ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Hall Beautifully Decorated - Excellent Order of Exercises - Large Attendance.

The B. P. O. Elks' memorial exercises in Centennial hall last Sunday afternoon in memory of the Absent Brothers, John D. Nolan, Edward B. Phalen and William Degnan, was attended by an audience too large for the seating capacity of the hall and a number of persons had to stand during the services. The platform was beautifully decorated with purple and white bunting, the Elks colors, palms, elk heads, &c. The order of exercises was as follows: March by orchestra; opening ceremonies of the Lodge in charge of Exalted Ruler D. R. Cochran; song, "Asleep," by male quartette, Dr. Harry B. King, Frank P. Alexander, John Thornton and Will P. Hoppel; Elks' opening ode, "Great Ruler of the Universe;" invocation, Rev. Dr. A. J. Parsons, pastor of the M. E. church; solo, "There's a Beautiful Land on High," by Miss Julia Kirk; "Apple Blossoms," by orchestra; Memorial address, Mr. J. D. Dougherty of Kittanning Lodge No. 203; solo, "A Dream of Paradise," by Will P. Hoppel; eulogy, Lawyer Clement W. Flynn, of Reynoldsville; song, "The Beautiful Country," by quartette; "Smiles and Carresses," by orchestra; closing ceremonies by Lodge; Doxology; benediction by Rev. Dr. A. J. Meek, pastor of the Baptist church.

The exercises lasted two hours and were impressive. The large audience was very attentive. The memorial address was excellent. Mr. Dougherty said he was not sermonizing, yet his address was full of gospel truths that should make every thinking man better for having heard it. Lawyer Flynn's eulogy on the Absent Brothers, all schoolmates of the eulogist, was fine. The entire exercises were good.

Barn and Calves Burned.

About two o'clock Monday morning, Dec. 5, Curt Wells, who lives on the J. M. Deemer farm in Winslow township, not far from this place, discovered the barn on fire and only succeeded in getting his cows, team of mules, wagon and harness out of the barn. The fall crops, farm implements and three calves were burned in the barn. The origin of the fire is unknown. The fire apparently started in the hay mow, as the entire mow was on fire when discovered.

Small Blaze.

Thursday forenoon a small blaze was discovered on the roof of J. P. Haskin & Son's music store building. By quick work on the part of Mr. Haskin and son, Arthur, five or six buckets of water extinguished the fire before the fire company got to scene of fire. A hole about three feet square was burned in the roof. The wind was blowing strong at the time and had the fire not been discovered when it was it is likely there would have been a big fire, as there are six or seven frame buildings in a bunch in that section.

Business Change.

Charles Bergquist has bought P. T. Walsh's grocery store and building in West Reynoldsville. He has taken charge of the store and will move his family from Shawmut to West Reynoldsville this week. Mr. Walsh conducted a grocery store in Reynoldsville a number of years, selling out ten years ago and moved to New Castle, where he was in business seven years, returning to Reynoldsville about three years ago. Patey understands the grocery business and has many friends in this place who like to deal with him. Mr. Walsh does not know yet just where he will locate, but it is his intention now of going to California next month. He says "I am getting tired of living in this section of country where you freeze to death in the winter and roast in the summer."

THE CONTRACT WAS LET.

McKain Hurl to Build the New M. E. Church at this Place.

Last Friday night the trustees of the Reynoldsville Methodist Episcopal church let the contract for the new stone church to be erected at this place next year. McKain Hurl, of Punxsutawney, was given the contract. The contractors of Reynoldsville did not put in a bid. The contract price for new church is $25,000. No one will deny the statement that the Methodists need a new church, and if each member will do all they can in a financial way towards building the church, with what assistance will be given by friends of the church, the $25,000 can be raised to pay for it, but it will be necessary for each member of the church to be as liberal as possible. When the new church is completed it will be a credit to the town.

An Old Settler Gone to His Rest.

On Thursday, Dec. 1, at 5.00 a. m., James McGee, an old pioneer settler in Jefferson county, passed away. James S. McGee was born in Beechwoods March 28, 1835, and died Dec. 1, 1904, at his home in Sandy Valley. The greater part of his life was spent in Jefferson county, with the exception of three years of army life and two or more years spent in the west. He was a member of Company B, 105th Regiment, of which A. H. Tracy was captain, and participated in forty-two battles and skirmishes until he was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness.

On the 8th of August, 1865, Mr. McGee was married to Elizabeth Boner, daughter of Charles Boner, of Stanton, Pa. Six children have blessed this union, two of whom preceded their father to their eternal home. The four surviving children are: Miss Anna M. and Charles P. at home, Mattie, now Mrs. Fleming, is living at Eleaora, and James, jr., who is married and is living near the home of his parents.

Very few of Jefferson county's citizens have lived a more eventful or busier life than Mr. McGee. Though the last weeks of his life were filled with suffering he still maintained an air of cheerfulness which was deceiving to the outsider and many of his friends were surprised to learn of his death.

