuBois, was accidentally killed Monday while out hunting. He and four or five other fellows were camping on Medix Run and one of the party shot at a pheasant and did not see Brown and the 28-caliber bullet passed through his neck. Brown lived two hours. He is survived by a widow and one child.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather the Thanksgiving services were attended by fully 250 people at the Baptist church. A splendid sermon was preached by Rev. A. D. McKay from Ps. 107-8. Excellent music was rendered by the choir for the occasion. Revs. J. A. Parsons, J. W. Myers and A. J. Meek took part in the services.

Preaching services will be held at Rathmel next Sunday afternoon at 3.30 by Rev. G. H. Hill, of Beechwoods, and Rev. A. D. McKay, of Reynoldsville. A conference meeting of the Presbyterian members will be held after preaching and it is hoped all Presbyterian members will be present as a matter of importance will come before them for their consideration.

Last Wednesday morning the pupils of the higher grades of the public schools were favored by the presence of Miss Grace Beard, the teacher of elocution in the Business College of this place, who gave several readings. These were highly appreciated and very hearty applause was given to the reader. Miss Beard is an artist who is fully in touch with her work and possesses that grace and ease in execution which are found in all first class readers.

The first car leaves Sykesville for Reynoldsville at 6.25 a. m. and every hour and ten minutes after that until 10.45 p. m., when last car leaves Sykesville for Reynoldsville.

Rev. T. G. Godwin, of Brookville, field Missionary in Jefferson county for the American Sunday school Union, organized a Sunday school at Wislaw last Sunday with H. M. Tedrick as superintendent; Mr. Wesson asst. superintendent; Miss Shankel secretary; Miss Bertha McKillip treasurer, and Miss Anna Bell librarian. Rev. Godwin has not been working this field very long. He organized four Sunday schools this month.

Killed Two Deer.

Constable C. M. Leach, of Rathmel, spent last week over in the wilds of Clearfield county with Ex-County Commissioner Samuel States and three or four other hunters looking for big game. They killed two deer, one of which was a big buck that weighed 220 pounds.

Large Elk Head.

William Shields, lumberman of Clarlington, Pa., has loaned the B. P. O. Elks of Reynoldsville a very large elk head, which arrived here Monday and will be used in decorating Centennial hall for the memorial services Sunday. Mr. Shields killed the elk in Idaho. The antlers have a spread of almost six feet.

Dissatisfied With the Paving.

A number of the property owners along the paved portion of Main street are dissatisfied with the brick paving done this fall and they will not pay the amount assessed to them without putting up a fight. A dozen or more of the property owners held a meeting last evening to consider the matter. There will be another meeting next week.

Birthday Surprise Party.

About thirty friends gave Mrs. O. H. Johnston, in West Reynoldsville, a birthday surprise party Monday evening, Nov. 28. It was a great surprise to Mrs. Johnston and her husband, as neither one of them knew anything about the party until the friends assembled. The ladies carried well filled baskets and excellent refreshments were served. Mrs. Johnston received several presents.

Died Suddenly.

Joseph Linegar died suddenly at home of James Hughes on Fourth street Monday morning, November 28, 1904, from heart trouble. Linegar was about fifty years old and was not married. He was porter for Mr. Hughes when he was proprietor of Hotel Hughes at Rathmel and after the hotel changed hands he continued as porter at same hotel for Daniel Wise two years. The body was taken to New Bethlehem Tuesday morning for burial. Mrs. John Croutbower, of Fairmont City, Pa., is a sister of the deceased.

O'Neill Lost Suit.

Patrick O'Neill, of Rathmel, who fell on Main street—Fourth street crossing—December 21, 1903, and broke his right leg above the ankle, brought suit against Reynoldsville borough for $10,000 damage. The case came up in the county court at Brookville on Monday at six o'clock last evening. The jury reached a verdict during the evening and reported to court this morning. The verdict was in favor of Reynoldsville borough and O'Neill was not granted any damage at all.

Elk's Memorial.

The B. P. O. Elks Lodge of Reynoldsville will hold their annual public memorial services in Centennial hall at 2.00 p. m. Sunday, December 4. The hall will be nicely decorated for the occasion. The program will consist of opening and closing exercises of the lodge, music by an orchestra, address by Hon. J. D. Dougherty, of Kittanning, eulogy on absent brothers by Lawyer Clement W. Fynn, of this place, solo by Miss Julia Kirk, solo, Will F. Herpel, singing by male quartette, Dr. Harry B. King, Frank P. Alexander, Will F. Herpel and John Thornton.

Shot the Wrong Man.

George Miller, a coal miner, got into a heated dispute with Thomas Calvert at the latter's home at Soldier Tuesday night of last week and a nephew of Calvert put Miller out of the house. About 1.00 a. m. Wednesday Miller returned with a shot gun and stood out side of the house and called Calvert, who stuck his head out of an upstairs window, and Miller shot at him, part of the load hitting him on left side of face. The nephew ran out of the house and Miller shot at him twice, but did not hit him. Miller claims he did not intend to shoot the old man, but thought he was shooting at young Calvert, the nephew. Miller came to Reynoldsville Wednesday and gave himself up to an officer and was taken to the county jail.

New Bridge Next Year.

The county has been petitioned to build a new bridge across Sandy Lick creek, at foot of Fifth street in this borough, and the court appointed three viewers to investigate the matter and see whether the county should build a new bridge. The viewers performed their work several weeks ago, mention of which was made in THE STAR at the time, and reported favorable for a new bridge. Such cases are always held over one court and there will be no action taken on this one until the January term of court. There is no doubt, however, but that the county commissioners will build the new bridge next spring. It is needed badly, as there is considerable heavy hauling over the present bridge, which is not substantial enough and which is nothing more than a temporary structure.

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH.

Little Daughter of W. E. Reed Fell into Pan of Hot Water.

Tamar Aldine Reed, aged sixteen months the 20th of this month, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Reed, fell backwards into a pan of hot water at 5.00 p. m. Wednesday, November 23, 1904, and died at 1.00 a. m. Thursday, eight hours after the accident. One of the boys, who works in the mines, had set the pan on the floor, poured hot water into it and was turning around to get some cold water when his little sister playfully attempted to catch him around the leg and she accidentally fell backwards into the hot water. Her entire back, from neck down, was horribly scalded. Funeral service was held at home of the bereaved parents on Railroad street at 2.00 p. m. Saturday, conducted by Rev. J. C. McEntire. It was a large funeral. Interment was made in the Reynoldsville cemetery.

The following out of town relatives and friends attended the funeral: John H. Williams and wife, John T. Williams, Mrs. Eliza Pounds and Rosie Williams, of Puxsuttawney, Daniel Hopkins and wife, of Eleanor, Robert Barker and wife, of Rossiter, and James Powell, of Barnesboro.

Harvest Home Exercises.

The Harvest Home exercises at the Baptist church Sunday evening were a grand success. The platform and baptistry were decorated with potatoes, apples, pumpkins, carrots, turnips, canned fruits, coffee, wheat, corn on the stalk, etc. A splendid program was rendered, consisting of songs, recitations, etc. Miss L. Grace Beard, teacher of elocution in the Business College, gave an excellent selection entitled "Scotland's Maiden Martyr." The auditorium and lecture room were filled with an attentive and appreciative audience. After the exercises had progressed for 25 minutes the electric lights went out and the auditorium was dimly lighted for the finishing of the program for 45 minutes with two gas jets on either side of the pulpit platform.

The Moving Pictures.

Hadley's exhibition of moving pictures at the Armory Wednesday evening surpassed the rosiest anticipations of the management. The drill-room floor was completely filled by a refined, cultured and appreciative audience. Each number was received with well-deserved applause. The scenes portrayed were numerous, varied and satisfactorily acceptable. The fluttering or flickering was not nearly so noticeable as in previous exhibitions. It would, to the most exacting critic, be a difficult problem to decide which illustration was the most worthy of honest endorsement. All the pictures were not only eminently satisfactory, but it was also evident that they had in Mr. Hadley the guiding spirit of master-hand.—Wilkes-Barre News, Oct. 9, 1903. At the Reynolds opera house December 13 under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Died at Gallitzin.

Richard C. Edelblute, son of N. G. Edelblute, of Puxsuttawney, and brother of Owen J. Edelblute, proprietor of the National Hotel, in this place, died at Gallitzin, Pa., at 6.00 a. m. yesterday, November 29. Mr. Edelblute, of this place, started for Gallitzin at 8.40 Monday evening but did not arrive there until after his brother had died. The body will be brought here on the 12.40 p. m. trolley to-day and taken to Brookville on the 1.29 p. m. train over the P. R. R. Funeral services will be held at the Edelblute homestead on Main street, Brookville, at 2.30 p. m. Friday. Deceased was unmarried and was about 32 years old.