Mr. McGee was a member of the U. B. church and died consistent with his faith. A friend to all, he will be sadly missed in our community, but much more so in the home made desolate by his death. Funeral services were held at the home Saturday, conducted by Rev. J. C. McEntire, of Reynoldsville. Interment was made in the Epworth cemetery at Sandy Valley. Many friends of the deceased were present from a distance while the neighbors for many miles around assembled to pay their last tribute to one they had known so long. The casket bore a beautiful Maltese cross of flowers presented by John C. Conser Women's Relief Corps No. 75 of Reynoldsville in honor of the soldier dead.

Death of Wm. Moore.

William Moore, a highly respected lumberman and farmer, who resided near Corsica, and father of our townsman, W. Harry Moore, grocerman, died suddenly at his home at 6.00 a. m. Friday, December 2, 1904, from heart trouble. Mr. Moore had not been in good health for several months, but was feeling comparatively well Thursday evening and on Friday morning while lying in bed told his wife he had a good night's rest. While dressing himself he fell over on the bed and his wife asked him if he was not feeling well, but he did not answer her and in a few seconds he was dead.

William Moore was born near Corsica and would have been 66 years old the 22nd of next month. He was an elder in the Pisgah Presbyterian church at Corsica twenty-five years or more. He was a farmer and lumberman. Funeral service was held at the family residence at 10.00 a. m. Monday, conducted by Rev. F. P. Brift, pastor of deceased for many years.

Mr. Moore is survived by his widow, four sons and two daughters, as follows: John Moore, merchant of Corsica, W. H. Moore, merchant of Reynoldsville, Warren Moore, farmer near Corsica, Misses Ella and Sarah Moore and Elmer Moore, at home.

USEFUL LIFE ENDED

MRS. CLARA DEAN DIED WEDNESDAY OF LAST WEEK.

Had Been Ill Several Months. - Funeral in Reynoldsville Baptist Church Saturday was Largely Attended. - Interment in Reynoldsville Cemetery.

Mrs. Clara Dean, wife of Rev. J. E. Dean, died at her beautiful country home on Wednesday, Nov. 30, 1904, at 12.00 o'clock noon after a lingering illness of several months. She was the daughter of Jonathan and Sarah Furman, deceased. She was born near Strattonville, Clarion county, Pa., May 1st, 1830. Early in life she made a profession of religion and was baptized at the age of 16 years in Pine Creek, by Rev. Thomas E. Thomas. She united with the Zion, now Gettysburg, Baptist church, and lived in consistent and devoted christian life until her death. She was a woman of faith, prayer and works. She was married Aug. 10, 1854, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Permelia Caraban, near New Lebanon, Mercer county, Pa., to the Rev. J. E. Dean, of Lawrence county, Pa. She was in full sympathy with her husband in his pastoral and ministerial labor and was a help mate in the broadest sense of the term. To this union of heart and hand were born nine children, two of whom, viz. Onas Vitellus and Carrie Anna, preceded her into the Spirit World. The surviving children are: N. F. Dean, Rathmel; Miss Lizzie, at home; Mrs. Permelia Adel Williams, Ridgeway; Mrs. Ida E. McKee, Rathmel; Charles T. Dean, New Kensington; Mrs. Clara A. Perry, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. M. Myrta Ren, Rathmel.

Sister Dean, with her husband, lived to see all their children unite with the Baptist church. She, for several years, did not enjoy the best of health yet she attended divine services whenever her health would permit. Only a few weeks prior to her death she was found in the house of the Lord where she worshipped with the people for the last time on earth. She was always anxious that her family should attend divine services every Sabbath. Her death was the death of the righteous. She peacefully passed away in the arms of her husband who was almost constantly at her side ministering to her comforts. She died without a struggle. The night before her death she sang for the last time, "Will any one then at the beautiful gate be watching and waiting for me." This was one of her favorite hymns and was the last hymn sang at her funeral. Less than an hour before death she said to her husband, "They are watching for me. I have two children there. Just a few minutes before death closed her eyes her daughter, Miss Lizzie, who was devoted to her mother and was quick to perceive her needs, prepared dinner for her and took it to her bedside, but she could not eat as death was at hand and she peacefully fell asleep.

Brother and Sister Dean were highly favored of the Lord. By economy and thrift they were the owners of a fine farm and a beautiful home, and on the 10th day of last August were permitted to celebrate their golden wedding. The tie that bound them in holy wedlock more than fifty years ago is now broken, but their separation cannot be long. Sister Dean was a woman of sterling worth and of an unblemished character. She was charitable, hospitable and kind. She combined those qualities which endeared her to all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was highly esteemed. She was a model wife and mother and will be missed in her home and among her friends.