A Friend in Town.

The Peninsular Hot Blast heating stove burns soft coal in a way peculiar to itself. It is economical in burning and gives the greatest amount of heat for fuel consumed. A special feature of its construction is the cleanliness in which it can be operated. It will prove a warm friend in cold weather. Reynolds Hardware Co.

Found Dead in a Field.

Martha Isabella Bollinger, who lived with her brother, Samuel Bollinger, and a sister, Lizzie, on the old Bollinger homestead near Panic, was found dead in a field some distance from the residence Saturday, November 26, 1904.

Martha had been melancholy for a few weeks, but her relatives did not consider her case serious. Friday evening Martha was not ready to retire at the usual time and told her sister to go to bed and she would soon follow her. About eleven o'clock Lizzie awoke and not finding Martha in bed got up to look for her. The lamp was burning, the outside door unlocked, but Martha could not be found and did not respond when her name was called. The family searched for her and then called neighbors who joined in the search, but they could not find her. It was about 1.00 p. m. Saturday when her lifeless body was found in the field. Martha was subject to heart failure and the supposition is that she started over the field and died from heart failure.

Martha Isabella Bollinger was born June 24, 1860, and was 44 years, 5 months and 2 days old. She survived by three brothers, David, Joseph and Samuel, and four sisters. Her father, mother and two sisters preceded her to the Great Beyond. She was born and spent the greater part of her life on the farm where she died.

Funeral service was held in the Paradise Methodist Episcopal church at 11.00 a. m. Monday, conducted by Rev. J. C. McEntire, of Reynoldsville, and interment was made in Syphrit cemetery.

A New Industry.

Mr. Geo. F. Cole, president of the Cole Manufacturing Co., of Chicago, was in town last week and stated that if the demand for Cole's Original Hot Blast stoves continued to increase as it had for the past year or two, it would in all probability be necessary for his company to establish a factory at this point in order to enable them to properly supply the enormous trade.

Eleven years ago the Cole Manufacturing Co. invented and placed on the market Cole's Original Hot Blast stove. Foreseeing that this stove was destined to revolutionize the construction of coal stoves in the United States, they had every valuable feature of it fully covered by patents which prevents any other stove manufacturers from making a stove of this type. The stove was a success from the start and to-day there is scarcely a town, village or hamlet in the United States in which Cole's Original Hot Blast is not sold. The demand increased so rapidly that it soon became necessary for them to provide greater facilities for manufacturing, and from one small factory with a capacity of 50,000 stoves per annum at that time, they now own and operate twelve large factories with a capacity of 70,000 stoves daily, which is more than double the combined output of any ten other stove companies in the United States. With these twelve factories running day and night the year around they are unable to fill more than 75 per cent of their orders, and this inability to fill their orders has been much more noticeable since the Keystone Hardware Company, near Postoffice, Reynoldsville Pa., commenced selling their stoves.

Mr. Cole predicts that it will only be a question of a year or two until there will be very few, if any, coal heating stoves sold outside of Cole's Original Hot Blast from Chicago, the original and only genuine hot blast stove made to-day in the United States. In fact it has practically reached that stage in Reynoldsville at the present time, which is not surprising, considering the car load after car load of these wonderful stoves that are sold each season by the Keystone Hardware Company.

There are some thirty or forty ash pan imitations of this stove, called "hot blasts," and offered for sale on the reputation of Cole's Original, but, of course, none of them have the important patented features which has made Cole's so popular, and which are absolutely necessary to make a perfect hot blast stove, and as people soon get to understand the difference between a genuine article and a counterfeit, the imitations cut a very small figure in the stove business.

Accidentally Shot in Leg.

William Carl, aged thirteen years, son of J. A. Carl, formerly of Reynoldsville, now residing at Niagara Falls, N. Y., was accidentally shot in right leg, six inches below the thigh, last Saturday, November 26. The ball has not been removed. William was helping a neighbor boy cut wood and some other boys were nearby fooling with a 22-caliber target gun which was accidentally discharged with above result. We were informed by letter yesterday that William is getting along as well as can be expected.