Funeral services were held in the Reynoldsville Baptist church, of which she had been a member for more than a quarter of a century, on December 3, at 2.00 p. m., conducted by her pastor, Rev. Dr. A. J. Meek, assisted by Rev. J. Booth, of Reynoldsville, Rev. Chas. H. Fitzwilliams, of Punxsutawney, Rev. A. D. McKay, pastor of Presbyterian church Reynoldsville, Rev. J. W. Crawford, of Sykesville, Rev. Dr. J. A. Parsons, pastor of the M. E. church, of Reynoldsville, Rev. J. C. McEntire, of DuBois, and Rev. I. S. Hankins, of DuBois. Rev. McGee had been an acquaintance of Rev. Dean and wife for more than fifty years and spoke feelingly of their friendship. Her pastor preached a short sermon from Luke 20: 36, "They are equal unto the Angels." With sadness her remains were conveyed to the Reynoldsville cemetery where they were laid to rest. All their children were present at the funeral except Mrs. Williams, who for some years has been confined to her home.

Brother Dean and his family have the sincere sympathy of their numerous friends. Her chair is vacant. She has gone to her happy home where she in turn will be watching and waiting for the home coming of her loved ones. "There remaineth, therefore, a rest for the people of God." She has entered into that rest. Her toils and cares are over. She will ever live in the hearts of the dear ones from whom she is separated for but a short season.

BOY SCALDED TO DEATH.

Fell Backwards Into a Leach of Hot Liquor at Tannery.

About eight o'clock Monday evening Leon Zintack, ten-year-old son of Paul Zintack, an employe at the tannery, fell into a leach of hot liquor at the tannery and was so badly burned that he died at 3.55 a. m. yesterday, Dec. 7, 1904, about eight hours after the accident. Leon and a brother two years older went to the tannery to take a lunch to another brother who works in the leach house, and instead of leaving the leach house immediately, which they were supposed to do, as boys are not allowed in the tannery, they began playing and the distressing and horrible accident was the result. He fell backwards into the leach, with his feet out over the edge, but the leach was full of hides and he succeeded in keeping his body out of the liquor. He was scalded from his chin down to his knees. Some parts of his body were so terribly scalded that the skin and flesh peeled off with the clothing.

A Citizens' Meeting

Will probably be called in the near future to devise some means whereby Reynoldsville can secure another industry. The writer, along with a majority of other citizens of the town, is always glad to hear of some industry that is planned to locate here, and the writer only speaks the sentiment of the entire town when he says that we ever stand ready to assist any capitalist that are looking for a site to start some enterprise that would be a benefit to our little city. While this is all true, we should be more cautious in the future than we have been in the past in getting started right. In reading THE STAR last week we noticed an article headed "A New Industry." In reading down the column we soon discovered that the promoter would build or manufacture a Hot Blast Stove. This stove, if the writer is correctly informed, would have no ash pan. It also would have a short fire bowl, which will certainly shorten the life of the stove. The next objection would be, it has no door to illuminate the room. This would be something like buying a house before being permitted to see the inside. Another bad feature about this stove is the removing of the hood before being able to feed it with coal. These are some of the disadvantages, and we doubt very much if our citizens can afford to encourage an enterprise that manufactures an article which would only have a temporary existence. These drawbacks on the stove, if you will permit the term, are to be regretted very much, no doubt the promoter above spoken of has spent considerable time in erecting a stove that would last. One of the writer's principal reasons for being cautious as to what kind of an industry we secure is this: Our town is now on a fair way to prosperity and the kind of industries we have all manufacture a staple article. The first of these to locate here was Hoppel Bros.' machine shop, which was built larger last year. Next was the tan, nery, which runs the year round. Next the Reynoldsville woolen mill, then the silk mill, which runs every day in the year except Sundays and holidays. Then came the large glass factory, which employs 250 men. Then the two brick plants and pottery, next the Sykes woolen mills, and last but not least, the steel plant, which is being pushed to completion. And if our citizens could induce a stove manufacturer to locate here who manufactures a stove something like the "Peninsula" Hot Blast, that has a heavy cast lining running nearly to the top of the stove, has a large ash pan that permits you to lift the ashes with perfect cleanliness, and a door that fits air tight and has mica glass that illuminates the room and is protected with a wire gauze, can be fed without disturbing the hood, is nicely mounted with nickel and can be used with ordinary use fifteen years - to secure an industry of this kind would certainly be a godsend to the town. It would require about twenty-five acres of land, as it would require three buildings. First the building where the double cast fire bowl is cast; this department would employ 300 men. Next is the building that makes the sheet steel for the ash pan; this department would require 100 men. Next building is where the mica glass is manufactured for the door; this would require 100 men, making a total of 500 men with a weekly pay roll of $2,500.00. The Reynoldsville Hardware Company, who are at present sole agents for this great Hot Blast stove, with their two large stores, one at this place and one at Sykesville, Pa., would still continue to supply the great demand for these stoves. This stove has many improvements over other Hot Blast stoves and is far ahead of the one that has no ash pan as the electric lights are ahead of the candle. - It
